It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

REPORT.

OFFICE OF FACTORY INSPECTOR,

ALBANY, N. Y., January 23, 1899.

To the Legislature:

In presenting the Thirteenth Annual Report of the Factory Inspector, we feel that a few preliminary remarks on the work of factory inspection in general will not be out of place. The work of the Department for 1898, of which this report is a treatise, demonstrates more clearly than has the work of any preceding year the very marked advance which factory inspection has made in public favor, and the positive friendly hold which the inspection of factory and workshop has taken on the minds of the people of our State in general. This very beneficial effect can easily be traced to the great care which has characterized the administration of the Department for the past two years in its treatment of the laws entrusted to it for enforcement, consisting principally of an even application of the provisions of the statute and studied attention to and consideration for the interests of all persons affected by them. This, we assert, is responsible for the marked advance made in the work of factory inspection in this State. No greater assurance of public favor could be given the laws of factory inspection than the very exhaustive reference and extended comment to them made by Governor Roosevelt in his first message, together with the logical recommendations for their still better enforcement which the Governor submits for the consideration of the Legislature—in all of which recommendations we heartily concur.

LAWS.

The laws of factory inspection are very important in many ways and to a variety of interests. Laboring men, in particular, demand that the laws be fully enforced for their own protection—but they must be intelligently and justly administered, or injury to the interests of the employer might result, which, in turn, would be hurtful to the worker.

The present Tenement-house Inspection Law, while forceful, is not entirely satisfactory, for the reason that it does not fully meet the requirements of the worst conditions in this class of work with which the inspector is often called upon to deal. The present law does not give the Department that complete control of the subject which it should. We have prepared and placed in the hands of the Statutory Revision Commission for correction, etc., a bill which we believe, if enacted into law, will meet the desired requirements. During the past two years the officers of the Department have been most diligent in their endeavors to bring both the employer and the employe to a better and more intimate understanding of the law. The Codified Labor Law enacted in 1897 stands in marked contrast to former like enactments. The statute as at present arranged is clear and free from ambiguity, and, in consequence, is easier to enforce; the scope of the law is broader and its provisions are simplified. These facts are made apparent in the entire absence of any legal contests against the enforcement of any of its provisions since it has been on the statute. The revised law of 1897 gives the Department better control over the subjects to which it relates than did the repealed law. This is as it should be, for it leaves the Department very little or no chance to shift any of its responsibilities to other shoulders. We think the law can, with beneficial results, and with little or no additional cost or trouble, be still further broadened and its provisions extended.

In our last report we called attention to the employment of children under 16 years of age on or about dangerous machinery. In our opinion this can be stopped, by legal enactment, without injury to any interests and with great benefit to the child. The place for the boy or girl under 16 years of age is in school; but, if circumstances are so cruel as to force the child into the shop or factory, then the State is fully justified in legally guarding the child from the risk of being made a cripple for life, by forbidding its employment on any kind of dangerous machinery.

We also mentioned in our former report that the working hours of all women employed at factory work should be restricted to ten hours per day or sixty hours per week. The older woman is not always the best able to bear the burden of long hours of toil. We repeat our recommendations in this respect.

There are more children of school age employed in mercantile establishments, Italian barber shops and offices than there are in all the manufacturing establishments in the State combined. The Mercantile Law is a dead letter, and it is made so through local influences. If the young children employed in all these places outside of the factory and workshop, are in the future to walk in the path of respectability and good citizenship, they must be forced by legal enactment to attend school rather than the places of employment outside of it. It is just as necessary that these children should receive an education, as it is for those who are forbidden by law to be employed in manufactories, bakeshops, etc.

We think it would be a very just and wise precaution if the factory laws were amended so as to compel engineers and firemen, in charge of engines and boilers in connection with factories, to show a practical knowledge of their particular duties by having on file in the place of employment a license or other valid evidence of their fitness to have charge of and manage engines and boilers in such places. The risk to life is too great to allow, for a single hour, an ignorant or incompetent person to have charge of an engine or boiler connected with a manufacturing establishment. Section 124 of the Labor Law, which relates to the inspection of mines, gives the Department this power. The section reads:

§ 124. Inspection of steam boilers and apparatus; steam and water-gauges.—All boilers used in generating steam for mining purposes shall be kept in good order, and the owner, agent, manager or lessee of such mine shall have such boilers inspected by a competent person, approved by the Factory Inspector, once in six months, and shall file a certificate showing the result thereof in the mine office and a duplicate thereof in the office of the Factory Inspector.

In this connection, the Factory Department should have power to force an inspection and careful examination of boilers found in use in factories, which are neither insured nor regularly inspected. During the year last past the officers of the Department on their rounds of inspection have given careful attention to the condition of steam boilers found in use in connection with manufactories outside of Greater New York. They report finding 4,161 boilers in use, of which number 2,046 were both insured and regularly inspected; 498 were regularly inspected but were not insured; and 1,617 boilers were found which were neither inspected nor insured. The above figures show that fully 39 per cent. of all the boilers found in use in manufacturing establishments were treated in a careless and negligent manner. We submit that this percentage of possible risk to human life and limb, from such a fearfully destructive force as boiler explosions, is altogether too great to be allowed to pass without attention.

BOILER EXPLOSION, GRAVES ELEVATOR COMPANY, ROCHESTER, N. Y., NOVEMBER 22, 1897.

The Massachusetts Department is not only vested with power to examine boilers and engines, but it is also given the additional authority to examine and pass upon the capability and fitness of the men who are to care for and operate them. The New York State Department of Factory Inspection should be clothed with like powers.

OPERATIONS OF THE LAW.

The operations of the provisions of the Child Labor Law are very satisfactory in all respects and in all parts of the State.

The amended Mining Law of this State has proved to be of great benefit to all persons employed in the very hazardous work of mining, in the protection which its enforcement has brought to them. Nor are the employes alone the beneficiaries of this humane law—the owners of mining property have derived much practical benefits in applying the reasonable and sensible suggestions offered them by the Department. No part of the work of the Department speaks so highly, nor affords a better illustration of the benefits and advantages of State supervision and inspection, than does that part of it which relates to the inspection of mines.

A marked improvement is constantly going on in bakeshops situated in all parts of the State. It has been a laborious task teaching the occupants of bakeries the public necessity of neatness and cleanliness in connection with their business, but we are pleased to be able to report much satisfactory progress in this line of our work. We respectfully direct attention to the subjoined reports appertaining to the various subjects which are by law referred to the Department for attention and enforcement.

The greatest source of satisfaction, which we are with pleasure obliged to acknowledge, is the efficiency and fidelity of the force of inspectors and other employes in the Department acting under our direction. The work of the Department is enormous and with always still more to be done; what has been done has been done well, but only by and through the faithfulness of those who have been associated with us in the work.

We wish to acknowledge the valuable assistance rendered, and the many courtesies extended to the Factory Inspection Department, by the Attorney-General and his assistants, for advice and counsel, which were of material aid to us in the prosecution of our duties.

INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF FACTORY INSPECTORS.

It has been our privilege each year to permit a delegation from this Department to attend the convention of the International Association of Factory Inspectors. These gatherings can not be too highly commended for their instructive features, composed as they are of people of extensive experience from all the States and Provinces. Every question presented for consideration is treated with a breadth of logical reasoning that has from the very inception of these gatherings proved that the International Convention is a fruitful source of assistance to factory inspection in general.

We respectfully direct attention to the appendix to this report, where will be found the proceedings of the late convention of the association held in Boston, and at which ninety-two inspectors from the States and Provinces were in attendance.

We are pleased to here give special prominence to the following resolutions which were adopted by the association:

FOR EXTENSION OF FACTORY INSPECTION DEPART- MENTS.

Recognizing the fact that factory legislation has been a benefit to the wage-worker and manufacturer in the various States and

Provinces, where such laws have been enacted, and believing that such laws, if passed by the various Legislatures of the different States and Provinces not having same at present, would be a benefit not only to the employe but to the employer as well; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the incoming president, vice-president and secretary be instructed to use all honorable means to have such laws prepared, placed before and passed by the various Legislatures of the different States and Provinces not so represented, so that the beneficial laws under which the members of this association work may be extended over our entire country.

FOR UNIFORMITY OF FACTORY LAWS.

Uniformity of law in the various States and Provinces as to the age limits of children, number of hours of labor, etc., being acknowledged by most of the delegates to be the most beneficial both to the employe and employer; be it

Resolved, That the incoming officers of this association and chiefs of departments of various States and Provinces, be requested to use all honorable means to have such a state of affairs become law in the various States and Provinces, to the end that all the workers and manufacturers be put on a more equitable basis, thus avoiding the present disadvantages under which they work.

FOR RESTRICTED IMMIGRATION.

Whereas, The factory inspectors of the various States, have learned from the results of their labors, that the inefficiency of our immigration laws are responsible for the surprising increase of a very undesirable class of people in our factories and workshops, forming a menace to the health of our citizens, the rights of our laboring men and women, and the welfare of society at large; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the International Association of Factory Inspectors, in convention assembled, request that the chiefs of the department of factory inspection of the various States, recommend in their next annual report to the Governor of their respective States, that he call the attention of the legislative bodies to this existing evil, asking them to pass such resolutions as they may deem proper, calling upon Congress to enact such laws as will control and restrict the immigration of this class of people landing upon our shores.

The above three subjects are heartily approved by the New York State Department. We believe that every State should have a Factory Inspection Department, for in that event manufacturers would be placed on a common level. For the same reason we are earnestly in favor of uniform legislation on all subjects pertaining to the inspection of factories, and, as already explained in two preceding reports, we are in favor of restricting immigration of the undesirable classes of foreigners who come here not to assimilate with our people, but in their desire for wealth, become a menace to our industrial population.

COMPLAINTS.

In the last two annual reports of the Department we devoted considerable space in an effort to convey to the public an idea of the necessity, when sending a complaint to the bureau, of making clear and specific any information given. The advice offered appears to have made but a poor impression, if we are to judge by the record of complaints below reported. But, if the feelings of the workers and others who are interested in the laws of factory inspection, can be gauged by the number and character of the complaints filed with the Department, then we must conclude that the year 1898 was the most satisfactory to all concerned in the work of factory inspection of any in the history of the Department. There was filed in the Department—and thoroughly investigated—589 complaints; 272 of this number were fully sustained upon investigation, and 29 were partly sustained, as follow: Labor organizations filed 38, of which number 18 were found to be valid. Other societies sent us 130, of which 70 were sustained. Individuals filed 148 over their own names, of which 111 were found to be true. Of anonymous complaints we received 273, of which number only 138 were found to be valid and correct. Against violations of the Factory Law 384 complaints were entered, and 181 were found to be true; against violations of the Tenement House Law, 164 complaints were made, and 76 of that number were found to be valid. Against violations of the Bake-shop Law 41 complaints were filed and only 15 of that number were truthful. The various separate subjects to which these complaints referred were as follows:

SUBJECT.	Total number.	Sustained.
Overtime.....	63	28
Child labor.....	59	25
Water closets.....	74	38
Light and ventilation.....	17	10

We call attention in a special manner to the fact disclosed by the above record that not a single complaint appears against unguarded machinery of any kind, and it may be well to notice also that not a single word of complaint comes from the miners in connection with their work, the surrounding conditions of which are the most hazardous and dangerous of any with which the Bureau has to deal.

Three complaints, not classified in this record, came from employers against employes for neglecting and refusing to use guards which had been provided for their protection. In every case the employes were made to comply with the law.

CHILD LABOR.

If no definite figures were available on the subject, the small number of complaints received by the Department would still be sufficient to forcefully demonstrate that there are no abuses of child labor existing in the manufactories of New York State. A slight rise in percentage, over that of last year, is shown, there being an increase of one-tenth per cent., or from 1.8 per cent. in 1897 to 1.9 per cent. in 1898. There is a marked falling off in illiterate children found at work, also in the number found without certificates. An increase is noted in the number of children under 14 years of age. The total number of children reported at work is 13,086, against 11,174 in 1897, but the total number of persons found employed last year is increased by 76,718. This change in the figures is due entirely to the more thorough and systematic manner by which the cities of the State were inspected last year, or during 1898. The block system of inspecting was put in force, and as a result our totals are very largely increased.

When our tables on clothing for 1897 were compiled, we could scarcely credit the results therein set down. This doubt caused us to give special instructions to the inspectors to look very closely into the subject of the employment of children in all places where articles of clothing were found to be manufactured. As a result the number of children found illegally employed this year is insignificant, only nine illiterates and five children under 14 years of age are reported as having been found in all these places, while last year the figures were 75 illiterates and 87 children under 14 years of age.

We find an increase of 331 in the whole number of children under 16 years but over 14 years employed in the clothing industry, and, curiously enough, we find the major portion of this increase of child labor in the clothing trade to be outside New York and Brooklyn; an increase of 83 is shown for those cities, and 248 for all places in the State outside of them. In manufactories outside of the clothing trade, we find an increase in child labor of 1,581 persons. In the territory embracing the first and second factory districts, namely, the counties of New York, Kings, Queens, Richmond and Suffolk, there is found to be a falling off of 313 in the number of children under 16 years of age reported employed in factories. This decrease added to the total increase would show that child labor in factories outside of the first and second districts had increased by 2,225 persons.

This increase is hardly an honest one from the fact that the addition comes from the inspection of canning factories situated in the up-State districts; the children found employed in them were nearly all of school age, and, because of the additional fact, that they were so employed only during the vacation of the public schools, and in consequence were not disturbed in their employment. In 1897 the inspectors did not reach the canning factories until late in the season, at which time they were closed or closing for the year; and, in consequence, no great number of children were found employed in them. This year these places were inspected while in full blast, hence the increased number of children noted above.

In regular factories running throughout the entire year there is a decline in the number of children employed in them, as compared with our statistics for 1897. In New York the inspectors claim that sufficient care is not taken to get the correct and exact age of the child, especially so in the case of foreign-born children. The parent will lie about the age of the child and swear to it in order to get a certificate from the Board of Health which will enable the child to secure employment. Then the child is taught to lie to the inspector when he finds him at work. A contributory cause to this complaint is the action of notaries, who are willing, for the price obtained for making out an affidavit as to age—and which price ranges from twenty-five cents to two dollars—to aid the parent in evading the law. These affidavits are accepted by the Board of Health as sufficient evidence that the child is entitled to a work certificate. In one instance we forced a notary to refund a fee of two dollars, which he had charged for filling out an age affidavit blank. In our judgment the license of every notary should be revoked if it could be unquestionably shown that he had aided in any manner to bring about an evasion of the provisions of the law relating to the employment of children.

By an understanding with the superintendents of schools throughout the State, harmonious action between the officers of the schools and the inspectors in this Department has been brought about, tending to a better enforcement of the Child Labor Law and the attendance at school of children of school age. The Factory Inspector forces the child found illegally employed out of the workshop, and by notifying the school authorities in the locality, the attendance officer sees to it that the child is placed in school. This is a very agreeable and fruitful arrangement, and gives force and effect to both the Child Labor Laws and the Compulsory Education Law.

The following blank form, for notifying school authorities, was prepared by the Department and is now in the hands of all inspectors and is being used as above indicated:

STATE OF NEW YORK

DEPARTMENT OF FACTORY INSPECTION

....., 189..

To the School Authorities of.....

Please take notice that I this day found the following named

No. .... Street.

The same being of school age and subject to the provisions of Sec. 3 of the Compulsory Education Law, is hereby respectfully referred to you for attention, as directed by said law.

Albany, N. Y.

We are pleased with the manner and promptness with which the boards of health in all parts of the State have done their duty in filing duplicate certificates with the Department. From the first and second factory districts 5,497 certificates have been filed, while the up-State districts furnished 7,862; among this number are included certificates issued during the vacation of the public schools.

The Child Labor Laws and the Compulsory Education Laws of New York State are very clear, comprehensive and forceful, and they are being applied in such a manner that the end for which they were enacted is being obtained in a way which should fully satisfy all who are concerned and interested in these very beneficent statutes.

HOURS OF LABOR.

Under the provisions of section 77 of the Factory Inspection Law, it is a misdemeanor for any manufacturer to allow any female under 21 years of age, or any male under 18 years of age, to be employed more than ten hours per day, or for a total of more than sixty hours per week, or such number of hours for the entire week as will make an average of not more than ten hours per day for the whole number of days so worked. Nor can such persons be employed before 6 o'clock in the morning or after 9 o'clock in the evening of any day, except for one purpose—that of making a shorter workday on Saturday, the last day of the week. Special attention has been paid to this section of the law by every inspector in the Department, and with very satisfactory results.

As shown by the record of complaints—63 complaints were filed with the Department of violations of section 77 relating to overtime, of which number only 28 were found, on close investigation, to be based on facts. With very few exceptions these complaints came to us from confectionery establishments and just before the holiday season set in. Outside of the above places quite a number of complaints came from dressmaking and millinery establishments, and these referred to long hours on the last days of the week. In regular factories the percentage of fault finding is insignificant and in this respect very gratifying.

From complaints and reports made by inspectors, sixty orders to cease working overtime were issued, and every such order was fully complied with. To our knowledge there are no real abuses of this section of the law existing in any manufactory in this State.

ELEVATORS AND HOISTWAYS.

Elevators and hoistways are as fruitful a source of accident as almost any other subject with which the Department has to deal, and no other one matter seems to be regarded with as little interest. Insecure ropes, worn out cables, doors and gates which will not work, unguarded well-holes, carelessness of employes in leaving doors and gates open—all these, and many other things, tending to create conditions dangerous to life and limb, are regarded with little or no interest until the life of some unfortunate is crushed out in a frightful manner, and not until then do those concerned and interested feel that the advice of the Department, to properly guard or take necessary precautions, is of any consequence or value. The officers of the Department have not been derelict in their duty in this respect. The provisions of the law have been rigorously applied—we have even gone so far as to use our authority to prohibit the use of elevators or hoists when the management of an establishment refused or neglected to properly and promptly do as directed and as required by law. Eight hundred orders to guard elevators or hoists were issued by the Department during the year and in nearly every case the order was satisfactorily complied with. All elevators should be fully enclosed in fire-proof shafts and elevator doors should be so arranged as to work automatically, and should never be allowed to be opened from the outside. Call bells should be the only means of summoning the operator; putting the head or a portion of the body over elevator gates is a most dangerous practice and should never be permitted or allowed. Street doors to elevators should never be without an inside locked door or a flexible gate fastened inside and so high as to make it impossible for any person to reach the head over it. Twenty-nine accidents are reported as occurring on elevators and hoists, and the largest percentage of deaths is credited to accidents which occurred on elevators and hoists.

Open elevators are the best fire conductors possible. Where elevators cannot be enclosed in fire-proof shafts, automatic trap doors should be supplied—their use will not only tend to save human life but to secure valuable property as well.

FIRE ESCAPES.

During the year the Department caused eighty-nine new fire escapes to be erected on factory buildings. The new plan of fire escape adopted by the Department, with balance-weight drop ladder, has met with general approval on the part of builders, and, except when the construction of the building interfered, no deviation from the plan of escape submitted has been allowed. Aside from the order to erect new escapes, 398 old fire escapes were repaired and otherwise changed to meet the conditions found existing in buildings on which they were placed. We object to the straight ladder escape—it is dangerous in its best form and no effort has been spared or will be spared to keep this means of exit in a proper and safe condition at all times. We receive a great many objections against placing escapes on the front of buildings. It is not our rule to insist that they be so placed if the means of exit from the rear is easy and safe. But, if an escape erected in the rear leads to no thoroughly safe outlet—in our judgment it is a criminal act to order or allow an escape to be built on the rear of a building under such conditions. Exits from fire escapes should never be blocked or obstructed in any way; it is a misdemeanor to do so. Windows and doors leading to fire escapes should be plainly and conspicuously marked so as to keep their location always prominently before employees. It costs nothing to comply with these suggestions, and such precautions are often the means of saving life in case of panic or fire.

WEEKLY PAYMENT OF WAGES.

During the year we received thirty-four complaints against companies for their failure to pay employes weekly, as required by the provisions of sections 9 and 10 of the Labor Law, relating to the cash payment of wages to employes. Each and every such complaint was carefully looked into and acted upon with as much promptness as circumstances would allow. Nineteen of these complaints were found to be valid, and in each case we secured a compliance with our order to pay employes weekly.

Many persons mistake the scope of the provisions of the law and think it applies to all firms alike; this is an error. The Weekly Payment Law applies only to incorporated companies and to no other concerns. The provisions of the Weekly Payment Law are very clear and forceful, and we have not hesitated to ask and insist upon compliance with its provisions, treating all the surrounding conditions in such a manner as not to injure the relations and interests involved in any case claiming our attention. The Weekly Payment Law is a just law, and no reasonable excuse is held against it by anyone. Short credit or cash transactions in trade are to-day aimed at by all classes of business men. Spot cash dealings can serve no one with more profitable results than the men who rely on their strength and health of body to care for themselves and those who are dependent on them for maintenance and support; and, in the rush of—or in the cool deliberation of business transactions, his interests should be considered fully and fairly beside those of others as vitally concerned. In our experience with the Weekly Payment Law we can say that it is an eminently just law, and its honest enforcement is not only a benefit to the man who works, but to all business interests in general as well.

ACCIDENTS.

We are much gratified in being able to report a marked decline, in both the number and extent of injury, of the accidents reported to the Department during the year. In a total employment of 700,415 persons there were 34 fatal accidents; 133 accidents were of a serious character and 943 were slight, making a total of 1,110 reported in manufactories; 998 of the persons injured were males and 112 females; 143 persons were below the age of eighteen years; 422 accidents were reported as not occurring on any kind of a machine, and 596 occurred on machines that were guarded; 92 occurred on machines which were not guarded or on which it was impossible to place a guard. Fully 50 per cent. of the accidents were due directly to lack of thought or to carelessness on the part of the persons injured. Below we give a few of the principal causes from which a large number of the accidents were reported:

To minimize the possibility of accidents in manufactories is the best that can be expected of any Department charged by law to look after the condition of machinery on which persons are employed to labor. There are a large number of machines upon which it is impossible to place a guard without totally impairing the use of the machine, and this of course is a condition which the law does not contemplate. There are a large number of machines on which we have forced guards to be placed against the protests of the employes operating the same. It is not an unusual occurrence for an inspector upon revisiting a factory to find the guard removed and hanging on a post close by. Inspectors have required the guards to be replaced on machines and then watched the machines in operation until they compelled the employe to acknowledge that there was nothing in the way of the use of the guard except the stubbornness of the operator himself. It may seem a singular criticism for us to make when we say that inspectors, on more than one occasion, have been obliged to threaten the employe with arrest for failure to use the safety appliance which the Department, under the law, compelled the employer to procure. The officers of the Department have been critical and painstaking in all their efforts to throw about the employe every possible protection which could be suggested by experience and common sense, together with a due regard for all the interests involved. There can be no manner of doubt but that the care exercised by the Department in seeking to lessen the causes of accidents has had its effect, not alone in the reduced number of accidents, but, also in the reduced number of law suits for damages as a result of accident or injury received by employes while following their daily avocation.

DUST-CREATING MACHINERY.

The question of removing dust from machinery creating it, is one of constant trial to the Department. There is no question under any provision of the law which is surrounded by so many complex conditions. Men employed in establishments where this condition is met with complain bitterly of the fault and of the injurious conditions under which they are forced to labor day after day. And again, others complain because they are obliged to be annoyed with any kind of an arrangement which will in any manner interfere with them in their work. We have forced firms to put in costly exhaust systems to remove dust from dust-creating machinery, and on the next visit of the inspector the hoods would be removed from the wheels, and on quite a number of occasions the piping was found broken or punctured, making the system wholly worthless. We are desirous of doing what we can to remove, and keep removed, any and all hurtful or injurious conditions which may surround the workers. But, in our efforts to do so, the actions of the party whom we seek to help or aid should not be made to operate against our endeavors; nor can we be made a party to any deals which will insist upon a compliance in one establishment and not in another. Even and impartial treatment of all is the rule of the Department, and we will not permit any divergence from it, no matter who may be pleased or displeased by the application of such treatment.

During 1897 we caused to be placed in position 89 exhaust-fan systems, the total number of orders given for this purpose in that year being 180; in 1898 we sent out 192 orders requiring exhaust systems to be instituted and have secured a full compliance with 105 of such orders, making a total for the two years of 194 exhaust-fan systems placed in position and in operation on the recommendation and suggestion of the Department.

NEW BAKESHOP, CONSTRUCTED IN CONFORMITY WITH LAW.

No establishment working in brass should be without a properly constructed exhaust system, so arranged as to separate and save the dust discharged from the wheels, for it has been demonstrated by experience that in all such places the deposits thus recovered render the exhaust system not an item of expense, but rather a real source of profit.

BAKESHOPS.

The operations of the Bakeshop Inspection Law have been very satisfactory in nearly all respects, except in the one item relative to the hours of labor. Section 110 of the Labor Law deals with this question and reads as follows:

Section 110. Hours of labor in bakeries and confectionery establishments.—No employe shall be required or permitted to work in a biscuit, bread or cake bakery or confectionery establishment more than sixty hours in any one week, or more than ten hours in any one day, unless for the purpose of making a shorter work day on the last day of the week; nor more hours in any one week than will make an average of ten hours per day for the number of days during such week in which such employe shall work.

During the year only nine complaints were received from the journeymen bakers complaining of violations of this section of the law. Every one of these complaints were carefully and thoroughly investigated, and as a result of such investigations, but one complaint was sustained. Prosecution was commenced against the person charged with the violation, but after repeated adjournments, the case was dismissed from the court on the strength of a technical error. However, the party charged with the offense complied with the law, although he escaped conviction.

Aside from the complaints filed with the Department the inspectors sent in 309 orders requiring the working hours of employes to be reduced to sixty per week, with which orders 246 full compliances were promptly secured.

The court rulings on this section of the law leave the Department no opportunity to proceed against persons charged with violating this section of the statute, without the entire co-operation of the employe, and invariably the employe is loath to come forward and appear and testify against his employer, because to do so would mean the loss of his job. Frequently the offense is only a temporary one, caused by conditions over which the employer has no more control than has the man he employs. But, while we say this, still we know that there are men engaged in the trade who can not or will not see any other way to reach a profit than by compelling their employes to labor until the very last of their strength is exhausted.

There is but one way in which the journeymen bakers can make this section of the law effective, and that is by a thorough organization of their craft—a common sense level on which to treat with their employers and in entire and hearty co-operation with the Department. The Department has not and will not shrink from a proper performance of its duties in any respect. The condition of the baking trade to-day is positively poor. The trade is over-crowded, competition is sharp, and, in consequence, all conditions surrounding the trade are contracted, which makes matters connected with the baking business all a little less than pleasant. Aside from the question of the hours of labor, the Department issued and received a full compliance with 8,337 orders of all kinds, as follows: Post labor schedule, 958; reduce hours to sixty per week, 246; cease employing minor, 24; file certificates, 19; provide pipe and hood or ventilate bakerooms, etc., 878; sanitary plumbing and drainage, 109; increase height of bakeroom to at least eight feet, 103; clean premises, remove coal, ashes, etc., 626; repair, and limewash or paint walls, ceilings, prowers, etc., 2,759; repair, scrape, oil floors, etc., or provide new floors, 1,285; remove beds, beddings, etc., and cease sleeping in bakerooms, etc., 118; keep dogs, chickens, etc., out of bakerooms, 53; provide wash sink, running water, flashing, remove casing, etc., 446; provide water closets, remove water closets from bake and storerooms, provide separate water closets, etc., 51; clean, ventilate, repair, flush water closets, etc., 68; hand rails, new steps, repair stairs, etc., 356; guard machinery, 40; guard elevators, hoistways, etc., 8.

It may be of interest to state here that during the past three years proprietors of bakeshops and owners of property in which bakeshops are situated have spent over $200,000 in obedience to orders issued by the Factory Inspection Department for changes and alterations in such shops as were required by the provisions of the Bakeshop Law. The expenditure of this amount of money, and for such purpose, means that great and wholesome changes have been worked in these shops; which changes are of much benefit to the persons employed in the bakeshops aside from the benefit to the proprietors resulting in the confidence and consequent increased patronage of the general public who patronize the public bakery. It may be well to state also, that of the 3,836 bakeshops in the State there are to-day only 1,296 below the legal height of eight feet; 1,031 of these shops are seven feet and over in height and 265 of the total number are below seven feet; none are below six feet.

Improvement in this direction is constantly going on. In a number of cases there are many obstacles in the way of an immediate compliance with the height order. Water, rock, bad foundations, old buildings, etc., all contributing to defeat for the time being at least the intent of the law. And, again, in quite a number of the bakeshops, no one but the proprietor is employed, which in itself acts as a stay to the full enforcement of the law.

MINING.

No law referred to the Department for enforcement has claimed or received closer attention and care at our hands than the one relating to the inspection of mines and quarries. The duty of inspecting mines is made most pleasant by the co-operation which exists between the mine operators, the bosses, the superintendents in charge, the employes and the Department. This very agreeable condition of affairs is largely due to the manner in which the mine inspector, Mr. A. R. King, has pursued and discharged his duties, being a man of practical knowledge and experience and above all of sound judgment and firm will. A strict disciplinarian, he has shown both the employer and employe that there are many things the State can do which largely aids to make safety and profit possible, at the same time while prosecuting the business of mining. During 1898, 156 separate mines were repeatedly visited and inspected. Of this number, 105 were in operation. A total of 4,674 men were found employed in the mines in the State, an increase of 666 persons over 1897. In the 105 mines in operation it was found necessary to issue only 59 orders or suggestions for changes required, all of which were fully complied with. Between August 4, 1897, and December 1, 1898, a period of sixteen months, only four accidents occurred, three of which were of a fatal character. Comparing this record of accidents with that for 1895—when 28 persons were killed in the mines in the State, and with a largely reduced force of employes at work, then with 1896 when 7 persons were killed, and again with 1897 when 6 lives were lost—and it can at once be seen what State inspection and supervision has done to make safe the very dangerous work of mining.

There has been no disturbance between miners and employers during 1898. The relations between both are harmonious and pleasant. The Department prepared a set of rules for the guidance of the boss and the men employed under him. These rules define the duties of both and prohibit both from the practice of certain habits which experience has shown to be a fruitful source of fault finding, trouble and accident. The Department demands a strict observance of these rules on the part of the superintendent, mine boss and workman. They are drafted under the provisions of the Mining Law and by its express directions; it is a violation of the Mining Law for either the boss or the employe to violate or transgress them. They are twelve in number, and the last one is not the least forceful and beneficial.

Rules for the Guidance of Employes in Mines under the Provision of Chapter 415, Laws of 1897.

1. No employe shall ride or be permitted to ride on any loaded skip, car, cage or bucket, nor walk up or down slope or shaft while any skip, car, cage or bucket is above.

2. Pit boss shall carefully examine the hanging wall of all slopes, levels and working chambers daily, report any dangerous condition to superintendent at once and see that all loose rock or ore is removed.

3. Machine runners shall carefully examine and sound hanging wall at face working, and remove all loose rock or ore before proceeding to drill.

4. No employe shall handle any explosives or do any blasting except person or persons designated for that special purpose by the superintendent, and when a blast is about to be fired, timely notice shall be given thereof by blaster to all persons who may be in danger therefrom.

5. All explosives in excess of what is needed for one shift must be kept in magazine, and all explosives carried into the mine must be carried in a covered receptacle.

6. After blasting no person except the blaster or blasters shall be allowed in the part of the mine where such blast has been fired, until blaster has made a personal examination of the same and pronounced all safe.

7. Whenever a shot misses fire no person shall be allowed to return to that part of the mine in less than three hours, unless blaster after a personal examination shall pronounce all safe.

8. When more than one hole is to be fired the fuse must be cut at different lengths, so that shots may be distinctly counted.

9. No iron or steel bar unless tipped with six inches of copper or other soft metal shall be used for tamping any explosive. When tamping dynamite or other high explosives, wood must be used in all cases.

10. Mine superintendent, or person designated by him, shall examine daily all mining appliances and see that they are in safe condition.

11. A code of hoisting signals shall be posted conspicuously in engine room, shaft head and foot of shaft, and all signals shall be given clearly and distinctly. No person or persons shall ride on any skip, car, cage or bucket unless the signal "men aboard" has been clearly given to engineer.

12. No person addicted to the use of intoxicating drink shall have charge of any explosives, boiler, engine or hoist, or be allowed in any part of the mine while under the influence of liquor.

CIGAR MAKING.

Some special attention was given by the Department during the year to places where cigars, etc., were found to be manufactured. A total of 1,253 cigar shops was inspected and as a rule the conditions found existing in them were fairly good. In New York there is of course a great number of places where cigars are made up in so-called "living rooms." We will not say that these particular places were always found in as neat and clean a condition as should prevail where goods are made up, especially goods which the smoking public are expected to carry around in the mouth while using. In some places the conditions were so filthy as to warrant immediate and drastic treatment to remedy existing evils. We found no real abuses of tenement house work; but, in quite a few of the smaller shops were found persons at work who were not members of the family and who of course were employed therein contrary to law.

In several of the places up the State we found a greater inclination on the part of small cigar manufacturers to violate the anti-tenement house law. In the city of Buffalo, the inspector was obliged on different occasions to use cogent means in order to compel proprietors to observe the rules of common decency and to keep within the scope of the provisions of the Tenement House

Law. As a rule the larger shops are well kept, clean and wholesome. Rules governing the sanitary conduct of employes are laid down and strict discipline maintained. In the 1,253 shops inspected, 23,633 persons were found employed. Of this number 12,789 are males—719 of whom are under 18 years and 227 under 16 years of age. In these places 10,844 females were found employed, 3,066 of whom were under 21 years and 227 were under 16 years of age. No illiterate children and no children under 14 years of age were found employed in any of the 1,253 cigar shops inspected. The hours of labor of cigar makers are, as a rule, not more than 48 per week, or more than 8 hours per day.

CLOTHING INDUSTRY.

In the following table is presented separately, and as clearly and fully as it is possible for us to compile and collate, the information which the inspectors have gathered in relation to the clothing trade; which information was sought under special instructions given them on this subject. The annual report for 1897, which was complete as far as it went, still lacked in fullness, because it did not contain tenement places as generally as does the present report. Last year the table showed 7,498 places in which clothing was manufactured, with indefinite information as to tenement work. One reason why tenement work was neglected was the fact that there was more regular inspection work than could be reached by the force of inspectors employed. The increase of four deputies by the law of 1897 permitted greater attention to be given to the subject of tenement-house inspection, and, as a result, the tables herewith given, as well as the tabulation of the clothing trade in general, which will be found further on in the report, will be found to be fuller and more satisfactory in all respects than was any previous information placed before the public on this very much talked of subject—the clothing industry and its condition as regards the treatment of people who are found employed in it. To get at a comprehensive idea of the congested localities, first take the district, then the number of clothing places set down as within that district, then note the number of persons, males and females, set down opposite, and it will be seen at a single glance where the so-called "sweating" districts are located. And, bear in mind, that in every city where people are engaged in making ready-made clothing, they flock together, and, as a rule, each nationality congregates by itself. Brooklyn has its Dutch-town, which is a decidedly mixed locality, so far as nationalities go; this district is located largely in the Sixteenth and Twenty-seventh wards. Brownsville is another well-known clothing centre in Brooklyn, and its population is composed entirely of Jews. New York city has its celebrated "East Side," and so on.

There is shown in the table which follows, the number of males and females, males under 18 years and females under 21 years of age, males and females under 16 years, under 14 years, and illiterate children, found employed in the clothing places inspected. The number of places in which the Department found it necessary to issue orders is also given, together with the number of places wherein compliances were secured with such orders. By consulting the general tabulation of clothing places, the percentage of "ready-made" clothing shops and "custom" tailor shops will be readily noticed.

Another feature of this subject presented by these figures, and which may seem strange to those who have read and heard so much about the awful condition and treatment of women who work at this business, is the fact that there are on the whole 9,536 more men than women employed at the trade in the State, and if we separate New York and Brooklyn districts from those up the State, we find that there are 13,364 more men than women at work at making ready-made clothing. Again separate the figures, and it is found that 83,004 of the whole number employed are in New York and Brooklyn.

It will be seen from the foregoing table that there are engaged in the clothing trade, in all its branches and in all parts of the State, 103,544 persons, 56,540 males and 47,004 females. If the general table of employes, given in the first pages of this report, is referred to, it will be noticed, by comparing the number of people employed in the clothing industry with the whole number of employes, that the clothing workers embrace a little more than one-seventh of the whole number of persons. Then, divide the other workers into the multifarious trade branches, and it will be very evident that the employes in the clothing trade comprise the greatest number of people engaged in any single industry. The capital invested in the clothing trade in this State mounts into the millions, and is very widely distributed. The custom workers comprise but an insignificant fraction of the whole, yet compare well with other branches of toil outside of their rivals in trade—the ready-made clothing worker.

People who speak and write about the ready-made clothing business talk and write in a strain which would generate the belief that they would like to drive this great industry completely out of the State. In our opinion this is all wrong. What the trade needs is regulation, and not expatriation. To force clothing manufacturers to leave the State would not remedy the trouble of which such loud and bitter complaints are heard. There are many existing conditions which are hurtful to the trade, but which can be remedied and fully controlled by State authority. In order to do this, stringent laws are needed, which will enable the State officer to cope with all conditions which are in any way a menace, not alone to the trade but to the health of the public as well.

To get these results an honest enforcement of the law is necessary. The main danger to the public comes from filth and disease in the workshop. To meet and overcome these conditions, drastic sanitary factory tenement house laws are required. The power of the inspector under the law to enforce entire cleanliness in all workplaces, should be absolute. Stringent laws are needed, with strong, honest men to enforce them. Such a condition would be a boon to every manufacturer in the clothing trade. Good laws, honestly administered, would be heartily supported by all classes of manufacturers, for by the aid of such laws, they would be relieved of the standing stigma to their business implied in the term "sweating."

Under existing conditions we can reach and regularly inspect places of this character only once in the year, except in cases where complaint is made, and then only the place complained of is revisited. Constant attention, frequent visiting, watching and prodding is necessary to force those engaged in the making of ready-made clothing to understand and fully realize just what is meant by the American idea of cleanliness of workshop and person. The Department needs more inspectors to properly enforce the tenement-house inspection law. Much has been done and accomplished by the present force, but more and better work could

ENFORCING THE LAW.

The policy and rules of conduct laid down by the Department in its treatment of the law when the affairs of the bureau were first entrusted to our care have been faithfully adhered to, and with the very best possible results to all concerned. Since taking charge of the Department there has not been a single legal contest engaged in by any person, firm, corporation or company testing any law or any section of any of the laws referred to the Department for enforcement. During the past two years only twenty cases of prosecutions were instituted by the Department for failure to obey any order with which it was the duty of the Department to seek a compliance. Of these cases, eighteen were for violations of the Bakeshop Law and two for violation of the Factory Law.

The inspectors have been thorough, careful and painstaking in the discharge of their exacting duties. Employers and owners of property better understand the needs and requirements of the law and it is now almost a daily occurrence to find letters of request in our mail from owners of factory property asking for the presence of an officer of the Department at their plant to aid by suggestion or advice contemplated changes, so that the same may be made in compliance with the law and all of its requirements fulfilled. In the construction of new factory buildings, plans and specifications have been sent to us in order that we might see the proposed arrangement of stairs, elevators, fire escapes, etc., before the same were accepted, and inviting advice and suggestions relative thereto. As an evidence of the thoroughness of the work of the Department, and the manner of accomplishing it, we set forth the following table of facts relating to factory inspection for the year 1898. A full compliance has been secured with 24,645 orders of all kinds, and the separate special subjects to which they relate are as follows: Post labor schedule, 4,218; cease working overtime, 57; file certificates, 2,428; guard elevators and hoistways, 645; guard stairways, screen, repair steps, etc., 1,695; erect fire escape, 91; repair fire escapes, provide passage, remove obstruction, etc., 407; guard machinery, 3,628; exhaust fans ordered, 105; additional water closets, separate and screen, 1,128; clean, repair, ventilate, flush water closets, 2,583; wash and dressing rooms, 142; drainage and plumbing, 41; short noon-day permit, 2,944; discharge persons not members of family, 131; ceil door to living rooms, 107; remove workshop from tenement, 82; obtain workshop permit, 580; clean premises, halls, stairs, remove bedding, whitewash, paint, etc., 2,499; cease overcrowding, 20; sink, running water, water turned on, water tank, etc., 216; light halls, stairs and workrooms, 623.

In the line of special information the inspectors sent into the Department reports from which we condense the following:

New firms starting in business.....	2,078
Old firms resuming business.....	1,694
Increase in number of employees.....	63,380
Number of firms working overtime.....	428
Number of extra hours of labor so worked.....	54,268

Perhaps this happy condition of trade had something to do with the success of our efforts in securing from manufacturers in general such a full and ready compliance with our orders as indicated above.

Section 70. Employment of minors.—A child under the age of fourteen years shall not be employed in any factory in this state. A child between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years shall not be so employed, unless a certificate executed by a health officer be filed in the office of the employer.

§ 71. At the time of making such application, there shall be filed with such board, department, commissioner or officer, the affidavit of the parent or guardian of such child, or the person standing in parental relation thereto, showing the date and place of birth of such child. Such certificate shall not be issued unless the officer issuing the same is satisfied that such child is fourteen years of age or upwards, and is physically able to perform the work which he intends to do. No fee shall be demanded or received for administering an oath as required by this section.

§ 72. Contents of certificate.—Such certificate shall state the date and place of birth of the child, if known, and describe the color of the hair and eyes, the height and weight and any distinguishing facial marks of such child, and that, in the opinion of the officer issuing such certificate, such child is upwards of fourteen years of age, and is physically able to perform the work which he intends to do.

§ 73. § 74. Vacation certificates.—A child of fourteen years of age, who can read and write simple sentences in the English language, may be employed in a factory during the vacation of the public schools of the city or school district where such child resides, upon complying with all the provisions of the foregoing sections, except that requiring school attendance. The certificate issued to such child shall be designated a "vacation certificate," and no employer shall employ a child to whom such a certificate has been issued, to work in a factory at any time other than the time of the vacation of the public school in the city or school district where such factory is situated.

§ 75. Report of certificates issued.—The board or department of health or health commissioner of a city, village or town, shall transmit, between the first and tenth day of each month, to the office of the factory inspector a list of the names of the children to whom certificates have been issued.

Such register and the certificates filed in such office shall be produced for inspection, upon the demand of the factory inspector, his assistant or deputies.

§ 77. Hours of labor of minors.—A female under the age of twenty-one years or a male under the age of eighteen years shall not be employed at labor in any factory in this state before six o'clock in the morning or after nine o'clock in the evening of any day, or for more than ten hours in any one day or sixty hours in any one week, except to make a shorter work day on the last day of the week; or more hours in any one week than will make an average of ten hours per day for the whole number of days so worked. A printed notice stating the number of hours per day for each day of the week required of such persons, and the time when such work shall begin and end, shall be kept posted in a conspicuous place in each room where they are employed. But such persons may begin their work after the time for beginning and stop before the time for ending such work, mentioned in such notice, but they shall not be required to perform any labor in such factory, except as stated therein. The terms of such notice shall not be changed after the beginning of labor on the first day of the week without the consent of the factory inspector.

§ 78. Change of hours of labor of minors.—When, in order to make a shorter work day on the last of the week, a female under twenty-one, or a male under eighteen years of age, is to be required or permitted to work in a factory more than ten hours in a day, the employer of such persons shall notify the factory inspector, in writing, of such intention, stating the number of hours of labor per day, which it is proposed to require or permit, and the time when it is proposed to cease such requirement or permission; a similar notification shall be made when such requirement or permission has actually ceased. A record of the names of the employes thus required or permitted to work overtime, with the amount of such overtime and the days upon which such work was performed, shall be kept in the office of such factory, and produced upon the demand of the factory inspector.

§ 79. passenger elevators enclosed on all sides, as to form a substantial surface when closed and so constructed as to open and close by action of the elevator in its passage, either ascending or descending. The factory inspector may inspect the cable, gearing or other apparatus of elevators in factories and require them to be kept in a safe condition. No child under the age of fifteen years shall be employed or permitted to have the care, custody or management of or to operate an elevator in a factory, nor shall any person under the age of eighteen years be employed or permitted to have the care, custody or management of or to operate an elevator therein, running at a speed of over two hundred feet a minute.

§ 80. Stairs and doors.—Proper and substantial hand-rails shall be provided on all stairways in factories. The steps of such stairs shall be provided with rubber, securely fastened thereon, if in the opinion of the factory inspector the safety of the employes would be promoted thereby. The stairs shall be properly screened at the sides and bottom. All doors leading in or to any such factory shall be so constructed as to open outwardly where practicable, and shall not be locked, bolted or fastened during working hours.

§ 81. Protection of employes operating machinery.—The owner or person in charge of a factory where machinery is used, shall provide, in the discretion of the factory inspector, belt shifters or other mechanical contrivances for the purpose of throwing on or off belts or pulleys. Whenever practicable, all machinery shall be provided with loose pulleys. All vats, pans, saws, planers, cogs, gearing, belting, shafting, set-screws and machinery, of every description, shall be properly guarded. Exhaust fans of sufficient power shall be provided for the purpose of carrying off dust from emery wheels, grindstones and other machinery creating dust. If a machine or any part thereof is in a dangerous condition, or is not properly guarded, the use thereof may be prohibited by the factory inspector, and a notice to that effect shall be attached thereto. Such notice shall not be removed until the machine is made safe and the required safeguards are provided, and in the meantime such unsafe or dangerous machinery shall not be used. When, in the opinion of the factory inspector, it is necessary, the halls leading to workrooms shall be properly lighted. No male person under eighteen years of age or woman under twenty-one shall be permitted or directed to clean machinery while in motion.

§ 82. Fire-escapes.—Such fire-escapes as may be deemed necessary by the factory inspector shall be provided on the outside of every factory in this state consisting of three or more stories in height. Each escape shall connect with each floor above the first and shall be of sufficient strength, well fastened and secured, and shall have landings or balconies not less than six feet in length and three feet in width, guarded by iron railings not less than three feet in height, embracing at least two windows at each story and connected with the interior by easily accessible and unobstructed openings. The balconies or landings shall be connected by iron stairs not less than eighteen inches wide, with steps of not less than six inches tread, placed at a proper slant and protected by a well-secured hand-rail on both sides, and shall have a drop ladder not less than twelve inches wide reaching from the lower platform to the ground. The windows or doors to the landing or balcony of each fire-escape shall be of sufficient size and located as far as possible consistent with accessibility from the stairways and elevator hatchways or openings, and a ladder from such fire-escape shall extend to the roof. Stationary stairs or ladders shall be provided on the inside of every factory from the upper story to the roof, as a means of escape in case of fire.

§ 83. Factory inspector may order erection of fire-escapes.—Any other plan or style of fire-escape shall be sufficient if approved in writing by the factory inspector. If there is no fire-escape, or the fire-escape in use is not approved by the factory inspector, he may, by a written order served upon the owner, proprietor or lessee of any factory, or the agent or superintendent thereof, or either of them, require one or more fire-escapes to be provided therefor, at such locations and of such plan and style as shall be specified in such order. Within twenty days after the service of such order. the number of fire-escapes required therein shall be provided, each of which shall be of the plan and style specified in the order, or of the plan and style described in the preceding section.

§ 84. Walls and ceilings.—The walls and ceilings of each workroom in a factory shall be lime washed or painted when in the opinion of the factory inspector it will be conducive to the health or cleanliness of the persons working therein.

§ 85. Size of rooms.—No more employes shall be required or permitted to work in a room or factory between the hours of six o'clock in the morning and six o'clock in the evening than will allow to each of such employes, not less than two hundred and fifty cubic feet of air space; and, unless by a written permit of the factory inspector, not less than four hundred cubic feet for each employe, so employed between the hours of six o'clock in the evening and six o'clock in the morning, provided such room is lighted by electricity at all times during such hours, while persons are employed therein.

§ 86. Ventilation.—The owner, agent or lessee of a factory shall provide, in each workroom thereof, proper and sufficient means of ventilation; in case of failure the factory inspector shall order such ventilation to be provided. Such owner, agent or lessee shall provide such ventilation within twenty days after the service upon him of such order, and in case of failure, shall forfeit to the people of the state, ten dollars for each day after the expiration of such twenty days, to be recovered by the factory inspector, in his name of office.

§ 87. Accidents to be reported.—The person in charge of any factory shall report in writing to the factory inspector all accidents or injuries sustained by any person therein, within forty-eight hours after the time of the accident, stating as fully as possible the extent and cause of the injury, and the place where the injured person has been sent, with such other information relative thereto as may be required by the factory inspector who may in-investigate the cause of such accident. and require such precautions to be taken as will, in his judgment, prevent the recurrence of similar accidents.

§ 88. Washroom and water-closets.—Every factory shall contain a suitable, convenient and separate water-closet or water-closets for each sex, which shall be properly screened, ventilated and kept clean and free from all obscene writing or marking; and also a suitable and convenient washroom. The water-closets used by women shall have separate approaches. If women or girls are employed, a dressing-room shall be provided for them, when required by the factory inspector.

§ 89. Time allowed for meals.—In each factory at least sixty minutes shall be allowed for the noon-day meal, unless the factory inspector shall permit a shorter time. Such permit must be in writing and conspicuously posted in the main entrance of the factory, and may be revoked at any time. Where employes are required or permitted to work overtime for more than one hour after six o'clock in the evening, they shall be allowed at least twenty minutes to obtain a lunch, before beginning to work overtime.

§ 90. Inspection of factory buildings.—The factory inspector, or other competent person designated by him, upon request, shall examine any factory outside of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, to determine whether it is in a safe condition. If it appears to him to be unsafe, he shall immediately notify the owner, agent or lessee thereof, specifying the defects, and require such repairs and improvements to be made as he may deem necessary. If the owner, agent or lessee shall fail to comply with such requirement, he shall forfeit to the people of the state the sum of fifty dollars, to be recovered by the factory inspector in his name of office.

ARTICLE VII.

No person shall be employed to work in a room or apartment of a building in the rear of a tenement or dwelling-house at manufacturing any of such articles, without first obtaining from the factory inspector a written permit stating the maximum number of employees allowed to work therein. Before such permit shall be granted, an inspection of the premises must be made by the factory inspector. Such notice must be framed and posted in a conspicuous place in each room or apartment to which it relates. It may be revoked by the factory inspector if the health of the community or of the employees requires it.

§ 101. Register of persons to whom work is given.—Persons contracting for the manufacture of such articles, or giving out material from which they or any part of them are to be manufactured, shall keep a written register of the names and addresses of the persons to whom such work is given to be made, or with whom they have contracted to do the same. No person shall remove or deface any tag or label so affixed.

§ 103. Powers and duties of boards of health relative to tenement-made articles.—If the factory inspector discovers any of the articles mentioned in this article to be made under unclean or unhealthful conditions, he shall affix to such articles the label prescribed in the preceding section, and immediately report to the local board of health, who shall disinfect such articles, if necessary, and thereupon remove such label. If the factory inspector is convinced that infectious or contagious diseases exist in a workshop, or that articles manufactured or in process of manufacture therein are infected, or that goods used therein are unfit for use, he shall report to the local board of health, and such board shall issue such order as the public health may require. Such board may condemn and destroy all such infected articles or articles manufactured or in process of manufacture under unclean or unhealthful conditions.

If a room or apartment in such tenement or dwelling-house be so unlawfully used, the factory inspector shall serve a notice thereof upon such owner, lessee or agent. Unless such owner, lessee or agent shall cause such unlawful manufacture to be discontinued within thirty days after the service of such notice, or, within fifteen days thereafter, institutes and faithfully prosecutes proceedings for the dispossession of the occupant of a tenement or dwelling-house, who unlawfully manufactures such articles in any room or apartment therein, he shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this article, as if he, himself, was engaged in such unlawful manufacture. The unlawful manufacture of any of such articles by the occupant of a room or apartment of a tenement or dwelling-house, shall be a cause for dispossessing such occupant by summary proceedings to recover possession of real property, as provided in the code of civil procedure.

§ 105. Copy of article to be posted.—A copy of articles five, six and seven shall be posted in a conspicuous place in each work-room of every factory where persons are employed who are affected by the provisions thereof.

On the trial of such action, such corporation or association shall not be allowed to set up any defense, other than a valid assignment of such wages, a valid set-off against the same, or the absence of such employe from his regular place of labor at the time of the payment, or an actual tender to such employe at the time of the payment of the wages so earned by him, or a breach of contract by such employe or a denial of the employment.

§ 12. Assignment of future wages.—No assignment of future wages, payable weekly, or monthly in case of a steam surface railroad corporation, shall be valid if made to the corporation or association from which such wages are to become due, or to any person on its behalf, or if made or procured to be made to any person for the purpose of relieving such corporation or association from the obligation to pay weekly, or monthly in case of a steam surface railroad corporation. Charges for groceries, provisions or clothing shall not be a valid offset for wages in behalf of any such corporation or association. # BAKERY INSPECTION LAW

(As contained in Labor Law, Chapter 415, Laws of 1897).

ARTICLE VIII.—BAKERIES AND CONFECTIONERY ESTABLISHMENTS.

Section 110. Hours of labor in bakeries and confectionery establishments.—No employe shall be required or permitted to work in a biscuit, bread or cake bakery or confectionery establishment more than sixty hours in any one week, or more than ten hours in any one day, unless for the purpose of making a shorter work day on the last day of the week; nor more hours in any one week than will make an average of ten hours per day for the number of days during such week in which such employe shall work.

§ 111. Drainage and plumbing of buildings and rooms occupied by bakeries.—All buildings or rooms occupied as biscuit, bread, pie or cake bakeries, shall be drained and plumbed in a manner conducive to the proper and healthful sanitary condition thereof, and shall be constructed with air shafts, windows or ventilating pipes, sufficient to insure ventilation. The factory inspector may direct the proper drainage, plumbing and ventilation of such rooms or buildings. No cellar or basement, not now used for a bakery, shall hereafter be so occupied or used, unless the proprietor shall comply with the sanitary provisions of this article.

§ 112. Requirements as to rooms, furniture, utensils and manufactured products.—Every room used for the manufacture of flour or meal food products shall be at least eight feet in height and shall have, if deemed necessary by the factory inspector, an impermeable floor constructed of cement, or of tiles laid in cement, or an additional flooring of wood properly saturated with linseed oil. The side walls of such rooms shall be plastered or wainscoted. The factory inspector may require the side walls and ceiling to be white-washed, at least once in three months. He may also require the woodwork of such walls to be painted. The furniture and utensils shall be so arranged as to be readily cleansed and not prevent the proper cleaning of any part of a room. The manufactured flour or meal food products shall be kept in dry and airy rooms so arranged that the floors, shelves and all other facilities for storing the same can be properly cleaned. No domestic animals, except cats, shall be allowed to remain in a room used as a biscuit, bread, pie or cake bakery or any room in such bakery where flour or meal products are stored.

§ 113. Wash-room and closets ; sleeping places. — Every such bakery shall be provided with a proper wash-room and water-closet or water-closets apart from the bake-room, or rooms where the manufacture of such food product is conducted, and no water-closet, earth-closet, privy or ash-pit shall be within or connected directly with the bake-room of any bakery, hotel or public restaurant. No person shall sleep in a room occupied as a bake-room. Sleeping places for the persons employed in the bakery shall be separate from the rooms where flour or meal food products are manufactured or stored. If the sleeping places are on the same floor where such products are manufactured, stored or sold, the factory inspector may inspect and order them put in a proper sanitary condition.

§ 114. Inspection of bakeries. — The factory inspector shall cause all bakeries to be inspected. If it be found upon such inspection that the bakeries so inspected are constructed and conducted in compliance with the provisions of this chapter, the factory inspector shall issue a certificate to the persons owning or conducting such bakeries.

§ 115. Notice requiring alterations. — If, in the opinion of the factory inspector, alterations are required in or upon premises occupied and used as bakeries, in order to comply with the provisions of this article, a written notice shall be served by him upon the owner, agent or lessee of such premises, either personally or by mail, requiring such alterations to be made within sixty days after such service, and such alterations shall be made accordingly.

Penal code relative to violations of provisions of the labor law. — Chapter 416 of the laws of 1897.

§ 384-l. Violations of provisions of labor law. — Any person who violates or does not comply with :

1. The provisions of article six of the labor law, relating to factories and the employment of children therein ;

2. The provisions of article seven of the labor law, relating to the manufacture of articles in tenements;

3. The provisions of article eight of the labor law, relating to bakeries and confectionery establishments, the employment of labor and the manufacture of flour or meal food products therein;

4. The provision of article eleven of the labor law, relating to mercantile establishments, and the employment of women and children therein is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished for a first offense by a fine of not less than twenty nor more than one hundred dollars; for a second offense by a fine of not less than fifty nor more than two hundred dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than thirty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment; for a third offense by a fine of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not more than sixty days, or by both such fine and imprisonment.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

REPORT.

HON. DANIEL O'LEARY, Factory Inspector, Albany, N. Y.:

It affords me much pleasure to be able to state that we have had another year of absolute peace between mine operators and employes. There have been no strikes and but very little dissatisfaction. In two or three cases, where the employes were dissatisfied and a strike seemed imminent, I was notified by the employes, and after the situation was discussed by the operators, and the facts were laid before the employes, the case was amicably settled. There are always in each mining locality some disturbing elements, but having the confidence of the miners, my advice has been taken and a strike averted. Also it is with a feeling of satisfaction that I am able to state that the accidents, fatal and serious, have been lessened fully one-half. The code of rules making the employes and operators alike responsible for the safety in mine working has kept the provision of the law always before both operators and miners. In two cases where I have seen the miners disobeying the rules, riding on loaded cars and tamping explosives with steel bars, and running unnecessary chances, I have threatened prosecution, and one of the greatest causes of accidents, carelessness (I might say recklessness), among the miners has been greatly lessened.

Our orders and suggestions have been promptly complied with even when a simple suggestion amounted to the outlay of a large amount of capital. It has been my duty to change the method of mining in several localities, where a greater degree of safety could be obtained. Also at my suggestion other companies have changed their mode of mining to keep up with the competition of other markets. The result has been that the mines are now running on full time and at a profit, whereas under the old methods they would have been obliged to suspend operations.

In all cases where a condition would tend to the bodily injury of any person, orders were promptly issued, specifying the defects and a compliance followed. But very often, even where the mine was in a safe condition, suggestions and advice were of a vast amount of good in a saving for the companies and a greater degree of safety for the employees. Where the mine could be operated at a greater profit by changing the method from the "pillar and breast" to the "long wall" or "level" system, or vice versa, the same has been done. Where the life of a hoisting rope was six months, the system was changed so the same rope has been in operation two years and is in good condition at the present time. The manner of hoisting, hauling, handling and treating ores has been more or less changed, resulting in benefit to the workers and a very great saving to the operators.

Also changes have been made in the manner of ventilating, which has been a great improvement to the miners and a saving to the companies. While these suggestions and advice to operators and miners have been a source of profit to the operators and a better condition of affairs to the employees, the report does not give the credit to the Department that it should. The mines at the present time (with one or two exceptions, and they are working toward a condition of safety) are in a safe condition. With only three fatal accidents, two of which were purely unavoidable and one the result of carelessness, I think we may justly feel proud of our work during the past year. It is only with the trust and confidence of both operators and employees alike that these conditions have been brought about.

No prosecutions for non compliance with orders or rules have been necessary, and there has been no friction between the Department and the operators and no complaints from the employees. The laws relating to the inspection of mines and quarries in New York State, as contained in the Labor Law, chapter 415, passed May 13, 1897, have worked very smoothly, and is, in my opinion, all that is required for the safe operation of the mines and quarries in the State. Only one short amendment to the rules has been made, giving a blaster a right to pick out a "misfire" hole to within a depth of not more than eight inches of the unexploded charge. All persons except the blaster must keep beyond the line of any possible danger.

The boilers, engines and steam appliances have been all tested and examined and are in good condition. The ventilation, timbering, etc., are all that can be desired for the safety and health of the employes.

Each company has its magazine and thawing apparatus, in accordance with the rules of the Department, and accidents are not liable to happen except through carelessness.

All operators and employes are beginning to learn that the rules are for their protection and they comply therewith. I am treated very cordially at each visit to the works and both operators and employes are helping me in my duties.

Besides the condensed information contained in the statistical table, I think it may be of interest to say here that while fewer mines are reported in operation, yet it is pleasant to be able to state that there is a material increase in the number of persons employed as well as in the general amount of business done this year as compared with that of 1897.

I respectfully append the following information, in addition to that contained in the statistical table herewith submitted:

Number of mines in operation during the year.....	116	105
Number of persons found employed.....	4,008	4,674
Number of tons mined.....	2,189,883	2,200,000
Number of fatal accidents.....	7	3
Number of non-fatal accidents.....	4	1
Average number of employes for each life lost.....	572	1,558
Number of orders issued.....	75	59
Number of orders complied with.....	64	59
Number of inspections of separate mines..	230	156

The amount of capital invested in the mining industry in this State, according to the best information received, is, in round numbers, about $20,000,000. The number of acres of land owned or leased by mining companies, whose plants were in partial operation at least, is about 200,000 acres. Aside from the above this report shows the condition of the mines at the date of inspection, number of boilers and engines in use, number of accidents, fatal and serious, number of inspections made, with a list of the orders given by the Department and their compliance, together with other information which I trust may be a benefit to those interested in the mining industry.

In closing let me again thank you for the kind advice and support you have always given me in the daily discharge of my duties, and hoping the work we have done for those who we are in duty bound to protect will be appreciated by them.

I remain, very truly, yours,

A. RICHARD KING,

Deputy Mine Inspector, State of New York.

HON. DANIEL O'LEARY, Factory Inspector, Albany, N. Y.:

Sir.—I Beg to submit the following as an opinion of the duties of an inspector which should be rigidly followed by him in order to minimize the possibility of accident in mines.

Respectfully,

A. RICHARD KING.

DUTIES OF AN INSPECTOR FOR THE PREVENTION OF ACCIDENTS.

The first duty of the Mine Inspector should be to use all possible means for the prevention of accidents and to see that all necessary appliances are provided for the health and comfort of the miners.

But to obtain good results, he must have the co-operation of the operators, superintendents and the miners themselves. He must be a strict disciplinarian and must also require that all superintendents, mine bosses and under officials insist on discipline that compels obedience to all rules for, in my opinion, fully one-half of the accidents may be traced to a violation of rules which is the usual result of a lack of discipline.

Kind and rigid discipline by those interested in mining should at all times be exercised with a copy of the rules for safety in mine working always before them, and a compliance with the same, the danger of accidents may be greatly lessened.

The motto of the Inspector should be: "Rigid discipline is the price of life and health."

If the Inspector is lax in his discipline and performs his duties in a slipshod manner, what is he to expect from persons whom he comes in contact with? The Inspector should never let the cause of an accident, no matter how trivial it may seem, go by without giving an order or a suggestion for its removal. It has been my duty in the last three years to remove three superintendents, two for a lack of discipline and one for drunkenness; also, I was obliged to discipline one superintendent for lying and not doing as he agreed. I removed one engineer for drunkenness, and called the attention of the superintendent to a number of the miners who were not living up to the requirements of the law. With all the object lessons presented of men killed and maimed while openly violating rules made for their safety only, the miners will still persist in doing the same thing. I am not in favor of prosecuting employes for disobeying the rules, but they should be severely punished. If an employe disobeys the rules he should be suspended for a stated time for the first offense, and if he still persists in disobedience let him look for work elsewhere, and the first question a superintendent should ask an applicant for work, is: What he was discharged for, and if he is not truly repentant he should look for work other than mining. I stood at the shaft head at one of our mines waiting for a loaded skip to come up, when it came to the landing it was stopped with a jerk, and the inside boss and two miners stepped off. That pit boss lost his situation and the men were suspended.

At my preceding inspection of that mine that same pit boss told me that he never allowed any one to ride on a loaded skip; what can a superintendent expect of his men who himself thus violates the laws?

I have also seen men riding on loaded cars, tamping dynamite with steel bars, etc., unbeknown to the superintendent, but I have always called the men before me and told them what they might expect if it was known of their repeating it. There have been cases where the boss did not comply with the law and the men refused to work. In the past the greatest trouble has been with mines that were worked by contract, but most of the contracts are now so written that the contractors must comply with the rules and regulations or the contract is forfeited. All contracts should have that clause in them. There are conditions which are hard to deal with, especially when all the miners working in the same room or section will at times disobey the rules. At other places there are but very few who do not comply with the law and the men do not like to report it to the superintendent, but those men who do not comply with the rules are not their friends but their enemies. They must judge between those men and their own families; they should picture their wives, widows, and their children, orphans. I can only credit the greatly lessened number of accidents to strict discipline.

The Inspector must have no favorites. One set of rules for all. It would be unfair if the Inspector would insist upon a compliance with the law with one company and not with another. In these days when competition is so great that brains are the profit, where an improvement pays the dividends, it would be unjust to not treat all alike. Mining has always been considered an extra hazardous employment, but a strict obedience to just rules will in my opinion greatly lessen the number of accidents.

ACCIDENTS FATAL.

The first fatal accident which occurred in the past year was at the mines of the International Pulp Co., at Talleville, August 8th, in which Patrick Goodrow was killed by the discharge of a blast. A charge had failed to explode and Goodrow was in the act of scraping out the tamping to a distance which would enable him to discharge the former charge by the addition of an extra charge, he using a drill to perform the work, when the dynamite which was in the hole exploded, killing him. Had Goodrow used even ordinary precaution the accident would not have happened. Goodrow was 32 years of age and married. He left a wife and three children.

The second fatal accident occurred at the Lawrence Cement Co.'s mine, August 16th, at Binnewater, in which Geo. Houser lost his life. It was caused by a fall of rock from the roof. A blast had been fired, and after a suitable interval work was resumed.

A circular piece of roof-rock two feet in diameter and six inches thick fell upon him. (See diagram.)

Houser, who was a mucker or car loader, was stooping over to pick up a piece of ore, when the rock fell crushing him upon a sharp piece of rock, which pierced his head.

The roof-rock was composed of sandstone and flint and was not scaly.

The roof was considered perfectly safe, but directly over the basin a small slip occurred, which caused the rock to fall.

Houser was about 40 years of age and left a wife and five children.

The accident was unavoidable as the cause could not be previously discerned.

The third fatal accident occurred November 11, at the Newark Lime and Cement Co.'s works at Rondout, in which Michael Papincha lost his life by a fall of rock from the lower side wall. (See diagram.) The deceased was a mucker and was in the act of loading a car when a quantity of rock slipped from the side wall. The men saw the rock moving and gave the alarm, but Papincha, who was a Hungarian who could not speak the English language, and did not understand till too late, when the rock rolled over catching his legs and crushing his hips.

The rock as far as could be seen was in a safe condition, but a slip or diagonal seam back in the side wall caused the rock to fall.

Papincha was unmarried and about 35 years of age. The accident was unavoidable.

ACCIDENTS NON-FATAL.

There has been but one serious non-fatal accident reported during the past year. Thomas Vinter was injured at the Newark Lime and Cement Co.'s mine at Rondout, October 21st, by a fall of rock from a pillow. A piece of rock had been loosened by a blast and fell on Vinter, making a scalp wound and dislocating his shoulder. He returned to work in a short time.

YORK STATE, AS CONTAINED IN LABOR LAWS, CHAP-

ARTICLE IX.

MINES AND THEIR INSPECTION.

§ 120. Duties of factory inspector relating to mines; record and report.—The factory inspector shall see that every necessary precaution is taken to insure the safety and health of employes employed in the mines and quarries of the state and shall prescribe rules and regulations therefor; keep a record of the names and location of such mines and quarries, and the names of the persons or corporations owning or operating the same; collect data concerning the working thereof; examine carefully into the method of timbering shafts, drifts, inclines, slopes and tunnels, through which employes and other persons pass, in the performance of their daily labor, and see that the persons or corporations owning and operating such mines and quarries comply with the provisions of this chapter; and such information shall be furnished by the person operating such mine or quarry, upon the demand of the factory inspector.

The factory inspector shall keep a record of all mines and quarry examinations, showing the date thereof, and the condition in which the mines and quarries are found, and the manner of working the same. He shall make an annual report to the legislature during the month of January, containing a statement of the number of mines and quarries visited, the number in operation, the number of men employed, and the number and cause of accidents, fatal and non-fatal, that may have occurred in and about the same.

§ 121. Outlets of mines.—If, in the opinion of the factory inspector, it is necessary for safety of employes, the owner, operator or superintendent of a mine, operating through either a vertical or oblique shaft, or a horizontal tunnel, shall not employ any person therein unless there are in connection with the subterranean workings thereof not less than two openings or outlets, at least one hundred and fifty feet apart, and connected with each other. Such openings or outlets shall be so constructed as to provide safe and distinct means of ingress and egress from and to the surface, at all times, for the use of the employes of such mine.

§ 122. Ventilation and timbering of mines.—In each mine a ventilating current shall be conducted and circulated along the face of all working places and through the roadways, in sufficient quantities to insure the safety of employes and remove smoke and noxious gases.

Each owner, agent, manager or lessee of a mine shall cause it to be properly timbered, and the roof and sides of each working place therein properly secured. No person shall be required or permitted to work in an unsafe place or under dangerous material, except to make it secure.

§ 123. Riding on loaded cars; storage of inflammable supplies.—No person shall ride or be permitted to ride on any loaded car, cage or bucket into or out of a mine. No powder or oils of any description shall be stored in a mine or quarry, or in or around shafts, engine or boiler houses, and all supplies of an inflammable and destructive nature shall be stored at a safe distance from the mine openings.

§ 124. Inspection of steam boilers and apparatus; steam and water gauges.—All boilers used in generating steam for mining purposes shall be kept in good order, and the owner, agent, manager or lessee of such mine shall have such boilers inspected by a competent person, approved by the factory inspector, once in six months, and shall file a certificate showing the results thereof in the mine office and a duplicate thereof in the office of the factory inspector. All engines, brakes, cages, buckets, ropes and chains shall be kept in good order and inspected daily by the superintendent of the mine or a person designated by him.

Each boiler or nest of boilers used in mining for generating steam, shall be provided with a proper safety valve and with steam and water gauges, to show, respectively, the pressure of steam and the height of water in the boilers. Every boiler-house in which a boiler or nest of boilers is placed, shall be provided with a steam-gauge properly connected with the boilers, and another steam-gauge shall be attached to the steam-pipe in the engine-house, and so placed that the engineer or fireman can readily ascertain the pressure carried.

§ 125. Use of explosives; blasting.—When high explosives other than gunpowder are used in a mine or quarry, the manner of storing, keeping, moving, charging and firing, or in any manner using such explosives, shall be in accordance with rules prescribed by the factory inspector.

In charging holes for blasting, in slate, rock or ore in any mine or quarry, no iron or steel pointed needle or tamping bar shall be used, unless the end thereof is tipped with at least six inches of copper or other soft material. No person shall be employed to blast unless the mine superintendent or person having charge of such mine is satisfied that he is qualified, by experience, to perform the work with ordinary safety. When a blast is about to be fired in a mine timely notice thereof shall be given by the person in charge of the work, to all persons who may be in danger therefrom.

§ 126. Reports of accidents.—Whenever loss of life or serious accident shall occur in the operation of a mine or quarry, the owner, agent, manager or lessee thereof shall immediately report, in writing, all the facts connected therewith to the factory inspector.

§ 127. Notice of dangerous condition.—If the factory inspector, after examination or otherwise, is of the opinion that a mine or anything used in the operation thereof, is unsafe, he shall immediately serve a written notice, specifying the defects, upon the owner, agent, manager or lessee, who shall forthwith remedy the same.

§ 128. Enforcement of articles.—The factory inspector may serve a written notice upon the owner, agent, manager or lessee of a mine requiring him to comply with a specified provision of this article. The factory inspector may thereafter begin an action in the supreme court to enforce compliance with such provisions; and upon such notice as the court directs, an order may be granted, restraining the working of such mine during such time as may be therein specified.

§ 129. Admission of inspectors to mines.—The owner, agent, manager or lessee of a mine, at any time, either day or night, shall admit to such mine or any building used in the operation thereof, the factory inspector or any person duly authorized by him, for the purpose of making the examinations and inspections necessary for the enforcement of this article, and shall render any necessary assistance for such inspections.

PENAL CODE, RELATIVE TO VIOLATIONS OF PROVISIONS OF THE LABOR LAW, CHAPTER 416, LAWS OF 1897.

Section 384g. Refusal to admit inspector to mines and quarries; failure to comply with requirements of inspector.—A person,

1. Refusing to admit the factory inspector, or any person authorized by him, to a mine or quarry, for the purpose of examination and inspection.

2. Neglecting or refusing to comply with the provisions of article nine of the labor law upon written notice of the factory inspector, is guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars, or by imprisonment for not less than thirty days.

RULES FOR SAFETY IN MINE WORKING.

STORING EXPLOSIVES.

All explosives should be stored in a magazine provided for that purpose, and located far enough from the working shaft, slope or tunnel, boiler-house or engine-room, so that in case the whole quantity should be exploded, there would be no danger. All explosives in excess of what are needed for one shift should be kept in the magazine. A suitable place for thawing powder should be provided for each mine and quarry and kept in condition for use. The hot water or steam bath is the only safe device. Dry heat is unsafe. A receptacle for carrying explosives should be provided. Exploders and powder should not be kept in the same room. A suitable place, separated from mine-boilers or engine-room should be provided for preparing charges. One man should have full charge of the magazine.

BLASTING.

All the blasting should be done by one man and his helper, designated by the superintendent for that purpose. After blasting, no miners or other persons should be allowed in that part of the mine until the blaster has made a personal examination of the same and pronounced "all over." If the blast misses fire, no miner or other person except the blaster and his helper should be allowed in that part of the mine less than three hours thereafter, or until the blaster has made a personal examination of the same and pronounced "all safe." No person shall use or handle any explosives who is addicted to the use of intoxicants. All tamping of high explosives should be done with a wooden bar. Give timely and sufficient warning when blast is about to be fired.

FIRE.

Storing of oil, waste, candles, etc., should be at a safe distance from the boiler-house, engine-room and shaft-house, and a quantity of water should be stored at such place to guard against fire. All shaft-houses should have ample fire protection, and the appliances should be kept in condition for instant use, as quick action will often save an entire plant from destruction. All mining plants using steam should have a hose attached to the injector or feed pipe for use in case of fire.

TIMBERING.

Improper timbering is often the cause of great fatalities. The use of poor or scant timbering is criminal. All timber should be of sufficient size and strength. Better too large than too small. There is no fixed rule for the use of timber. Use enough and in the proper place; run no chances. Often the life of the timber is gone before it enters the mine on account of improper storing. Cover the timber, if possible, and give large room for ventilation.

SIGNALS.

Too much attention cannot be given to the use of signals and the care of their appliances. To give proper and distinct signals, the appliances must be in first-class condition. The bell line should be of sufficient strength and free of all rock and timbers. A few sheaves or rollers is all that is required. A code of signals should be posted at different parts of the workings, especially at the shaft-head, together with a notice of penalty for wrong signals. Punishments for wrong signals should be severe. Shafts of four hundred feet in depth should have speaking-tubes from foot of shaft to engine-room.

BOILERS.

Superintendents should require a strict compliance with the law regarding boiler inspection; also boilers should be inspected daily, and any imperfections should be reported to the master mechanic or superintendent.

SUPERINTENDENT.

The duties of a mine superintendent are many and varied. The most essential is discipline. Often is a fatal accident traced to lack of discipline. All inspections should be reported to him. The superintendent should keep close watch on all contractors as regards the safety of the mine. The safety of the miners and the success of all mining operations are the result of good superintendence.

ENGINEER.

In the selection of this important employe, too much care cannot be exercised. He should be of perfectly sober habits, of good judgment and quick action. His surroundings should be comfortable, visitors should be excluded, and he should not be allowed to converse with them when his engine is in motion. He should never act upon a signal not clearly given. Each engineer should have a certificate of experience and ability approved by the factory inspector.

THE SHAFT.

The shaft-head should be covered and guarded so as to prevent accidents from persons falling into them or from foreign objects dropping down. Automatic doors should, in most cases, be used. The manway should be around and not across the shaft-head. The timbering of the shaft is often neglected because it looks all right. It should be sounded and examined often, as it decays very rapidly under certain conditions. Inside shafts, winzes and chutes should be carefully guarded by railings or other means which will prevent accidents.

LADDERWAYS.

The ladders should be strong and intact. In vertical shafts and in deep pitching inclines, there should be landings of not more than twenty feet apart, and closely covered, except a hole large enough for a man to pass to the next ladder. In inclines there should be a hand-rail attached to the ladder, and, wherever possible, steps should be used with hand-rail attached.

DAILY INSPECTION.

The superintendent should designate a competent person, who, at a stated hour each day, should make an inspection of all mining appliances, boilers, engines, magazines, shafts and shaft-houses. He should carefully examine all underground workings, roofs, pillars, timbers and explosives. He should descend the shaft slowly and examine the bell-rope, track, timbers, ladders, etc., and report any defects to the superintendent, in writing, at once. Such a rule should be strictly enforced where men are handled by skip, car, cage or bucket.

AIR.

The use of air instead of steam for drilling in all underground workings is advised. A drill using air is a great ventilator, driving out smoke and noxious gases and furnishing pure air at the face workings. In some cases air-drills have taken the place of fans and they keep the mines well supplied with fresh air.

RULES FOR STORING, KEEPING, MOVING, THAWING, CHARGING AND FIRING DYNAMITE.

STORING AND KEEPING.

Dynamite should be stored in a building separate and isolated from other buildings and from traffic. Caps and electric exploders and fuses must not, under any circumstances, be stored in the same building with the powder. They should always be kept apart until needed for preparing the charge.

MOVING.

Dynamite may be hauled in wagons, railway trains, mine cars or similar vehicles, care being exercised that percussion caps, exploders, fulminators, friction matches or any other article of like nature be not loaded in the same wagon, car or other vehicle. Too much care cannot be exercised in this particular detail.

THAWING POWDER.

All nitro-glycerine compounds freeze and become hard at about 42 degrees Fahrenheit. In this condition they will not readily explode. When large quantities of powder are to be used, a separate building for thawing powder should be fitted with a small steam radiator. Use only exhaust steam for heating the same, if possible, keeping the temperature of the room at about 80 degrees Fahrenheit. In the part of the room at the greatest distance from the radiator, place the powder on racks to thaw. When but small quantities are required to be thawed, a thawing kettle may be used, being two water-tight kettles, one smaller than the other (one placed inside the other), the cartridges to be placed in the smaller kettle, and space between the two kettles filled with hot water of from 120 to 130 degrees Fahrenheit, the kettle being fitted with a cover to retain the heat. Under no circumstances, however, should the kettle be placed over the fire to heat. When more hot water is required, empty out the cold water and fill again with hot water. Under no circumstances should an attempt be made to thaw the powder by placing it in hot water or exposing it to the direct action of steam.

PRECAUTIONS.

Under no conditions should powder be placed on hot steam pipes, or steam boilers, nor on or in a hot stove, nor on any hot metal. Do not expose it to radiated heat from a fire or hot stove. Keep it away from the blacksmith's forge or shop. Never roast, toast or bake it in any way.

Any deviation from the above directions may result in a serious explosion and loss of life.

PREPARING THE CHARGE.

Cut a piece of safety fuse to the right length and carefully insert the fresh-cut end in a blasting cap. See that the cap is free from any particle of sawdust before inserting the fuse. Press the fuse gently into the cap as far as it will go. Crimp the open end of the cap tightly around the fuse with a pair of cap-nippers, but under no condition disturb the fulminate or filling in the cap. Then open one end of the cartridge carefully, and with a sharpened lead pencil or pointed wooden stick make a hole in the powder, insert the cap end of the fuse, being careful to see that at least one-fourth of an inch of the cap remains out of the powder. Then draw the paper closely about the fuse and tie it with a strong cord.

Never allow smoking or fire of any description near the powder, nor leave any loose caps or fuse in the vicinity of the powder.

CHARGING THE DRILL-HOLE.

Having prepared the cartridge as above described (being sure that none of the cartridges are frozen) push the cartridges to the bottom of the drilled hole with a wooden stick, putting the cartridge which contains the capped end of the fuse on top. Don't attempt to press the cartridges down too firmly, as in so doing the cap may become disarranged, thereby causing a misfire.

TAMPING.

Having placed the required quantity of powder in the hole, cover the charge with six or eight inches of loose tamping, press it down firmly with a wooden stick, after which the hole may be tamped to the top, ramming the tamping down hard. Under no conditions use an iron or metal bar. Wood is all that is required.

MISFIRE.

In cases of misfires no attempt must be made to remove the tamping or draw the charge. A new hole should be drilled in every case.

Section 1. Short title.—This chapter shall be known as the labor law.

§ 2. Definitions.—The term employe, when used in this chapter, means a mechanic, workingman or laborer who works for another for hire. The person, employing any such mechanic, workingman or laborer, whether the owner, proprietor, agent, superintendent, foreman or other subordinate, is designated in this chapter as an employer. The term "factory," when used in this chapter, shall be construed to include also any mill, workshop or other manufacturing or business establishment where one or more persons are employed at labor. The term "mercantile establishment," when used in this chapter, means any place where goods, wares or merchandise are offered for sale. Whenever, in this chapter, authority is conferred upon the factory inspector, it shall also be deemed to include his assistant or a deputy acting under his direction.

§ 3. Hours to constitute a day's work.—Eight hours shall constitute a legal day's work for all classes of employes in this state except those engaged in farm and domestic service unless otherwise provided by law. This section does not prevent an agreement for overwork at an increased compensation except upon work by or for the state or a municipal corporation or by contractors or sub-contractors therewith. Each contract to which the state or a municipal corporation is a party which may involve the employment of laborers, workmen or mechanics shall contain a stipulation that no laborer, workman or mechanic in the employ of the contractor, sub-contractor or other person doing or contracting to do the whole or a part of the work contemplated by the contract shall be permitted or required to work more than eight hours in any one calendar day, except in cases of extraordinary emergency caused by fire, flood or danger to life or property. The wages to be paid for a legal day's work as hereinbefore defined to all classes of such laborers, workmen or mechanics upon all such public work or upon any material to be used upon or in connection therewith shall not be less than the prevailing rate for a day's work in the same trade or occupation in the locality within the state where such public work on, about or in connection with which such labor is performed in its final or completed form is to be situated, erected or used. Each such contract hereafter made shall contain a stipulation that each such laborer, workman or mechanic employed by such contractor, sub-contractor or other person on, about or upon such public work, shall receive such wages herein provided for. Each contract for such public work hereafter made shall contain a provision that the same shall be void and of no effect unless the person or corporation making or performing the same shall comply with the provisions of this section; and no such person or corporation shall be entitled to receive any sum nor shall any officer, agent or employe of the state or of a municipal corporation pay the same or authorize its payment from the funds under his charge or control to any such person or corporation for work done upon any contract which in its form or manner of performance violates the provisions of this section, but nothing in this section shall be construed to apply to persons regularly employed in state institutions. [As amended by chapter 567, Laws of 1899.]

§ 4. Violations of the labor law.—Any officer agent or employe of this state or of a municipal corporation therein having a duty to act in the premises, who violates, evades or knowingly permits the violation or evasion of any of the provisions of this act shall be guilty of malfeasance in office and shall be suspended or removed by the authority having power to appoint or remove such officer, agent or employe, otherwise by the governor. Any citizen of this state may maintain proceedings for the suspension or removal of such officer, agent or employe or may maintain an action for the purpose of securing the cancellation or avoidance of any contract which, by its terms or manner of performance, violates this act, or for the purpose of preventing any officer, agent or employe of such municipal corporation from paying or authorizing the payment of any public money for work done thereupon. [As amended by chapter 567, Laws of 1899.]

§ 5. Hours of labor on street surface and elevated railroads.—Ten consecutive hours' labor, including one-half hour for dinner, shall constitute a day's labor in the operation of all street surface and elevated railroads, of whatever motive power, owned or operated by corporations in this state, whose main line of travel, or whose routes lie principally within the corporate limits of cities of more than one hundred thousand inhabitants. No employe of any such corporation shall be permitted or allowed to work more than ten consecutive hours, including one-half hour for dinner, in any one day of twenty-four hours. In cases of accident or unavoidable delay, extra labor may be performed for extra compensation.

§ 6. Hours of labor in brickyards.—Ten hours, exclusive of the necessary time for meals, shall constitute a legal day's work in the making of brick in brickyards owned or operated by corporations. No corporation owning or operating such brickyard shall require employes to work more than ten hours in any one day, or to commence work before seven o'clock in the morning. But overwork and work prior to seven o'clock in the morning for extra compensation may be performed by agreement between employer and employe.

§ 7. Regulation of hours of labor on steam surface and elevated railroads.—Ten hours' labor, performed within twelve consecutive hours, shall constitute a legal day's labor in the operation of steam surface and elevated railroads owned and operated within this state, except where the mileage system of running trains is in operation. But this section does not apply to the performance of extra hours of labor by conductors, engineers, firemen and trainmen in case of accident or delay resulting therefrom. For each hour of labor performed in any one day in excess of such ten hours, by any such employe, he shall be paid in addition at least one-tenth of his daily compensation. No person or corporation operating a line of railroad of thirty miles in length or over, in whole or in part within this state, shall permit or require a conductor, engineer, fireman or trainman, who has worked in any capacity for twenty-four consecutive hours, to go again on duty or perform any kind of work, until he has had at least eight hours' rest.

§ 8. Payment of wages by receivers.—Upon the appointment of a receiver of a partnership or of a corporation organized under the laws of this state and doing business therein, other than a moneyed corporation, the wages of the employe of such partnership or corporation shall be preferred to every other debt or claim.

§ 9. Cash payment of wages.—Every manufacturing, mining, quarrying, mercantile, railroad, street railway, canal, steamboat, telegraph and telephone company, every express company, and every water company, not municipal, shall pay to each employe engaged in its business the wages earned by him in cash. No such company or corporation shall pay its employes in scrip, commonly known as store money-orders.

§ 10. When wages are to be paid.—Every corporation or joint-stock association, or person carrying on the business thereof by lease or otherwise, shall pay weekly to each employe the wages earned by him to a day not more than six days prior to the date of such payment. But every person or corporation operating a steam surface railroad shall, on or before the twentieth day of each month, pay the employes thereof the wages earned by them during the preceding calendar month.

§ 11. Penalty for violation of preceding sections.—If a corporation or joint-stock association, its lessee or other person carrying on the business thereof, shall fail to pay the wages of an employe, as provided in this article, it shall forfeit to the people of the state the sum of fifty dollars for each such failure, to be recovered by the factory inspector in his name of office in a civil action; but an action shall not be maintained therefor, unless the factory inspector shall have given to the employer at least ten days' written notice, that such an action will be brought if the wages due are not sooner paid as provided in this article. On the trial of such action, such corporation or association shall not be allowed to set up any defense, other than a valid assignment of such wages, a valid set-off against the same, or the absence of such employe from his regular place of labor at the time of the payment, or an actual tender to such employe at the time of the payment of the wages so earned by him, or a breach of contract by such employe or a denial of the employment.

§ 12. Assignment of future wages.—No assignment of future wages, payable weekly, or monthly in case of a steam surface railroad corporation, shall be valid if made to the corporation or association from which such wages are to become due, or to any person on its behalf, or if made or procured to be made to any person for the purpose of relieving such corporation or association from the obligation to pay weekly, or monthly in case of a steam surface railroad corporation. Charges for groceries, provisions or clothing shall not be a valid offset for wages in behalf of any such corporation or association. No such corporation or association shall require any agreement from any employe to accept wages at other periods than as provided in this article as a condition of employment.

§ 13. Preferences in employment of persons upon public works.—In the construction of public works by the state or a municipality, or by persons contracting with the state or such municipality, only citizens of the United States shall be employed; and in all cases where laborers are employed on any such public works, preference shall be given citizens of the state of New York. In each contract for the construction of public works, a provision shall be inserted, to the effect that if the provisions of this section are not complied with, the contract shall be void.

§ 14. Stone used in state or municipal works.—All stone used in state and municipal works, except paving blocks and crushed stone, shall be worked, dressed and carved within the state. There shall be inserted in each contract or specification hereafter awarded by state, county or municipal authorities, authorizing or requiring the use of worked, dressed or carved stone, except paving blocks or crushed stone, within the state or such county or municipality, a clause to the effect that such stone shall be so worked, dressed or carved within the boundaries of the state as required by this section. If a contractor of the state or any municipality therein shall use stone, except paving blocks and crushed stone, which has been worked, dressed or carved without the state, the state or such municipality shall revoke the contract of such contractor and be released from liability thereon.

§ 15. Labels, brands, et cetera, used by labor organizations.—A union or association of employes may adopt a device in the form of a label, brand, mark, name or other character for the purpose of designating the products of the labor of the members thereof. Duplicate copies of such device shall be filed in the office of the secretary of state, who shall, under his hand and seal, deliver to the union or association filing or registering the same a certified copy and a certificate of the filing thereof, for which he shall be entitled to a fee of one dollar. Such certificate shall not be assignable by the union or association to whom it is issued.

§ 16. Penalty for illegal use of labels, et cetera.; Injunction proceedings.—A person manufacturing, using, displaying or keeping for sale a counterfeit or colorable imitation of a device so adapted and filed, or goods bearing the same, shall be subject to a penalty of two hundred dollars, to be recovered in an action brought in a court of competent jurisdiction by the person aggrieved; one-half of which penalty, when recovered, shall be paid to the plaintiff and one-half to the overseer of the poor of the town or to an officer having like power of the city, wherein the person aggrieved resides, for the benefit of the poor of such town or city. After filing copies of such device, such union or association may commence an action to enjoin the manufacture, use, display or sale of counterfeit or colorable imitations of such device, or of goods bearing the same, and the court may restrain such wrongful manufacture, use, display or sale, and every unauthorized use or display by others of the genuine devices so registered and filed, if such use or display is not authorized by the owner thereof, and may award to the plaintiff such damages resulting from such wrongful manufacture, use, display or sale as may be proved, together with the profits derived therefrom.

§ 17. Seats for female employes in factories.—Every person employing females in a factory shall provide and maintain suitable seats for the use of such female employes, and permit the use thereof by such employes to such an extent as may be reasonable for the preservation of their health.

§ 18. Scaffolding for use of employes.—A person employing or directing another to perform labor of any kind in the erection, repairing, altering or painting of a house, building or structure shall not furnish or erect, or cause to be furnished or erected for the performance of such labor, scaffolding, hoists, stays, ladders or other mechanical contrivances which are unsafe, unsuitable or improper, and which are not so constructed, placed and operated as to give proper protection to the life and limb of a person so employed or engaged. Scaffolding or staging swung or suspended from an overhead support, more than twenty feet from the ground or floor, shall have a safety rail of wood, properly bolted, secured and braced, rising at least thirty-four inches above the floor or main portions of such scaffolding or staging and extending along the entire length of the outside and the ends thereof, and properly attached thereto, and such scaffolding or staging shall be so fastened as to prevent the same from swaying from the building or structure.

§ 19. Inspection of scaffolding, ropes, blocks, pulleys and tackles in cities.—Whenever complaint is made to the factory inspector that the scaffolding or the slings, hangers, blocks, pulleys, stays, braces, ladders, irons, or ropes of any swinging or stationary scaffolding used in the construction, alteration, repairing, painting, cleaning or pointing of buildings within the limits of a city are unsafe or liable to prove dangerous to the life or limb of any person, such factory inspector shall immediately cause an inspection to be made of such scaffolding, or the slings, hangers, blocks, pulleys, stays, braces, ladders, irons or other parts connected therewith. If, after examination, such scaffolding or any of such parts is found to be dangerous to life or limb, the factory inspector shall prohibit the use thereof, and require the same to be altered and reconstructed so as to avoid such danger. The factor inspector or deputy factory inspector making the examination shall attach a certificate to the scaffolding, or the slings, hangers, irons, ropes or other parts thereof, examined by him, stating that he has made such examination, and that he has found it safe or unsafe, as the case may be. If he declares it unsafe, he shall at once, in writing, notify the person responsible for its erection of the fact, and warn him against the use thereof. Such notice may be served personally upon the person responsible for its erection, or by conspicuously affixing it to the scaffolding, or the part thereof declared to be unsafe. After such notice has been so served or affixed, the person responsible therefor shall immediately remove such scaffolding or part thereof, and alter or strengthen it in such manner as to render it safe, in the discretion of the officer who has examined it, or of his superiors. The factory inspector and any of his deputies whose duty it is to examine or test any scaffolding or part thereof, required by this section, shall have free access, at all reasonable hours, to any building or premises containing them or where they may be in use. All swinging and stationary scaffolding shall be so constructed as to bear four times the maximum weight required to be dependent therefrom or placed thereon, when in use, and not more than four men shall be allowed on any swinging scaffolding at one time. [As amended by chapter 192, Laws of 1899.]

§ 20. Protection of persons employed on buildings in cities.—All contractors and owners, when constructing buildings in cities, where the plans and specifications require the floors to be arched between the beams thereof, or where the floors or filling in between the floors are of fire-proof material or brick work, shall complete the flooring or filling in as the building progresses, to not less than within three tiers of beams below that on which the iron work is being erected. The district attorney to whom such presentation is made shall proceed at once to prosecute the person or corporation for the violations complained of, pursuant to this chapter and the provisions of the penal code. If complaint is made to the factory inspector that any person contracting with the state or a municipal corporation for the performance of any public work fails to comply with or evades the provisions of this article respecting the payment of the prevailing rate of wages, the requirements of hours of labor or the employment of citizens of the United States or of the state of New York, the factory inspector shall, if he finds such complaints to be well-founded, present evidence of such non-compliance to the officer, department, or board having charge of such work. Every boiler house in which a boiler or nest of boilers is placed, shall be provided with a steam gauge properly connected with the boilers, and another steam gauge shall be attached to the steam pipe in the engine house, and so placed that the engineer or fireman can readily ascertain the pressure carried. But nothing herein contained shall apply to collars, cuffs, shirts or shirt waists made of cotton or linen fabrics that are subjected to the laundrying process before being offered for sale. Application for such a license shall be made to the factory inspector by any family, or a member thereof desiring to manufacture, alter, repair or finish any of such articles in any room or apartment in any tenement or dwelling house, or by any person desiring to perform such work in any building in the rear of any tenement or dwelling house. Such application shall describe the room or apartment, shall specify the number of persons to be employed therein, and shall be in such form as the factory inspector may determine. Blank applications shall be prepared and furnished by the factory inspector. Before any such license is granted, an inspection of the room, apartment or building sought to be licensed must be made by the factory inspector. If the factory inspector ascertain that such room, apartment or building is in a clean and proper sanitary condition and that the articles specified in this section may be manufactured therein under clean and healthful condition, he shall grant a license permitting the use of such room, apartment or building, for the purpose of manufacturing, altering, repairing or finishing such articles. Each license shall state the maximum number of persons who may be employed in the room or rooms to which such license relates. The number of persons to be so employed shall be determined by the number of cubic feet of air space contained in each room or apartment mentioned in such license, allowing not less than two hundred and fifty cubic feet for each person employed between the hours of six o'clock in the morning and six o'clock in the evening; and, unless by a special written permit of the factory inspector, not less than four hundred cubic feet for each person employed therein between the hours of six o'clock in the evening and six o'clock in the morning, but no such permit shall be issued unless such room or apartment is lighted by electricity or other suitable light, at all times during such hours, while such persons are employed therein. Such license must be framed and posted in a conspicuous place in each room or apartment to which it relates. It may be revoked by the factory inspector if the health of the community or of the employes requires it, or if it appears that the rooms or apartments to which such license relates are not in a healthy and proper sanitary condition. Every room or apartment in which any of the articles named in this section are manufactured, altered, repaired or finished shall be kept in a clean and sanitary condition and shall be subject to inspection and examination by the factory inspector, for the purpose of ascertaining whether said garments or articles or any part or parts thereof, are clean and free from vermin and every matter of an infectious or contagious nature. No person shall hire, employ or contract with any member of a family, or any person not holding a license therefor, to manufacture, alter, repair or finish any of the articles named in this section in any room or apartment in any tenement or dwelling house or in any room or apartment in any building situated in the rear of a tenement or dwelling house as aforesaid. This section shall not prevent the employment of a tailor or seamstress by any person or family for the purpose of making, altering, repairing or finishing any article of wearing apparel for such person or for family use. [As amended by chapter 191, Laws of 1899.]

§ 101. Register of persons to whom work is given.—Persons contracting for the manufacturing, altering, repairing or finishing of any of the articles mentioned in section one hundred of this act or giving out material from which they or any part of them are to be manufactured, altered, repaired or finished shall keep a register of the names and addresses plainly written in English of the persons to whom such articles or materials are given to be so manufactured, altered, repaired or finished or with whom they have contracted to do the same. Such register shall be subject to inspection by the factory inspector, and a copy thereof shall be furnished on his demand. [As amended by chapter 191, Laws of 1899.]

§ 102. Goods unlawfully manufactured to be labeled.—Articles manufactured, altered, repaired or finished contrary to the provisions of section one hundred of this chapter shall not be sold or exposed for sale by any person. The factory inspector shall conspicuously affix to any such article found to be unlawfully manufactured, altered, repaired or finished a label containing the words "tenement-made" printed in small pica capital letters on a tag not less than four inches in length. The factory inspector shall notify the person owning or alleging to own such article that he has so labeled it. No person, except the factory inspector, shall remove or deface any tag or label so affixed. [As amended by chapter 191, Laws of 1899.]

§ 103. Powers and duties of boards of health relative to tenement-made articles.—If the factory inspector finds evidence of disease present in a workshop or in a room or apartment in a tenement or dwelling house or in any room or apartment of a building in the rear of a tenement or dwelling house, in which any of the articles named in section one hundred of this chapter are manufactured, altered, repaired or finished or in process thereof he shall affix to such articles the label prescribed in the preceding section, and immediately report to the local board of health, who shall disinfect such articles, if necessary, and thereupon remove such label. If the factory inspector finds that infectious or contagious diseases exist in a workshop, room or apartment of a tenement or dwelling house or of a building in the rear thereof, in which any of the articles specified in section one hundred of this chapter, are being manufactured, altered, repaired or finished, or that articles manufactured or in process of manufacture therein are infected or that goods used there are unfit for use, he shall report to the local board of health, and such board shall issue such order as the public health may require. Such board may condemn and destroy all such infected articles or articles manufactured or in the process of manufacture under unclean or unhealthful conditions. [As amended by chapter 191, Laws of 1899.]

§ 104. Inspection of articles manufactured in other states.—Whenever it is reported to the factory inspector that any of the articles named in section one hundred of this chapter are being shipped into this state, having previously been manufactured in whole or in part under unclean, unsanitary or unhealthy conditions, said inspector shall examine said articles and the conditions of their manufacture, and if upon such examination said goods or any part of them are found to contain vermin or to have been manufactured in improper places or under unhealthy conditions, he shall forthwith affix to them the tag or label hereinbefore described and report thereof to the local board of health, which board shall thereupon make such order or orders as the public safety may require. [As amended by chapter 191, Laws of 1899.]

§ 105. Owners of tenement and dwelling houses not to permit the unlawful use thereof.—The owner, lessee or agent of a tenement or dwelling house or of a building in the rear of a tenement or dwelling house shall not permit the use thereof for the manufacture, repair, alteration or finishing of any of the articles mentioned in this article contrary to its provisions. If a room or apartment in such tenement or dwelling house or in a building in the rear of a tenement or dwelling house be so unlawfully used, the factory inspector shall serve a notice thereof upon such owner, lessee or agent. Unless such owner, lessee or agent shall cause such unlawful manufacture to be discontinued within thirty days after the service of such notice, or within fifteen days thereafter, institutes and faithfully prosecutes proceedings for the dispossession of the occupant of a tenement or dwelling house, or of a building in the rear of a tenement or dwelling house who unlawfully manufactures, repairs, alters or finishes such articles in any room or apartment therein, he shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this article, as if he, himself, was engaged in such unlawful manufacture, repair, alteration or finishing. The unlawful manufacture, repair, alteration or finishing of any of such articles by the occupant of a room or apartment of a tenement or dwelling house, or of a building in the rear of a tenement or dwelling house shall be a cause for dispossessing such occupant by summary proceedings to recover possession of real property, as provided in the code of civil procedure. [New section added by chapter 191, Laws of 1899.]

§ 105.* Copy of article to be posted.—A copy of articles five, six and seven shall be posted in a conspicuous place in each work-room of every factory where persons are employed who are affected by the provisions thereof.

§ 111. Drainage and plumbing of buildings and rooms occupied by bakeries.—All buildings or rooms occupied as biscuit, bread, pie or cake bakeries, shall be drained and plumbed in a manner conducive to the proper and healthful sanitary condition thereof, and shall be constructed with air shafts, windows or ventilating pipes, sufficient to insure ventilation. The factory inspector may direct the proper drainage, plumbing and ventilation of such rooms or buildings. § 112. Requirements as to rooms, furniture, utensils and manufactured products.—Every room used for the manufacture of flour or meal food products shall be at least eight feet in height and shall have, if deemed necessary by the factory inspector, an impermeable floor constructed of cement, or of tiles laid in cement, or an additional flooring of wood properly saturated with linseed oil. The manufactured flour or meal food products shall be kept in dry and airy rooms so arranged that the floors, shelves and all other facilities for storing the same can be properly cleaned. No domestic animals, except cats, shall be allowed to remain in a room used as a biscuit, bread, pie or cake bakery or any room in such bakery where flour or meal products are stored.

No person shall sleep in a room occupied as a bake-room. Sleeping places for the persons employed in the bakery shall be separate from the rooms where flour or meal food products are manufactured or stored. If the sleeping places are on the same floor where such products are manufactured, stored or sold, the factory inspector may inspect and order them put in a proper sanitary condition.

If it be found upon such inspection that the bakeries so inspected are constructed and conducted in compliance with the provisions of this chapter, the factory inspector shall issue a certificate to the persons owning or conducting such bakeries.

The factory inspector shall keep a record of all mine and quarry examinations, showing the date thereof, and the condition in which the mines and quarries are found, and the manner of working the same. He shall make an annual report to the legislature during the month of January, containing a statement of the number of mines and quarries visited, the number in operation, the number of men employed, and the number and cause of accidents, fatal and non-fatal, that may have occurred in and about the same.

§ 121. Outlets of mines.—If, in the opinion of the factory inspector, it is necessary for safety of employes, the owner, operator or superintendent of a mine, operating through either a vertical or oblique shaft, or a horizontal tunnel, shall not employ any person therein unless there are in connection with the subterranean workings thereof not less than two openings or outlets, at least one hundred and fifty feet apart, and connected with each other. § 122. Ventilation and timbering of mines.—In each mine a ventilating current shall be conducted and circulated along the face of all working places and through the roadways, in sufficient quantities to insure the safety of employes and remove smoke and noxious gases. § 124. Inspection of steam boilers and apparatus; steam and water-gauges.—All boilers used in generating steam for mining purposes shall be kept in good order, and the owner, agent, manager or lessee of such mine shall have such boilers inspected by a competent person, approved by the factory inspector, once in six months, and shall file a certificate showing the result thereof in the mine office and a duplicate thereof in the office of the factory inspector. All engines, brakes, cages, buckets, ropes and chains shall be kept in good order and inspected daily by the superintendent of the mine or a person designated by him. No person shall be employed to blast unless the mine superintendent or person having charge of such mine, is satisfied that he is qualified, by experience, to perform the work with ordinary safety. When a blast is about to be fired in a mine timely notice thereof shall be given by the person in charge of the work, to all persons who may be in danger therefrom.

§ 126. Report of accidents.—Whenever loss of life or serious accident shall occur in the operation of a mine or quarry, the owner, agent, manager or lessee thereof shall immediately report, in writing, all the facts connected therewith to the factory inspector.

§ 128. Enforcement of article.—The factory inspector may serve a written notice upon the owner, agent, manager, or lessee of a mine requiring him to comply with a specified provision of this article. - 144. Decisions of board.
- 145. Annual report.
- 146. Submission of controversies to local arbitrators.
- 147. Consent; oath; powers of arbitrators.
- 148. Decision of arbitrators.
- 149. Appeals.

Section 140. Organization of board.—There shall continue to be a state board of mediation and arbitration, consisting of three competent persons to be known as arbitrators, appointed by the governor, by and with the advice and consent of the senate, each of whom shall hold his office for the term of three years, and receive an annual salary of three thousand dollars. The term of office of the successors of the members of such board in office when this chapter takes effect, shall be abridged so as to expire on the thirty-first day of December preceding the time when each such term would otherwise expire, and thereafter each term shall begin on the first day of January. One member of such board shall belong to the political party casting the highest, and one to the party casting the next highest number of votes for governor at the last preceding gubernatorial election. The third shall be a member of an incorporated labor organization of this state. Two members of such board shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and may hold meetings at any time or place within the state. Examinations or investigations ordered by the board may be held and taken by and before any of their number, if so directed, but a decision rendered in such case shall not be deemed conclusive until approved by the board.

§ 141. Secretary and his duties.—The board shall appoint a secretary, whose term of office shall be three years. He shall keep a full and faithful record of the proceedings of the board, and all documents and testimony forwarded by the local boards of arbitration, and shall perform such other duties as the board may prescribe. He may, under the direction of the board, issue subpoenas and administer oaths in all cases before the board, and call for and examine books, papers and documents of any parties to the controversy. He shall receive an annual salary of two thousand dollars, payable in the same manner as that of the members of the board.

§ 142. Arbitration by the board.—A grievance or dispute between an employer and his employees may be submitted to the board of arbitration and mediation for their determination and settlement. Such submission shall be in writing, and contain a statement in detail of the grievance or dispute and the cause thereof, and also an agreement to abide the determination of the board, and during the investigation to continue in business or at work, without a lock-out or strike. Upon such submission, the board shall examine the matter in controversy. For the purpose of such inquiry they may subpoena witnesses, compel their attendance and take and hear testimony. Witnesses shall be allowed the same fees as in courts of record. The decision of the board must be rendered within ten days after the completion of the investigation.

§ 143. Mediation in case of strike or lock-out.—Whenever a strike or lock-out occurs or is seriously threatened, the board shall proceed as soon as practicable to the locality thereof, and endeavor by mediation to effect an amicable settlement of the controversy. It may inquire into the cause thereof, and for that purpose has the same power as in the case of a controversy submitted to it for arbitration.

§ 144. Decisions of board.—Within ten days after the completion of every examination or investigation authorized by this article, the board or a majority thereof shall render a decision, stating such details as will clearly show the nature of the controversy and the points disposed of by them, and make a written report of their findings of fact and of their recommendations to each party to the controversy. Every decision and report shall be filed in the office of the board and a copy thereof served upon each party to the controversy, and in case of a submission to arbitration, a copy shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county or counties where the controversy arose.

§ 145. Annual report.—The board shall make an annual report to the legislature, and shall include therein such statements and explanations as will disclose the actual work of the board, the facts relating to each controversy considered by them and the decision thereon together with such suggestions as to legislation as may seem to them conducive to harmony in the relations of employers and employees.

§ 146. Submission of controversies to local arbitrators.—A grievance or dispute between an employer and his employees may be submitted to a board of arbitrators, consisting of three persons, for hearing and settlement. When the employees concerned are members in good standing of a labor organization, which is represented by one or more delegates in a central body, one arbitrator may be appointed by such central body and one by the employer. The two so designated shall appoint a third, who shall be chairman of the board. If the employees concerned in such grievance or dispute are members of good standing of a labor organization which is not represented in a central body, the organization of which they are members may select and designate one arbitrator. If such employees are not members of a labor organization, a majority thereof at a meeting duly called for that purpose, may designate one arbitrator for such board.

§ 147. Consent; oath; powers of arbitrators.—Before entering upon his duties, each arbitrator so selected shall sign a consent to act and take and subscribe an oath to faithfully and impartially discharge his duties as such arbitrator, which consent and oath shall be filed in the clerk's office of the county or counties where the controversy arose. When such board is ready for the transaction of business, it shall select one of its members to act as secretary, and notice of the time and place of hearing shall be given to the parties to the controversy. The board may, through its chairman, subpoena witnesses, compel their attendance and take and hear testimony. The board may make and enforce rules for its government and the transaction of the business before it, and fix its sessions and adjournments.

§ 148. Decision of arbitrators.—The board shall, within ten days after the close of the hearing, render a written decision signed by them giving such details as clearly show the nature of the controversy and the questions decided by them. Such decision shall be a settlement of the matter submitted to such arbitrators, unless within ten days thereafter an appeal is taken therefrom to the state board of mediation and arbitration. One copy of the decision shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county or counties where the controversy arose and one copy shall be transmitted to the secretary of the state board of mediation and arbitration.

§ 149. Appeals.—The state board of mediation and arbitration shall hear, consider, and investigate every appeal to it from any such board of local arbitrators and its decisions shall be in writing and a copy thereof filed in the clerk's office of the county or counties where the controversy arose and duplicate copies served upon each party to the controversy. Such decision shall be final and conclusive upon all parties to the arbitration.

Such water-closets shall be properly screened and ventilated, and, at all times, kept in a clean condition. The water-closets assigned to the female employees of such establishments shall be separate from those assigned to the male employees. If a mercantile establishment has not provided wash-rooms and water-closets, as required by this section, the board or department of health or health commissioners of the town, village or city where such establishment is situated, shall cause to be served upon the owner of the building occupied by such establishment, a written notice of the omission and directing such owner to comply with the provisions of this section respecting such wash-rooms and water-closets. Such owner shall, within fifteen days after the receipt of such notice, cause such wash-rooms and water-closets to be provided.

§ 169. Lunch-rooms.—If a lunch-room is provided in a mercantile establishment where females are employed, such lunch-room shall not be next to or adjoining the water-closets, unless permission is first obtained from the board or department of health or health commissioners of the town, village or city where such mercantile establishment is situated. Such permission shall be granted unless it appears that proper sanitary conditions do not exist, and it may be revoked at any time by the board or department of health or health commissioner, if it appears that such lunch-room is kept in a manner or in a part of the building injurious to the health of the employes.

§ 170. Seats for women in mercantile establishments.—Chairs, stools or other suitable seats shall be maintained in mercantile establishments for the use of female employes therein, to the number of at least one seat for every three females employed, and the use thereof by such employes shall be allowed at such times and to such extent as may be necessary for the preservation of their health. If the duties of the female employes, for the use of whom the seats are furnished, are to be principally performed in front of a counter, table, desk or fixture, such seats shall be placed in front thereof; if such duties are to be principally performed behind such counter, table, desk or fixture, such seats shall be placed behind the same.

§ 171. Employment of women and children in basements.—Women or children shall not be employed or directed to work in the basement of a mercantile establishment, unless permitted by the board or department of health, or health commissioner of the town, village or city where such mercantile establishment is situated. Such permission shall be granted unless it appears that such basement is not sufficiently lighted and ventilated, and is not in good sanitary condition.

§ 172. Enforcement of article.—The board or department of health or health commissioners of a town, village or city affected by this article shall enforce the same and prosecute all violations thereof. Proceedings to prosecute such violations must be begun within thirty days after the alleged offense was committed. All officers and members of such boards or department, all health commissioners, inspectors and other persons appointed or designated by such boards, departments or commissioners may visit and inspect, at reasonable hours and when practicable and necessary, all mercantile establishments within the town, village or city for which they are appointed. No person shall interfere with or prevent any such officer from making such visitations and inspections, nor shall he be obstructed or injured by force or otherwise while in the performance of his duties. All persons connected with any such mercantile establishment shall properly answer all questions asked by such officer or inspector in reference to any of the provisions of this article.

§ 173. Copy of article to be posted.—A copy of this article shall be posted in three conspicuous places in each mercantile establishment affected by its provisions.

182. Examination of applicants.

183. Registration of horseshoers.

184. Practice without examination.

Section 180. Application of article.—This article applies to all cities of the state. [As amended by chapter 558, Laws of 1899.]

§ 181. Board of examiners.—There shall continue to be a board of examiners of horseshoers consisting of one veterinarian, two master horseshoers and two journeymen horseshoers, all of whom shall be citizens and residents of the cities of the state. The examiners in office when this chapter takes effect shall continue therein until the thirty-first day of December following the date of the expiration of the terms for which they were respectively appointed, and thereafter their successors shall be appointed by the governor for a term of five years. [As amended by chapter 558, Laws of 1899.]

§ 182. Examination of applicants.—The board of examiners shall, as often as necessary, hold sessions in the several cities for the purpose of examining applicants, desiring to practice as master or journeyman horseshoers. A person is not qualified to take such examination unless he has served an apprenticeship at horseshoeing for at least three years. If the person examined is shown to be qualified to practice horseshoeing, the board shall issue to him a certificate stating his name and residence, the time when examined, when and where his apprenticeship was served, and that he is qualified to practice as a master or journeyman horseshoer. Before he is entitled to be examined, an applicant must file with the board a written application stating his name, place of residence, and when, where and with whom his apprenticeship has been served. § 183. Registration of horseshoers.—Each journeyman or master horseshoer shall present such certificate to the clerk of the county where he proposes to practice, and such clerk shall cause his name, residence and place of business to be registered in a book to be known as the "master and journeyman horseshoers' register." For each name so registered, the clerk is entitled to a fee of twenty-five cents. No person shall practice horseshoeing as a master or journeyman horseshoer in any city of the state unless he is registered and has a certificate, as provided by this article. [As amended by chapter 558, Laws of 1899.]

§ 184. Practice without examination.—A person who has practiced as a master or journeyman horseshoer within the United States continuously for a period of three years may present to the board of examiners his affidavit, stating his name, age, place of residence and when and where he has practiced as such horseshoer. The board shall thereupon issue to him a certificate stating the facts set forth in such affidavit, and that such person is entitled to practice as a master or journeyman horseshoer, as the case may be. The person to whom the certificate is issued shall present it to the county clerk of the county where he intends to practice, and his name shall be registered, as provided in the preceding section. Such person may thereafter practice as a master or journeyman horseshoer in such county without examination. The board is entitled to a fee of one dollar for each certificate issued under this section. [As amended by section 558, Laws of 1899.]

Section 1. Short title.—This chapter shall be known as the lien law.

§ 2. Definitions.—The term "lienor," when used in this chapter, means any person having a lien upon property by virtue of its provisions, and includes his successor in interest. The term "real property," when used in this chapter, includes real estate, lands, tenements, and hereditaments, corporeal and incorporeal, fixtures, and all bridges and trestle work, and structures connected therewith, erected for the use of railroads, and all oil or gas wells and structures and fixtures connected therewith, and any lease of oil lands or other right to operate for the production of oil or gas upon such lands, and the right or franchise granted by a municipal corporation for the use of the streets or public places thereof, and all structures placed thereon for the use of such right or franchise. The term "owner," when so used, includes the owner in fee of real property, or of a less estate therein, a lessee for a term of years, a vendee in possession under a contract for the purchase of such real property, and all persons having any right, title or interest in such real property, which may be sold under an execution in pursuance of the provisions of statutes relating to the enforcement of liens of judgment, and all persons having any right or franchise granted by a municipal corporation to use the streets and public places thereof, and any right, title or interest in and to such franchise. The purchaser of real property at a statutory or judicial sale shall be deemed the owner thereof, from the time of such sale. If the purchaser at such sale fails to complete the purchase, pursuant to the terms of the sale, all liens created by his consent after such sale shall be a lien on any deposit made by him and not on the real property sold. The term "improvement," when so used, includes the erection, alteration or repair of any structure upon, connected with, or beneath the surface of, any real property and any work done upon such property, or material furnished for its permanent improvement. The term "public improvement," when so used, means an improvement upon any real property belonging to the state or municipal corporation. The term "contractor," when so used, means a person who enters into a contract with the owner of real property for the improvement thereof. The term "sub-contractor," when so used, means a person who enters into a contract for the improvement of such real property with a contractor, or with a person who has contracted with or through such contractor, for the performance of his contract or any part thereof. The term "laborer," when so used, means any person who performs labor or services upon such improvement. The term "material man," when so used, means any person, other than a contractor, who furnishes material for such improvement.

§ 3. Mechanics' lien on real property.—A contractor, sub-contractor, laborer or material man, who performs labor or furnishes materials for the improvement of real property with the consent or at the request of the owner thereof, or of his agent, contractor or sub-contractor, shall have a lien for the principal and interest of the value, or the agreed price, of such labor or materials upon the real property improved or to be improved and upon such improvement, from the time of filing a notice of such lien as prescribed in this article.

§ 4. Extent of lien.—Such lien shall extend to the owner's right, title or interest in the real property and improvements, existing at the time of filing the notice of lien. If an owner assigns his interest in such real property by a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, within thirty days prior to such filing, the lien shall extend to the interest thus assigned. If any part of the real property subjected to such lien be removed by the owner or by any other person, at any time before the discharge thereof, such removal shall not affect the rights of the lienor, either in respect to the remaining real property, or the part so removed. If labor is performed for, or materials furnished to a contractor or sub-contractor for an improvement, the lien shall not be for a sum greater than the sum unearned and unpaid on the contract at the time of filing the notice of lien, and any sum subsequently earned thereon. In no case shall the owner be liable to pay by reason of all liens, created pursuant to this article a sum greater than the value or agreed price of the labor and materials remaining unpaid, at the time of filing notices of such liens, except as hereinafter provided.

§ 5. Liens under contracts for public improvements.—A person performing labor for or furnishing materials to a contractor, his sub-contractor or legal representative for the construction of a public improvement pursuant to a contract by such contractor with the state or a municipal corporation, shall have a lien for the principal and interest of the value or agreed price of such labor or materials upon the moneys of such corporation applicable to the construction of such improvement, to the extent of the amount due or to become due on such contract, upon filing a notice of lien as prescribed in this article.

§ 6. Liens for labor on railroads.—Any person who shall hereafter perform any labor for a railroad corporation shall have a lien for the value of such labor upon the railroad track, rolling stock and appurtenances of such railroad corporation and upon the land upon which such railroad track and appurtenances are situated, by filing a notice of such lien in the office of the clerk of any county wherein any part of such railroad is situated, to the extent of the right, title and interest of such corporation in such property, existing at the time of such filing. The provisions of this article relating to the contents, filing and entry of a notice of a mechanic's lien, and the priority and duration thereof, shall apply to such liens. A copy of the notice of such lien shall be personally served upon such corporation within ten days after the filing thereof in the manner prescribed by the code of civil procedure for the service of summons in actions in justices' courts against domestic railroad corporations.

§ 7. Liability of owner for advance payments, collusive mortgages and incumbrances.—Any payment by the owner to a contractor upon a contract for the improvement of real property, made prior to the time when, by the terms of the contract, such payment becomes due, for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this article, shall be of no effect as against the lien of a sub-contractor, laborer or material man under such contract, created before such payment actually becomes due. A mortgage, lien or incumbrance made by an owner of real property, for the purpose of avoiding the provisions of this article, with the knowledge or privity of the person in whose favor the mortgage, lien or incumbrance is created, shall be void and of no effect as against a claim on account of the improvement of such real property, existing at the time of the creation of such mortgage, lien or incumbrance.

§ 8. Terms of contract may be demanded.—A statement of the terms of a contract pursuant to which an improvement of real property is being made, and of the amount due or to become due thereon, shall be furnished upon demand, by the owner, or his duly authorized agent, to a sub-contractor, laborer or material man performing labor for or furnishing materials to a contractor, his agent or sub-contractor, under such contract. If, upon such demand the owner refuses or neglects to furnish such statement or falsely states the terms of such contract or the amount due or to become due thereon, and a sub-contractor, laborer or material man has not been paid the amount of his claim against a contractor or sub-contractor, under such contract, and a judgment has been obtained and execution issued against such contractor or sub-contractor and returned wholly or partly unsatisfied, the owner shall be liable for the loss sustained by reason of such refusal, neglect or false statement, and the lien of such sub-contractor, laborer or material man, filed as prescribed in this article, against the real property improved for the labor performed or materials furnished after such demand, shall exist to the same extent and be enforced in the same manner as if such labor and materials had been directly performed for and furnished to such owner.

§ 9. Contents of notice of lien.—The notice of lien shall state:

1. The name and residence of the lienor.
2. The name of the owner of the real property against whose interest therein a lien is claimed, and the interest of the owner as far as known to the lienor.
3. The name of the person by whom the lienor was employed, or to whom he furnished or is to furnish materials; or, if the lienor is a contractor or sub-contractor, the person with whom the contract was made.
4. The labor performed or to be performed, or materials furnished or to be furnished and the agreed price or value thereof.
5. The amount unpaid to the lienor for such labor or materials.
6. The time when the first and last items of work were performed and materials were furnished.
7. The property subject to the lien, with a description thereof sufficient for identification; and if in a city or village, its location by street and number, if known. A failure to state the name of the true owner or contractor, or a misdescription of the true owner, shall not affect the validity of the lien. The notice must be verified by the lienor or his agent, to the effect that the statements therein contained are true to his knowledge, except as to the matters therein stated to be alleged on information and belief, and that as to those matters he believes it to be true.

§ 10. Filing of notice.—The notice of lien may be filed at any time during the progress of the work and the furnishing of the materials, or within ninety days after the completion of the contract, or the final performance of the work, or the final furnishing of the materials, dating from the last item of work performed or materials furnished. The notice of lien must be filed in the clerk's office of the county where the property is situated. If such property is situated in two or more counties the notice of lien shall be filed in the office of the clerk of each of such counties. The county clerk of each county shall provide and keep a book to be called the "lien docket" which shall be suitably ruled in columns headed "owners," "lienors," "property," "amount," "time of filing," "proceedings had," in each of which he shall enter the particulars of the notice, properly belonging therein. The date, hour and minute of the filing of each notice of lien shall be entered in the proper column. The names of the owners shall be arranged in such book in alphabetical order. The validity of the lien and the right to file a notice thereof shall not be affected by the death of the owner before notice of the lien is filed.

§ 11. Service of copy of notice.—At any time after filing the notice of lien, the lienor may serve a copy of such notice upon the owner, by delivering the same to him personally, or if the owner can not be found, to his agent or attorney, or by leaving it at his last known place of residence in the city or town in which the real property or some part thereof is situated, with a person of suitable age and discretion, or by registered letter addressed to his last known place of residence, or, if such owner has no such residence in such city or town, or can not be found, and he has no agent or attorney, by affixing a copy thereof conspicuously on such property, between the hours of nine o'clock in the forenoon and four o'clock in the afternoon. Until service of the notice has been made, as above provided, an owner, without knowledge of the lien, shall be protected in any payment made in good faith to any contractor or other person claiming a lien. A failure to serve the notice does not otherwise affect the validity of such lien.

§ 12. Notice of lien on account of public improvements.—At any time before the construction of a public improvement is completed and accepted by the municipal corporation, and within thirty days after such completion and acceptance, a person performing work for or furnishing materials to a contractor, his sub-contractor, assignee or legal representative, may file a notice of lien with the head of the department or bureau having charge of such construction and with the financial officer of the municipal corporation, or other officer or person charged with the custody and disbursements of the corporate funds applicable to the contract under which the claim is made. The notice shall state the name and residence of the lienor, the name of the contractor or sub-contractor for whom the labor was performed or materials furnished, the amount claimed to be due or to become due, the date when due, a description of the public improvement upon which the labor was performed and materials expended; the kind of labor performed and materials furnished and give a general description of the contract pursuant to which such public improvement was constructed. If the name of the contractor or sub-contractor is not known to the lienor, it may be so stated in the notice, and a failure to state correctly the name of the contractor or sub-contractor shall not affect the validity the lien. The financial officer of the municipal corporation or other officer or person with whom the notice is filed shall enter the same in a book provided for that purpose, to be called the "lien book."

Such entry shall include the name and residence of the lienor, the name of the contractor or sub-contractor, the amount of the lien and date of filing, and a brief designation of the contract under which the lien arose.

§ 13. Priority of liens.—A lien for materials furnished or labor performed in the improvement of real property shall have priority over a conveyance, judgment or other claim against such property not recorded, docketed or filed at the time of filing the notice of such lien; over advances made upon any mortgage or other incumbrance thereon after such filing; and over the claim of a creditor who has not furnished materials or performed labor upon such property, if such property has been assigned by the owner by a general assignment for the benefit of creditors, within thirty days before the filing of such notice. Such liens shall also have priority over advances made upon a contract by an owner for an improvement of real property which contains an option to the contractor, his successor or assigns to purchase the property, if such advances were made after the time when the labor began or the first item of material was furnished, as stated in the notice of lien. If several buildings are erected, altered or repaired, or several pieces or parcels of real property are improved, under one contract, and there are conflicting liens thereon, each lienor shall have priority upon the particular building or premises where his labor is performed or his materials are used. Persons standing in equal degrees as co-laborers or material men, shall have priority according to the date of filing their respective liens; but in all cases laborers for daily or weekly wages shall have preference over all other claimants under this article, without reference to the time when such laborers shall have filed their notices of liens.

§ 14. Assignments of lien.—A lien, filed as prescribed in this article, may be assigned by a written instrument signed and acknowledged by the lienor, at any time before the discharge thereof. Such assignment shall contain the names and places of residence of the assignor and assignee, the amount of the lien and the date of filing the notice of lien, and be filed in the office where the notice of the lien assigned is filed. The facts relating to such an assignment and the names of the assignee shall be entered by the proper officer in the book where the notice of lien is entered and opposite the entry thereof. Unless such assignment is filed, the assignee need not be made a defendant in an action to foreclose a mortgage, lien or other incumbrance. A payment made by the owner of the real property subject to the lien assigned or by his agent or contractor, or by the contractor of a municipal corporation, to the original lienor, on account of such lien, without notice of such assignment and before the same is filed, shall be valid and of full force and effect. Except as prescribed herein, the validity of an assignment of a lien shall not be affected by a failure to file the same.

§ 15. Assignments of contracts and orders to be filed.—No assignment of a contract for the performance of labor or the furnishing of materials for the improvement of real property or of the money or any part thereof due or to become due therefor, nor an order drawn by a contractor or sub-contractor upon the owner of such real property for the payment of such money shall be valid, until the contract or a statement containing the substance thereof and such assignment or a copy of each or a copy of such order, be filed in the office of the county clerk of the county wherein the real property improved or to be improved is situated, and such contract, assignment or order shall have effect and be enforceable from the time of such filing. Such clerk shall enter the facts relating to such assignment or order in the "lien docket" or in another book provided by him for such purpose.

§ 16. Duration of lien.—No lien specified in this article shall be a lien for a longer period than one year after the notice of lien has been filed, unless within that time an action is commenced to foreclose the lien, and a notice of the pendency of such action, whether in a court of record or in a court not of record, is filed with the county clerk of the county in which the notice of lien is filed, containing the names of the parties to the action, the object of the action, a brief description of the real property affected thereby, and the time of filing the notice of lien; or unless an order be granted within one year from the filing of such notice by a court of record, continuing such lien, and such lien shall be redocketed as of the date of granting such order and a statement made that such lien is continued by virtue of such order. No lien shall be continued by such order for more than one year from the granting thereof, but a new order and entry may be made in each successive year. If a lienor is made a party defendant in an action to enforce another lien, and the plaintiff or such defendant has filed a notice of the pendency of the action within the time prescribed in this section, the lien of such defendant is thereby continued. Such action shall be deemed an action to enforce the lien of such defendant lienor. The failure to file a notice of pendency of action shall not abate the action as to any person liable for the payment of the debt specified in the notice of lien, and the action may be prosecuted to judgment against such person.

§ 17. Duration of lien under contract for a public improvement.—If the lien is for labor done or materials furnished for a public improvement, it shall not continue for a longer period than three months from the time of filing the notice of such lien, unless an action is commenced to foreclose such lien within that time, and a notice of the pendency of such action is filed with the financial officer of the municipal corporation with whom the notice of lien was filed, or unless an order be made by a court of record, continuing such lien, and a new docket be made stating such fact. And the supreme court of this state, or any justice thereof, or the county court of the county in which such lien was filed, or the county judge of such county, are hereby authorized to make an order continuing any such lien for a period not exceeding six months, upon the application of a lienor upon such affidavits or evidence as in the opinion of such court or judge shall be deemed sufficient. Nothing in this act contained, however, shall prevent any such court or judge from making a new order continuing such lien in each succeeding six months, if in the discretion of such court or judge the same shall be deemed just and equitable. [As amended by chapter 25, Laws of 1899.]

§ 18. Discharge of lien generally.—A lien other than a lien for labor performed or materials furnished for a public improvement specified in this article, may be discharged as follows:

1. By the certificate of the lienor, duly acknowledged or proved and filed in the office where the notice of lien is filed, stating that the lien is satisfied and may be discharged.

2. By failure to begin an action to foreclose such lien or to secure an order continuing it, within one year from the time of filing the notice of lien.

3. By order of the court vacating or canceling such lien of record, for neglect of the lienor to prosecute the same, granted pursuant to the code of civil procedure.

4. Either before or after the beginning of an action by the owner executing an undertaking with two or more sufficient sureties, who shall be freeholders, to the clerk of the county where the premises are situated, in such sums as the court or a judge or justice thereof may direct, not less than the amount claimed in the notice of lien conditioned for the payment of any judgment which may be rendered against the property for the enforcement of the lien. The sureties must together justify in at least double the sum named in the undertaking. A copy of the undertaking, with notice that the sureties will justify before the court, or a judge or justice thereof, at the time and place therein mentioned, must be served upon the lienor or his attorney, not less than five days before such time. Upon the approval of the undertaking by the court, judge or justice an order shall be made discharging such lien. The execution of any such bond or undertaking by any fidelity or surety company authorized by the laws of this state to transact business, shall be equivalent to the execution of said bond or undertaking by two sureties; and such company, if expected to, shall justify through its officers or attorney in the manner required by law of fidelity and surety companies. Any such company may execute any such bond or undertaking as surety by the hand of its officers or attorney duly authorized thereto by resolution of its board of directors a certified copy of which resolution under the seal of said company, shall be filed with each bond or undertaking.

§ 19. Discharge of lien by payment of money into court.—A lien specified in this article, other than a lien for performing labor or furnishing materials for public improvement, may be discharged, at any time before an action is commenced to foreclose such lien, by depositing with the county clerk, in whose office the notice of lien is filed, a sum of money equal to the amount claimed in such notice, with interest to the time of such deposit. After such action is commenced the lien may be discharged by a payment into court of such sum of money, as, in the judgment of the court or a judge or justice thereof, after at least five days' notice to all the parties to the action, will be sufficient to pay any judgment which may be recovered in such action. Upon any such payment, the county clerk shall forthwith enter upon the lien docket and against the lien for the discharge of which such moneys were paid, the words "discharged by payment." A deposit of money made as prescribed in this section shall be repaid to the party making the deposit, or his successor, upon the discharge of the liens against the property pursuant to law. All deposits of money made as provided in this section shall be considered as paid into court and shall be subject to the provisions of the code of civil procedure relative to the payment of money into court and the surrender of such money by order of the court. An order for the surrender of such moneys may be made by any court of record having jurisdiction of the parties and of the subject matter of the proceeding for the foreclosure of the lien for the discharge of which such moneys were deposited. If no action is brought in a court of record to enforce such lien, such order may be made by any judge of a court of record.

§ 20. Discharge of lien for public improvement.—A lien against the amount due or to become due a contractor from a municipal corporation for the construction of a public improvement may be discharged as follows:

1. By filing a certificate of the lienor or his successor in interest, duly acknowledged and proved, stating that lien is discharged.

2. By lapse of time, when three months have elapsed since filing the notice of lien, and no action has been commenced to enforce the lien.

3. By satisfaction of a judgment rendered in an action to enforce the lien.

4. By the contractor depositing with the financial officer of the municipal corporation, or the officer or person with whom the notice of lien is filed, such a sum of money as is directed by a justice of the supreme court, which shall not be less than the amount claimed by the lienor, with interest thereon for the term of one year from the time of making such deposit, and such additional amount as the justice deems sufficient to cover all costs and expenses. The amount so deposited shall remain with such financial officer or other officer or person until the lien is discharged as prescribed in subdivisions one, two or three of this section.

§ 21. Building loan contract.—A contract for the sale of land with a building loan and any modification thereof, must be in writing, and within ten days after its execution be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which any part of the land is situated. If not so filed, the interest of each party to such contract in the real property affected thereby, is subject to the lien and claim of a person who shall thereafter file a notice of lien under this chapter. A modification of such contract shall not affect or impair the right or interest of a person, who, previous to the filing of such modification had furnished or contracted to furnish materials, or had performed or contracted to perform labor for the improvement of the real property, but such right or interest shall be determined by the original contract. The county clerk is entitled to a fee of twenty cents for filing such a contract or modification. Such contracts and modifications thereof shall be indexed in a book provided for that purpose, in the alphabetical order of the names of the vendees.

§ 22. Construction of article.—This article is to be construed liberally to secure the beneficial interests and purposes thereof. A substantial compliance with its several provisions shall be sufficient for the validity of a lien and to give jurisdiction to the courts to enforce the same.

§ 23. Enforcement of mechanics' liens.—The mechanics' liens specified in this article may be enforced against the property specified in the notice of lien and which is subject thereto and against any person liable for the debt upon which the lien is founded. The code of civil procedure regulates and provides for such enforcement.

Section 30. Liens on vessels.

31. Lien on vessels causing damage.
32. Notice of lien, when to be filed.
33. Duration of lien.
34. Assignment of lien.
35. Enforcement of lien.

Section 30. Liens on vessels.—A debt which is not a lien by the maritime law, and which amounts to fifty dollars or upwards, on a sea-going or ocean-bound vessel, or fifteen dollars or upwards on any other vessel shall be a lien upon such vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, and shall be preferred to all other liens thereon, except mariners' wages, if such debt is contracted by the master, owner, charterer, builder or consignee of such ship or vessel, or by the agent of either of them, within this state, for either of the following purposes:

1. For work done or material or other articles furnished in this state for or towards the building, repairing, fitting, furnishing or equipping of such vessel.
2. For such provisions and stores, furnished within this state, as are fit and proper for the use of such vessel, at the time when they were furnished.
3. For wharfing and the expense of keeping such vessel in port, and for the expense of employing persons to watch her.
4. For loading or unloading such vessel, or for the advances made to procure necessities therefor, or for the insurance thereof.
5. For towing or piloting such vessel, or for the insurance or premium of insurance of or on such vessel, or her freight; but no lien exists for a debt contracted for any purpose specified in this subdivision, unless it amounts to the sum of twenty-five dollars or more.

§ 31. Lien on vessel causing damage.—When a vessel shall have sustained damage by any other vessel through the negligence or wilful misconduct of the person navigating such vessel, to the extent of fifty dollars, the owner of the damaged vessel shall have a lien, unless a lien is given therefor by maritime law, upon the vessel causing the damage, her tackle, apparel and furniture, to the extent of such damage, which shall be deemed a debt for the purposes of this article, and the master, owner, agent or consignee of the damaged vessel may enforce such lien in like manner and with like effect as in case of other liens created by this article; but a notice of the lien must be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which such damage is sustained, and proceedings to enforce the lien must be commenced within ten days after the damage has been done, or such damage shall cease to be a lien upon such vessel. But if such damage is sustained in either of the counties of New York, Kings or Queens, such notice shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the city and county of New York, and if the vessel causing such damage is built, used or fitted for the navigation of any of the canals or lakes of the state, a certified copy of such notice shall be filed in the office of the comptroller as provided in the next section.

§ 32. Notice of lien, when to be filed.—Every debt specified in section thirty shall cease to be a lien upon such vessel, unless the lienor shall, within thirty days after it is contracted, file a notice of lien, containing the name of the vessel, the name of the owner, if known, the particulars of the debt and a statement of the amount claimed to be due from such vessel, and verified by the lienor, his legal representative, agent or assignee, to be true and correct. If the debt is based upon a written contract, a copy of such contract shall be attached to such notice. The notice shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the county in which the debt was contracted. But if the debt was contracted in either of the counties of New York, Kings or Queens, such notice shall be filed in the office of the clerk of the city and county of New York. If the vessel is built, used or fitted for the navigation of any of the canals or lakes of the state the lienor shall immediately after filing the notice in the county clerk's office, file a copy thereof in the office of the comptroller of the state, duly certified by the county clerk in whose office the original notice is filed.

§ 33. Duration of lien.—Every lien for a debt shall cease if the vessel navigates the Western or Northwestern lakes, or either of them, or the Saint Lawrence river, at the expiration of six months after the first of January next succeeding the time when the debt was contracted, and in case of any other vessel, at the expiration of twelve months after the debt was contracted. If, upon the expiration of the time herein limited in either of such cases, such vessel shall be absent from the port at which the debt was contracted, the lien shall continue until the expiration of thirty days after the return of such vessel to such port. If proceedings are instituted for the enforcement of the lien within the time herein limited, such lien shall continue until the termination of such proceedings.

§ 34. Assignment of lien.—A lien, a notice of which has been filed pursuant to the provisions of this article, may be assigned by a written instrument duly acknowledged and filed in the same place where the notice of the lien was filed. The assignment shall specify the debt upon which the lien is founded, the date of the filing of the notice thereof, and the assignee. Such assignment and the name of the assignee shall be entered by the clerk opposite the original entry of such lien, and after the filing of such assignment, but not otherwise, the assignee may enforce the lien in like manner as the assignor could have done.

§ 35. Enforcement of liens.—If a lien, created by virtue of this article, is founded upon a maritime contract, it can be enforced only by proceedings in the courts of the United States, and in any other case, in the courts of this state, in the manner provided by the code of civil procedure.

ARTICLE III.

LIENS ON MONUMENTS, GRAVESTONES AND CEMETERY STRUCTURES.

Section 40. Liens on monuments, gravestones and cemetery structures.

41. Notice of lien.

42. Proceedings to enforce liens.

43. Disposition of proceeds of sale.

44. Duties of officers of cemetery associations.

Section 40. Liens on monuments, gravestones and cemetery structures.—A person furnishing or placing in a cemetery or burial ground, a monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure, has a lien thereon for the agreed price thereof or the part remaining unpaid, with interest from the time the amount was due, upon filing with the superintendent or person in charge of such cemetery or burial ground, a notice of lien as provided in this article.

§ 41. Notice of lien.—Such notice may be filed at any time after the completion of the work, but must be filed within one year after the agreed price for furnishing or placing such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure becomes due, and shall state that the lienor has a lien on such monument, gravestone, inclosure or structure for the purchase price thereof, or some unpaid part of such purchase price, with interest, specifying the amount agreed to be paid, and the amount unpaid, with a description of such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure, and the location of the plot upon which it stands, and the names of the persons with whom the agreement for the purchase and erection of the structure, or for the performance of such labor was made. The notice shall be signed and verified by the lienor. The lienor shall, within ten days after the filing of such notice, serve a copy personally, or by mail, upon the person with whom the agreement for the purchase and erection of such monument, gravestone, or other structure, or for the performance of labor thereon was made, and upon the owner of the lot upon which such monument, gravestone or other structure is erected, if the name and residence of such owner can, with reasonable diligence, be ascertained.

§ 42. Proceedings to enforce lien.—After the service of such notice, an action to recover the amount of the debt and to enforce a lien therefor may be maintained by the lienor against the person with whom the agreement was made, for the purchase and erection of such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure or for the performance of labor thereon. If such lienor succeeds in establishing his lien, the judgment recovered may authorize him to remove such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure from the burial-ground or cemetery and to sell the same at public auction to satisfy the amount of such judgment. Notice of the sale shall be published at least ten days before the time thereof, in a newspaper published in the town or city where such sale is to take place, and if no newspaper is published therein, in a newspaper nearest thereto. Such notice shall state the time and place of the sale, and shall describe the property to be sold. A copy of such notice shall be served personally or by mail at least ten days before such sale upon the persons served with the notice of lien as prescribed in the preceding section.

§ 43. Disposition of proceeds of sale.—The lienor shall, out of the proceeds of the sale, pay the expenses thereof, and the expenses of the removal of such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure from the cemetery or burial-ground, not exceeding fifty dollars, if a monument, and ten dollars, if a gravestone, inclosure or other structure, and retain out of such proceeds the amount due upon the judgment recovered in the action to enforce the lien, and the residue, if any, shall be forthwith paid to the judgment debtor.

§ 44. Duties of officers of cemetery associations.—The superintendent or other person in charge of a cemetery or burial-ground shall not permit the removal, alteration or inscription of a monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure, against which a lien exists, after the notice of such lien has been filed and served as prescribed in this article, except pursuant to the terms of a judgment recovered in an action brought to enforce such lien. No officer of a cemetery association, or other person connected with a cemetery or burial-ground, shall hinder or obstruct the removal in a proper manner of any such monument, gravestone, inclosure or other structure pursuant to the terms of such judgment.

ARTICLE IV.

LIENS FOR LABOR ON STONE.

Section 50. Lien for labor performed in quarrying, mining, dressing and cutting stone.

51. Duration and effect of lien.

52. Discharge of lien.

Section 50. Lien for labor performed in quarrying, mining, dressing and cutting stone.—A person employed in a quarry, mine, yard or dock at excavating, quarrying, mining, dressing or cutting sandstone, granite, cement stone, limestone, bluestone or marble, may have a lien on such sandstone, cement stone, granite, limestone, bluestone or marble, for the amount due for the labor expended thereon, upon filing a notice of lien in the office where a chattel mortgage upon such sandstone, cement stone, granite, limestone, bluestone or marble is required to be filed, as provided in this chapter. Such notice must be filed within thirty days after the completion of such labor and must state the amount due therefor, the name and residence of the lienor, and the name of the person for whom the labor was performed, the quantity and description of the sandstone, cement stone, granite, bluestone, limestone or marble against which the claim is made. Such notice of lien shall be endorsed, filed and entered by the proper officer, in the same manner as chattel mortgages, and the same fees shall be charged therefor. A copy of the notice so filed shall be served upon the owner of such sandstone, cement stone, granite, limestone, bluestone or marble or upon the person in charge of the quarry, mine, yards or docks wherein such services were performed within five days after the filing thereof.

§ 51. Duration and effect of lien.—Such lien shall terminate unless an action is brought to enforce the same within three months after the date of filing such notice, as provided in the code of civil procedure for the enforcement of a lien upon a chattel. If the labor upon such sandstone, cement stone, granite, bluestone, limestone or marble is performed for a contractor under a contract with the owner of such quarry, mine, yard or dock, the owner shall not be liable to pay by reason of all the liens filed against such quarry, mine, yard or dock, a greater sum than the amount unpaid upon such contract at the time of filing such notices, or in case there is no contract, than the aggregate amount unpaid of the value of labor and services performed, pursuant to the preceding section. The lien created by this article shall not attach to any material which shall have become a part of any building or structure, or ceased to be the property of the person for whom such labor was performed.

§ 52. Discharge of lien.—Such lien may be discharged by a payment of the amount due thereon, by a failure to bring an action to enforce the same within the time prescribed in the preceding section, by the written consent of the lienor, duly acknowledged and filed with the proper officer to the effect that such lien may be discharged, and by the owner of such sandstone, cement stone, granite, bluestone, limestone or marble filing with such officer an undertaking in an amount equal to twice the sum specified in the notice of lien, executed by one or more sureties who shall justify in such amount and approved by the officer with whom the notice of lien is filed, conditioned for the payment of the sum due such lienor, by reason of such lien, and the cost and expenses of enforcing the same. [As amended by chapter 322, Laws of 1899.]

ARTICLE V.

LIENS FOR SERVICE OF STALLIONS.

Section 60. Lien on mare and foal.

61. Statement and certificate.
62. Copy of statement and certificate to be filed.
63. Penalty.

Section 60. Lien on mare and foal.—On complying with the provisions of this article, the owner of a stallion shall have a lien on each mare served together with the foal of such mare from such service, for the amount agreed on at the time of service, or if no agreement was made, for the amount specified in the statement hereinafter required to be filed, if within one year after such service he files a notice of such lien in the same manner and place as chattel mortgages are required by law to be filed. Such notice of lien shall be in writing, specifying the person against whom the claim is made, the amount of the same and a description of the property upon which the lien is claimed, and such lien shall terminate at the end of one year from the date of such filing, unless within that time an action is commenced for the enforcement thereof, as provided in the code of civil procedure for the foreclosure of a lien on chattels.

§ 61. Statement and certificate.—A person having the custody or control of a stallion and charging a fee for his services, shall, before advertising or offering such services to the public, file with the clerk of the county in which he resides or in which such stallion is kept for service, a written statement giving the name, age, description and pedigree, if known, and if not, stating that the same is unknown, of such stallion and the terms and conditions on which he will serve. On filing such statement, the county clerk shall record the same in a book provided for that purpose and issue a certificate to such person, that such statement has been so filed and recorded. He shall be entitled to receive ten cents per folio for recording such statement and for such certificate.

§ 62. Copy of statement and certificate to be posted.—The person having the custody and control of such stallion, shall post a written or printed copy of such statement and certificate in a conspicuous place in each locality in which said stallion is kept for service.

§ 63. Penalty.—A person who neglects or refuses to file and post such statement as required in this article, or falsely states the pedigree of such stallion in such statement, forfeits all fees for the services of such stallion and is liable to a person deceived or defrauded thereby for the damages sustained.

ARTICLE VI.

OTHER LIENS ON PERSONAL PROPERTY.

Section 70. Artisans' lien on personal property.

71. Liens of hotel, inn, boarding and lodging house keepers.
72. Factors' liens on merchandise.
73. Warehouse liens.
74. Lien of bailee of animals.

Section 70. Artisans' lien on personal property.—A person who makes, alters, repairs or in any way enhances the value of an article of personal property, at the request or with the consent of the owner, has a lien on such article, while lawfully in possession thereof, for his reasonable charges for the work done and materials furnished, and may retain possession thereof until such charges are paid.

§ 71. Liens of hotel, inn, boarding and lodging house keepers.—A keeper of a hotel, inn, boarding house or lodging house, except an emigrant lodging house, has a lien upon, while in possession, and may detain the baggage and other property brought upon their premises by a guest, boarder or lodger, for the proper charges due from him, on account of his accommodation, board and lodging, and such extras as are furnished at his request. If the keeper of such hotel, inn, boarding or lodging house knew that the property so brought upon his premises was not, when brought, legally in possession of such guest, boarder or lodger, or had notice that such property was not then the property of such guest, boarder or lodger, a lien thereon does not exist. [As amended by chapter 380, Laws of 1899.]

§ 72. Factors' liens on merchandise.—A person, in whose name any merchandise shall be shipped, is deemed the true owner thereof so far as to entitle the consignee of such merchandise to a lien thereon.

1. For any money advanced or negotiable security given by such consignee, to or for the use of the person in whose name such shipment is made; and

2. For any money or negotiable security received by the person in whose name such shipment is made, to or for the use of such consignee.

Such lien does not exist where the consignee has notice, by the bill of lading or otherwise, when or before money is advanced or security is given by him, or when or before such money or security is received by the person in whose name the shipment is made, that such person is not the actual and bona fide owner thereof.

§ 73. Warehouse liens.—A warehouse company, warehouseman or other person lawfully engaged in the business of storing goods, wares and merchandise for hire has a lien on goods deposited and stored with him for his storage charges, and for moneys advanced by him for cartage, labor, weighing and cooping in relation to such goods, or other goods belonging to the same owner; and he may detain such goods until his lien is paid.

§ 74. Lien of bailee of animals.—A person keeping a livery stable, or boarding stable for animals, or pasturing or boarding one or more animals, or who in connection therewith keeps or stores any wagon, truck, cart, carriage, vehicle or harness, has a lien dependent upon the possession upon each animal kept, pastured or boarded by him, and upon any wagon, truck, cart, carriage, vehicle or harness, of any kind or description, stored or kept, under an agreement with the owner thereof, whether such owner be a mortgagor remaining in possession or otherwise, for the sum due him for the care, keeping, boarding or pasturing of the animal, or for the keeping or storing of any wagon, truck, cart, carriage, vehicle and harness, under the agreement, and may detain the animal or wagon, truck, cart, carriage, vehicle and harness accordingly, until such sum is paid. [As amended by chapter 465, Laws of 1899.]

ARTICLE VII.

ENFORCEMENT OF LIENS ON PERSONAL PROPERTY BY SALE.

Section 80. Sale of personal property to satisfy a lien.

81. Notice to owner.
82. Sale to be advertised.
83. Redemption before sale.
84. Disposition of proceeds.
85. Remedy not exclusive.

Section 80. Sale of personal property to satisfy a lien.—A lien against personal property, other than a mortgage on chattels, if in the legal possession of the lienor, may be satisfied by the public sale of such property according to the provisions of this article.

§ 81. Notice of sale.—Before such sale is held the lienor shall serve a notice upon the owner with due diligence within such county, if such owner can be found when such lien arose, if not then to the person for whose account the same is then held personally, provided such service can be made with due diligence within the county where such lien arose, but if such person cannot with due diligence be found within such county, then such notice shall be served by mailing it to him at his last known place of residence, or to his last known post office address. A like notice shall be served in the same way upon any person who shall have given to the lienor notice of an interest in the property subject to the lien. Such notice shall contain a statement of the following facts:

First. The nature of the debt or the agreement under which the lien arose, with an itemized statement of the claim and the time when due;

Second. A brief description of the personal property against which the lien exists;

Third. The estimated value of such property;

Fourth. The amount of such lien, at the date of the notice.

It shall also require such owner or person to pay the amount of such lien, on or before a day mentioned therein, not less than ten days from the service thereof, and shall state the time when and place where such property will be sold, if such amount is not paid. If the agreement on which the lien is based provides for the continuous care of property the lienor is also entitled to receive all sums which may accrue under the agreement, subsequent to the notice and prior to payment or a sale of the property; and the notice shall contain a statement that such additional sum is demanded. Such notice shall be verified by the lienor to the effect that the lien upon such property is valid, that the debt upon which such lien is founded is due and has not been paid and that the facts stated in such notice are true to the best of his knowledge and belief.

§ 82. Sale to be advertised.—Each sale of personal property to satisfy a lien thereon shall be at public auction to the highest bidder, and shall be held in the city or town where the lien was acquired. After the time for the payment of the amount of the lien specified in the notice required to be served by the preceding section, notice of such sale, describing the property to be sold, and stating the name of the owner or person for whose account the same is then held and the time and place of such sale, shall be published once a week, for two consecutive weeks, in a newspaper published in the town or city where such sale is to be held, and such sale shall be held not less than fifteen days from the first publication; if there be no newspaper published in such town, such notice shall be posted at least ten days before such sale in not less than six conspicuous places therein. [Amended by chapter 369, Laws of 1899.]

§ 83. Redemption before sale.—At any time before such property is sold, the owner thereof may redeem the same by paying to the lienor the amount due on account of the lien, and whatever legitimate expenses have been incurred at the time of such payment in serving the notice and advertising the sale as required in this article. Upon making such payment, the owner of such property is entitled to the possession thereof.

§ 84. Disposition of proceeds.—Of the proceeds of such sale, the lienor shall retain an amount sufficient to satisfy his lien, and the expenses of advertisement and sale. The balance of such proceeds, if any, shall be held by the lienor subject to the demand of the owner, or his assignee or legal representative, and a notice that such balance is so held shall be served personally or by mail upon the owner of the property sold. If such balance is not claimed by the owner or his assignee or legal representative within thirty days from the day of sale, such balance shall be deposited with the treasurer or chamberlain of the city or village, or the supervisor of the town, where such sale was held. There shall be filed with such deposit the affidavit of the lienor, stating the name and place of residence of the owner of the property sold, if known, the articles sold, the prices obtained therefor, that the notice required by this article was duly served and how served upon such owner, and that such sale was legally and how advertised. There shall also be filed therewith a copy of the notice served upon the owner of the property and of the notice of sale published or posted as required by this article. The officer with whom such balance is deposited shall credit the same to the owner of the property, and pay the same to such owner, his assignee or legal representative, on demand and satisfactory evidence of identity. If such balance remains in the possession of such officer for a period of five years, unclaimed by the person legally entitled thereto, it shall be transferred to the general funds of the town, village or city, and be applied and used as other moneys belonging to such town, village or city.

§ 85. Remedy not exclusive.—The provisions of this article do not preclude any other remedy by action or otherwise, now existing, for the enforcement of a lien against personal property, or bar the right to recover so much of the debt as shall not be paid by the proceeds of the sale of the property.

ARTICLE VIII.

CHattel MORTGAGES.

Section 90. Chattel mortgage to be filed.

91. Corporate mortgages against real and personal property.
92. Where filed.
93. Filing and entry.
94. Fees.
95. Mortgage invalid after one year, unless statement is filed.
96. Duration of lien of mortgage on canal craft.
97. Copies to be evidence of certain facts.
98. Mortgage, how discharged of record.

Section 90. Chattel mortgage to be filed.—Every mortgage or conveyance intended to operate as a mortgage of goods and chattels, or of any canal boat, steam tug, scow or other craft, or the appurtenances thereto, navigating the canals of the state, which is not accompanied by an immediate delivery, and followed by an actual and continued change of possession of the things mortgaged is absolutely void as against the creditors of the mortgagor, and as against subsequent purchasers and mortgagees in good faith, unless the mortgage, or a true copy thereof, is filed as directed in this article.

§ 91. Corporate mortgages against real and personal property.—Mortgages creating a lien upon real and personal property, executed by a corporation as security for the payment of bonds issued by such corporation, or by any telegraph, telephone or electric light corporation, and recorded as a mortgage of real property in each county where such property is located or through which the line of such telegraph, telephone or electric light corporation runs, need not be filed or refiled as chattel mortgages.

§ 92. Where filed.—An instrument, or a true copy thereof, if intended to operate as a mortgage of a canal boat, steam tug, scow or other craft, or of the appurtenances thereto, navigating the canals of this state, must be filed in the office of the comptroller, and need not be filed elsewhere. Every other chattel mortgage, or an instrument intended to operate as such, or a true copy thereof, must be filed in the town or city where the mortgagor, if a resident of the state, resides at the time of the execution thereof, and if not a resident, in the city or town where the property mortgaged is, at the time of the execution of the mortgage. If there is more than one mortgagor, the mortgage, or a certified copy thereof, must be filed in each city or town within the state where each mortgagor resides at the time of the execution thereof. In the city of New York, such instrument must be filed in the office of the register of the city and county of New York; in the city of Brooklyn, in the office of the register of the county of Kings, and in every other city or town of the state, in the office of the city or town clerk, unless there is a county clerk's office in such city or town, in which case it must be filed therein.

§ 93. Filing and entry.—Such officers shall file every such instrument presented to them for that purpose, and indorse thereon its number and the time of its receipt. They shall enter in a book, provided for that purpose, in separate columns, the names of all the parties to each mortgage so filed, arranged in alphabetical order, under the head of "mortgagors" and "mortgagees," the number of such mortgage or copy, its date, the amount secured thereby, when due, the date of the filing thereof; and, if the mortgage be upon a craft navigating the canals, and filed in the office of the comptroller, the name of the craft shall also be inserted.

§ 94. Fees.—The several clerks and registers are entitled to receive for services hereunder the following fees: For filing each instrument, or copy, six cents; for entering the same as aforesaid, six cents; for searching for each paper, six cents; and the like fees for certified copies of such instruments or copies as are allowed by law to clerks of counties for copies and certificates of records kept by them. The comptroller is entitled to receive the following fees for services performed under this article, for the use of the state: For filing each instrument or copy and entering the same, twenty-five cents; for searching for each paper, twenty-five cents; and the like fees for certified copies of such instruments or copies, as are allowed by law to be charged by the comptroller for copies and certificates of records kept in his office. No officer is required to file or enter any such paper or furnish a copy thereof, until his lawful fees are paid.

§ 95. Mortgages invalid after one year, unless statement is filed.—A chattel mortgage, except as otherwise provided in this article, shall be invalid as against creditors of the mortgagor, and against subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith, after the expiration of the first or any succeeding term of one year, reckoning from the time of the first filing, unless,

1. Within thirty days next preceding the expiration of each such term, a statement containing a description of such mortgage, the names of the parties, the time when and place where filed, the interest of the mortgagee or of any person who has succeeded to his interest in the property claimed by virtue thereof, or

2. A copy of such mortgage and its endorsements, together with a statement attached thereto or indorsed thereon, showing the interest of the mortgagee or of any person who has succeeded to his interest in the mortgage, is filed in the proper office in the city or town where the mortgagor then resides, if he is then a resident of the town or city where the mortgage or a copy thereof or such statement was last filed; if not such resident, but a resident of the state, a true copy of such mortgage, together with such statement, shall be filed in the proper office of the town or city where he then resides; and if not a resident of the state, then in the proper office of the city or town where the property so mortgaged was at the time of the execution of the mortgage.

§ 96. Duration of lien of mortgage on canal craft.—Every mortgage upon a canal boat or other craft navigating the canals of this state, filed as provided in this article, shall be valid as against the creditors of the mortgagor and against subsequent purchasers or mortgagees in good faith, as long as the debt which the mortgage secures is enforceable. From the time of filing, every such mortgage shall have preference and priority over all other claims and liens, not existing at the time of such filing.

§ 97. Copies to be evidence of certain facts. A copy of any such original instrument, or of a copy thereof, including any statement relating thereto, certified by the officer with whom the same is filed, may be received in evidence, but only of the fact that such instrument, or copy, or statement was received and filed according to the endorsement thereon; and the original endorsement upon such instrument or copy may be received in evidence only of the facts stated in such endorsement.

§ 98. Mortgage, how discharged of record.—Upon the payment or satisfaction of a chattel mortgage, the mortgagee, his assignee or legal representative upon the request of the mortgagor or of any person interested in the mortgaged property, must sign and acknowledge a certificate setting forth such payment or satisfaction. The officer with whom the mortgage, or a copy thereof is filed, must, on receipt of such certificate, file the same, in his office, and write the word "discharged" in the book where the mortgage is entered, opposite the entry thereof, and the mortgage is thereby discharged.

ARTICLE IX.

CONTRACTS FOR THE CONDITIONAL SALE OF GOODS AND CHATTELS.

Section 110. Definitions.

111. Conditional sale of railroad equipment and rolling stock.
112. Conditions and reservations in contracts for the sale of goods and chattels.
113. Where contract to be filed.
114. Endorsement, entry, refiling and discharge of conditional contracts.
115. Preceding sections not to apply to certain articles.
116. Sale of property retaken by vendor.
117. Notice of sale.
118. Disposition of proceeds.

Section 110. Definitions.—The term "conditional vendor," when used in this article, means the person contracting to sell goods and chattels upon condition that the ownership thereof is to remain in such person, until such goods and chattels are fully paid for or until the occurrence of any future event or contingency; the term "conditional vendee," when so used, means the person to whom such goods and chattels are so sold.

§ 111. Conditional sale of railroad equipment and rolling stock.—Whenever any railroad equipment and rolling stock is sold, leased or loaned under a contract which provides that the title to such property, notwithstanding the use and possession thereof by the vendee, lessee or bailee, shall remain in the vendor, lessor or ballor, until the terms of the contract as to the payment of installments, amounts or rentals payable, or the performance of other obligations thereunder, are fully complied with and that title to such property shall pass to the vendee, lessee or other bailee on full payment therefor, such contract shall be invalid as to any subsequent judgment creditor of or purchaser from such vendee, lessee or bailee for a valuable consideration, without notice, unless

1. Such contract is in writing, duly acknowledged and recorded in the book in which real estate mortgages are recorded in the office of the county clerk or register of the county in which is located the principal office or place of business of such vendee, lessee or bailee; and unless

2. Each locomotive or car so sold, leased or loaned, has the name of the vendor, lessor or ballor, or of the assignee of such vendor, lessor or ballor, plainly marked upon both sides thereof, followed by the word owner, lessor, ballor or assignee, as the case may be.

§ 112. Conditions and reservations in contracts for sale of goods and chattels.—Except as otherwise provided in this article, all conditions and reservations in a contract for the conditional sale of goods and chattels, accompanied by immediate delivery and continued possession of the thing contracted to be sold, to the effect that the ownership of such goods and chattels is to remain in the conditional vendor or in a person other than the conditional vendee, until they are paid for, or until the occurrence of a future event or contingency shall be void as against subsequent purchasers, pledgees or mortgagees in good faith, and as to them the sale shall be deemed absolute, unless such contract of sale, containing such conditions and reservations, or a true copy thereof be filed as directed in this article.

§ 113. Where contract to be filed.—Such contracts shall be filed in the city or town where the conditional vendee resides, if he resides within the state at the time of the execution thereof; and if not, in the city or town where such property is at such time. Such contract shall be filed, in the city of New York, in the office of the register of the city and county of New York; in the city of Brooklyn, in the office of the register of the county of Kings; in every other city or town of the state, in the office of the town clerk, unless there be a county clerk's office in the city or town, when it shall be filed in such office.

§ 114. Endorsement, entry, refilling and discharge of conditional contracts.—The provisions of the preceding article relating to chattel mortgages apply to the endorsement, entry, refilling and discharge of contracts for the conditional sale of goods and chattels. The officers with whom such contracts are filed shall enter the future contingency or event required to occur before the ownership of such goods and chattels shall pass from the vendor to the vendee, and the amount due upon such contract and the time when due. The name of the conditional vendor shall be entered in the column of "mortgagees" and the name of the conditional vendee in the column of "mortgagors." The officers performing services under this article are entitled to receive the same fees as for like services relating to chattel mortgages.

§ 115. Preceding sections not to apply to certain articles.—The preceding sections of this article do not apply to the conditional sale of household goods, pianos, organs, scales, butchers' and meat market tools and fixtures, wood cutting machinery, engines, dynamos, boilers, portable furnaces, boilers for heating purposes, threshing machines, horse-powers, mowing machines, reapers, harvesters, grain drills and attachments, dairy sizes of centrifugal cream separators, coaches, hearses, carriages, buggies, phaetons and other vehicles, bicycles, tricycles and other devices for locomotion by human power, if the contract for the sale thereof is executed in duplicate, and one duplicate delivered to the purchaser.

§ 116. Sale of property retaken by vendor.—Whenever articles are sold upon the condition that the title thereto shall remain in the vendor, or in some other person than the vendee, until the payment of the purchase price, or until the occurrence of a future event or contingency, and the same are retaken by the vendor, or his successor in interest, they shall be retained for a period of thirty days from the time of such retaking, and during such period the vendee or his successor in interest may comply with the terms of such contract, and thereupon receive such property. After the expiration of such period, if such terms are not complied with, the vendor, or his successor in interest, may cause such articles to be sold at public auction.

§ 117. Notice of sale.—Not less than fifteen days before such sale, a printed or written notice shall be served personally upon the vendee, or his successor in interest, if he is within the county where the sale is to be held; and if not within such county, or he can not be found therein, such notice must be mailed to him at his last known place of residence.

Such notice shall state:

1. The terms of the contract.
2. The amount unpaid thereon.
3. The amount of expenses of storage.
4. The time and place of the sale, unless such amounts are sooner paid.

§ 118. Disposition of proceeds.—Of the proceeds of such sale, the vendor or his successor in interest may retain the amount due upon his contract, and the expenses of storage and of sale; the balance thereof shall be held by the vendor or his successor in interest, subject to the demand of the vendee or his successor in interest, and a notice that such balance is so held shall be served personally or by mail upon the vendee or his successor in interest. If such balance is not called for within thirty days from the time of sale, it shall be deposited with the treasurer or chamberlain of the city or village, or the supervisor of the town where such sale was held, and there shall be filed therewith a copy of the notice served upon the vendee or his successor in interest and a verified statement of the amount unpaid upon the contract, expenses of storage and of sale and the amount of such balance. The officer with whom such balance was deposited shall credit the vendee or his successor in interest with the amount thereof and pay the same to him on demand after sufficient proof of identity. If such balance remains in possession of such officer for a period of five years, unclaimed by the person legally entitled thereto, it shall be transferred to the funds of the town, village or city, and be applied and used as other moneys belonging to such town, village or city.

Enforcement of a mechanic's lien on real property.—A mechanic's lien on real property may be enforced against such property, and against a person liable for the debt upon which the lien is founded, by an action, by the lienor, his assignee or legal representative, in a court which has jurisdiction in an action founded on a contract for a sum of money equivalent to the amount of such debt.

§ 3400. Enforcement of a lien under contract for a public improvement.—A lien for labor done or materials furnished for a public improvement may be enforced against the funds of the municipal corporation for which such public improvement is constructed, to the extent prescribed in article one of the lien law, and against the contractor or sub-contractor liable for the debt, by a civil action, in the same court and in the same manner as a mechanic's lien on real property.

§ 3401. Action in a court of record; consolidation.—The provisions of this code, relating to actions for the foreclosure of a mortgage upon real property, and the sale and the distribution of the proceeds thereof apply to actions in a court of record, to enforce mechanics' liens on real property, except as otherwise provided in this title. If actions are brought by different lienors in a court of record, the court in which the first action was brought, may, upon its own motion, or upon the application of either party to either action, consolidate all of such actions.

§ 3402. Parties to an action in a court of record.—In an action in a court of record the following are necessary parties defendant:

1. All lienors having liens against the same property or any part thereof.
2. All other persons having subsequent liens or claims against the property, by judgment, mortgage or otherwise, and
3. All persons appearing by the records in the office of the county clerk or register to be overseers of such property or any part thereof. Every defendant who is a lienor shall, by answer in the action, set forth his lien, or he will be deemed to have waived the same, unless the lien is admitted in the complaint, and not contested by another defendant. Two or more lienors having liens upon the same property or any part thereof, may join as plaintiffs.

§ 3403. Equities of lienors to be determined.—The court may adjust and determine the equities of all the parties to the action and the order of priority of different liens, and determine all issues raised by any defense or counterclaim in the action.

§ 3404. Action in a court not of record.—If an action to enforce a mechanic's lien against real property is brought in a court not of record, it shall be commenced by the personal service upon the owner, anywhere within the state, of a summons and complaint verified in the same manner as a complaint in an action in a court of record. The complaint must set forth substantially the facts contained in the notice of lien, and the substance of the agreement under which the labor was performed or the materials were furnished. The form and contents of the summons shall be the same as provided by this code for the commencement of an action upon a contract in such court. The summons must be returnable not less than twelve nor more than twenty days after the date of the summons, or, if service is made by publication, after the day of the last publication of the summons. Service must be made at least eight days before the return day.

§ 3405. When personal service can not be made.—If personal service of the summons can not be made upon a defendant in an action in a court not of record, by reason of his absence from the state, or his concealment therein, such service may be made by leaving a copy thereof at his last place of residence and by publishing a copy of the summons once in each of three successive weeks in a newspaper in the city or county where the property is situated.

§ 3406. Proceedings on return of summons; judgment by default.—At the time and place specified in the summons for the return thereof, in a court not of record, issue must be joined, if both parties appear, by the defendant filing with the justice a verified answer, containing a general denial of each allegation of the complaint, or a specific denial of one or more of the material allegations thereof; or any other matter constituting a defense to the lien or to the claim upon which it is founded. If the defendant fail to appear on the return-day, on proof by affidavit of the service of the summons and complaint, judgment may be rendered for the amount claimed, with costs.

§ 3407. Issue, how tried.—If issue is joined in such action in a court not of record, it must be tried in the same manner as other issues in such court, and judgment entered thereon, which shall be enforced, if for the plaintiff, in the manner provided in the following section. If for the defendant, in the same manner as in an action on contract in such court.

§ 3408. Executions.—Execution may be issued upon a judgment obtained in an action to enforce a mechanic's lien against real property in a court not of record, which shall direct the officer to sell the title and interest of the owner in the premises, upon which the lien set forth in the complaint existed at the time of filing the notice of lien.

§ 3409. Appeals from judgments in courts not of record.—An appeal may be taken from such judgment rendered in a court not of record, according to the provisions of this code regulating appeals from judgments in actions on contracts in such courts.

§ 3410. Transcripts of judgment in courts not of record.—When a judgment is rendered in a court not of record, the justice or judge of the court in which it is tried, or other person authorized to furnish transcripts of judgments therein, shall furnish the successful party a transcript thereof, which he may file with the clerk of the county with whom the notice of lien is filed. The filing of such transcript has the same effect as the filing of a transcript of any other judgment rendered in such courts.

§ 3411. Costs and disbursements.—If an action is brought to enforce a mechanic's lien against real property in a court of record, the costs and disbursements shall rest in the discretion of the court, and may be awarded to the prevailing party. The judgment rendered in such an action shall include the amount of such costs and specify to whom and by whom the costs are to be paid. If such action is brought in a court not of record, they shall be the same as allowed in civil actions in such court. The expenses incurred in serving the summons by publication may be added to the amount of costs now allowed in such court.

§ 3412. Judgment in case of failure to establish lien.—If the lienor shall fail, for any reason, to establish a valid lien in an action under the provisions of this title, he may recover judgment therein for such sums as are due him, or which he might recover in an action on a contract, against any party to the action.

§ 3413. Offer of payment.—At any time after an action is brought under the provisions of this title, the owner may make and file with the clerk with whom the notice of lien is filed, if in a court of record, and if in a court not of record, with the court, an offer to pay into court the sum of money stated therein, or to execute and deposit securities which he may describe, in discharge of the lien, and serve upon the plaintiff a copy of such offer. If a written acceptance of the offer is filed with such clerk, or court, within ten days after its service, and a copy of the acceptance is served upon the party making the offer, the court, upon proof of such offer and acceptance, may make an order, that on depositing with such clerk, or court, the sum so offered, or the securities described, the lien shall be discharged, and that the money or securities deposited shall take the place of the property upon which the lien existed, and shall be subject to the lien. If the offer is of money only, the court, on application and notice to the plaintiff may make such order, without the acceptance of the offer by the plaintiff. Money or securities deposited upon the acceptance of an offer pursuant to this section shall be held by the clerk or the court until the final determination of the action, including an appeal.

§ 3414. Preference over contractors.—When a laborer or a material man shall perform labor or furnish materials for an improvement of real property for which he is entitled to a mechanic's lien, the amount due to him shall be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of such property under any judgment rendered pursuant to this title, in the order of priority of his lien, before any part of such proceeds is paid to a contractor or subcontractor. If several notices of lien are filed for the same claim, as where the contractor has filed a notice of lien for the services of his workmen, and the workmen have also filed notices of lien, the judgment shall provide for but one payment of the claim which shall be paid to the parties entitled thereto in the order of priority. Payment voluntarily made upon any claim filed as a lien shall not impair or diminish the lien of any person except the person to whom the payment was made.

§ 3415. Judgment may direct delivery of property in lieu of money.—If the owner has agreed to deliver bills, notes, securities or other obligations or any other species of property, in payment of the debt upon which the lien is based, the judgment may direct that such substitute be delivered or deposited as the court may direct, and the property affected by the lien cannot be sold, by virtue of such judgment, except in default of the owner to so deliver or deposit within the time directed by the court.

§ 3416. Judgment for deficiency.—If upon the sale of the property under judgment in a court of record there is a deficiency of proceeds to pay the plaintiff's claim, judgment may be docketed for the deficiency against any person liable therefor, who shall be adjudged to pay the same in like manner and with like effect as in judgments for deficiency in foreclosure cases.

§ 3417. Discharge of mechanics' lien, by order of court.—A mechanic's lien on real property may be vacated and canceled by an order of a court of record. Before such order shall be granted a notice shall be served upon the lienor, either personally or by leaving it at his last-known place of residence, with a person of suitable age, with directions to deliver it to the lienor. Such notice shall require the lienor to commence an action to enforce the lien, within a time specified in the notice, not less than thirty days from the time of service, or show cause at a special term of a court of record, or at a county court, in a county in which the property is situated, at a time and place specified therein, why the notice of lien filed should not be vacated and canceled of record. Proof of such service and that the lienor has not commenced the action to foreclose such lien, as directed in the notice, shall be made by affidavit, at the time of applying for such order.

§ 3418. Judgments in actions to foreclose liens on account of public improvements.—If, in an action to enforce a lien on account of a public improvement, the court finds that the lien is established, it shall render judgment directing the municipal corporation to pay over to the lienors entitled thereto for work done or material furnished for such public improvement, and in such order of priority as the court may determine, to the extent of the sums found due the lienors from the contractors, so much of the funds or money which may be due from the state or municipal corporation to the contractor, as will satisfy such liens, with interest and costs, not exceeding the amount due to the contractor.

§ 3419. Judgment in actions to foreclose a mechanic's lien on property of a railroad corporation.—If the lien is for labor done or materials furnished for a railroad corporation, upon its land, or upon or for its track, rolling stock or the appurtenances of its railroad, the judgment shall not direct the sale of any of the real property described in the notice of the lien, but when in such case a judgment is entered and docketed with the county clerk of the county where the notice of lien is filed, or a transcript thereof is filed and docketed in any other county, it shall be a lien upon the real property of the railroad corporation, against which it is obtained, to the same extent, and enforceable in like manner as other judgments of courts of record against such corporation.

§ 2. The code of civil procedure is hereby amended by inserting in chapter twenty-two a new title, to be known as title four, and to read as follows:

Section 3419. Enforcement of liens on vessels.—Liens on vessels, created by virtue of article two of the lien law, and not based upon a maritime contract, may be enforced as prescribed in this title.

§ 3420. Application for warrant.—The lienor may make a written application to a justice of the supreme court, at chambers, in the judicial district in which the lienor resides or in a county adjoining such district, for a warrant to enforce a lien on a vessel and to collect the amount thereof.

The application shall specify:

1. By whom and when such debt was contracted and for what vessel; and the name and residence of the owner of the vessel, if known.

2. The items composing the debt and the amount claimed.

3. That the debt is justly due the applicant over and above all payments and just deductions.

4. Any assignment or transfer of the debt which may have taken place since it was contracted.

5. When and where the notice of lien was filed.

The application shall be verified in the same manner as a pleading in a court of record.

§ 3421. Undertaking to accompany application.—Such application shall be accompanied by an undertaking in the sum of at least one hundred dollars, to be approved by such justice and filed in the office of the clerk of the county where the notice of lien is filed, with at least one surety, who shall be a resident and freeholder within the state, to the effect that if it is finally adjudged that the applicant was not entitled to the warrant, he will pay all costs which may be awarded against him, not exceeding the amount specified in the undertaking, and any damages sustained by reason of the seizure of the vessel under such warrant, not to exceed fifty dollars.

§ 3422. Warrant; execution thereof.—Thereupon, such justice shall issue a warrant to the sheriff of the county where such vessel may be, or generally to the sheriff of any county, specifying the amount of the claim, and the names of the persons making the claim and commanding him to seize and safely keep such ship or vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, to satisfy such claim, if established to be a lien upon the vessel according to law, and within ten days after the seizure to make return of his proceedings under the warrant to such justice. The sheriff shall forthwith execute such warrant, and keep the vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture to be disposed of according to law. In his return the sheriff shall state also whether he has seized such vessel by virtue of any other warrant, and if so, in whose behalf and for what sum such warrant was issued and the time of its receipt by him.

§ 3423. Order to show cause; contents; service.—At the time of issuing such warrant the justice shall grant an order to show cause why the vessel seized by virtue of such warrant should not be sold to satisfy the lien specified in the application. Such order shall be returnable not less than eight days after the service thereof, as required in this section, before the justice and at the time and place mentioned therein. It shall be directed to the master or other person in charge of the vessel seized and to the owner and consignee thereof, if known. A copy of such order and the application for the warrant shall be served personally upon the master or other person in charge of such vessel at the time of the execution of such warrant; and personally upon the owner and consignee of such vessel if a resident of the state, or if not a resident of the state, by mail addressed to such owner or consignee at his last known place of residence, within ten days after the execution of such warrant.

§ 3424. Notice of service to be published and served.—Within three days after the issue of the warrant, the applicant shall cause a notice to be published once in each week for two consecutive weeks, in a newspaper published in the county where the vessel was seized, stating the issuance of the warrant, the date thereof, the amount of the claim specified therein, the name of the applicant, and the time and place of the return of the order to show cause granted as prescribed in this title. If the vessel seized is used to navigate any of the canals or lakes of the state, a copy of such notice shall be served personally, or by mail, within ten days after the first publication, upon all persons who have filed claims or liens against such vessel, by mortgage or otherwise in the office of the comptroller of the state.

§ 3425. Proceedings upon return of order to show cause.—At the time and place mentioned in the order to show cause, the master or other person in charge of such vessel, the owner or consignee thereof or any other person interested therein, may apply and contest the claim of the lienor as contained in the application for a warrant, by filing with the justice an affidavit controverting any material allegation contained in the notice of lien or the application of the lienor. The issue so raised shall be tried as are other issues in a court of record, without a jury, before the justice granting the order at a time to be fixed by him, or they may be referred by him to a referee, to be heard and determined.

§ 3426. Order of sale.—An order may be made by the justice before whom the order to show cause was returnable, for the sale of the vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture, in the following cases:

1. In case the master, owner, consignee or other person interested in the vessel does not appear upon the return day and contest the claim of the lienor, and proof is made of the service of the order to show cause and the application and of the publication of the notice and the service thereof, as required in this title, and due proof is made of the validity and amount of such claim;

2. In case a trial is had of the issues raised, and it is determined that the lien is valid and the amount claimed by the lienor or some part thereof is due.

Such order shall direct the sheriff who seized the vessel to sell the same and her tackle, apparel and furniture, to satisfy the liens established on hearing, and pay the costs and expenses necessarily incurred in the proceedings as prescribed in this title. The rights of mortgagees whose mortgages have been filed according to law, prior to the filing of the notice of lien, on account of which the order of sale is granted shall not be affected by the sale of such vessel pursuant to such order.

§ 3427. Sale and proceeds.—Within ten days after the receipt of the order of sale, the sheriff, unless the order be sooner vacated or the lien discharged, shall sell the vessel seized, her tackle, apparel and furniture, upon notice, and in the manner prescribed by law for the sale of personal property upon execution issued out of a court of record. He shall make a return to the justice granting the order, of his proceedings thereunder, and shall, after deducting his fees and expenses in seizing, preserving, watching and selling the vessel, pay into court the remaining proceeds of the sale.

§ 3428. Notice of the distribution of the proceeds of sale.—The justice granting the order of sale, upon receiving such proceeds, shall order a notice to be published once a week for three successive weeks in the same newspaper in which the notice of seizure was published, requiring all persons having liens upon the vessel under article two of the lien law, and the master, owner, agent or consignee thereof, and all other persons interested therein, to appear before him, or a referee appointed by him, at the time and place specified in such notice, not less than thirty nor more than forty days from the first publication thereof, to attend a distribution of such proceeds. Such justice may appoint a referee to make such distribution.

§ 3429. Liens for which no warrants are issued.—A person who has a lien under article two of the lien law, against the vessel so sold, and has made no application for a warrant thereon, may present to and file with the justice or referee at the time and place specified in the notice of distribution of such proceeds, a verified statement of the facts and allegations required to be stated in the application for a warrant. And thereupon such lien shall be determined, with the same effect as if a warrant had been issued to enforce such lien.

§ 3430. Contested claims.—The master, owner, agent or consignee of the vessel, or any person having an interest in the proceeds before final distribution thereof, may contest any claim made against the vessel or its proceeds, by filing with such justice a written answer, verified as a pleading in a court of record, designating the claims contested and controverting any material allegation of the notice of lien, application for a warrant or statement of lien, and setting up any other matter in defense thereto. A copy of such answer shall be served within five days from such filing, upon the person whose claim is contested, or his attorney.

If the answer does not contain any matter of defense to the claim, it may be stricken out on motion of any person who has filed a notice of lien against the vessel.

§ 3431. Trial of issues and appeal.—The issues raised by any such answer shall be tried in the same manner as issues are tried in a court of record without a jury, before such justice at a time and place to be fixed by him, or they may be referred by such justice to a referee, to hear and determine. An appeal may be taken from the decision of such justice or referee as in a civil action in a court of record. On such appeal the decision upon the law and the facts, may be reversed, modified or a new trial ordered. Costs, upon appeal, shall be allowed, as in the case of an appeal from a judgment in a court of record, and judgment may be rendered therefor.

§ 3432. Distribution of proceeds.—Upon the determination of all the claims presented, the justice or referee shall make an order of distribution of the proceeds. The order shall direct the payment of the claims found to be subsisting liens upon such vessel or proceeds, with all costs, expenses and allowances, in the order of the priority of filing the notices of such liens, as provided in article two of the lien law. Such costs, expenses and allowances shall be in the discretion of the justice, except as otherwise provided in this title.

§ 3433. Payment of uncontested claims.—Any uncontested claims, entitled to priority of payment over the claims which are contested, shall, on motion of the parties interested, be paid with costs, in the order of their respective priorities, without awaiting the determination of such contest. If at any time it is made to appear that after the payment of all prior uncontested claims and their respective costs, and after deducting an amount sufficient to pay all prior contested claims and costs, that there remains a surplus of proceeds applicable to the payment of any subsequent uncontested claims such claims may on notice to all the parties interested be paid out of the surplus with costs, without awaiting the determination of such contest.

§ 3434. Distribution of surplus.—If upon payment of all claims established as liens against the vessel from the proceeds of its sale, a surplus remains, it may be distributed by the court to the persons entitled thereto, after a hearing and the publication of a notice by the applicants for the same time and in the same manner as the notice of seizure is required by this title to be published. Such notice shall specify the amount of the surplus proceeds, the names of the persons applying therefor, the name of the vessel from the sale of which the same arose, the date of the sale and the time and place when the hearing will be held and the distribution of the surplus made.

§ 3435. Application for a discharge of warrant.—The owner, consignee, agent or master of any vessel so seized, or any person interested therein, may at any time before the sale of the vessel under this title, apply in person or by attorney to the justice issuing the warrant, on at least one day's notice to the lienor or his attorney, for an order discharging the same on giving an undertaking therefor. Such notice shall specify the names, places of residence and places of business of the proposed sureties upon such undertaking.

§ 3436. Undertaking to accompany application for discharge.—The application shall be accompanied by an undertaking to the lienor executed by at least two sureties in a sum at least twice the amount specified in the warrant, to the effect that the person making the application for the discharge of the vessel will pay the amount of all claims and demands which shall be established to be due to the person in whose behalf the warrant was issued, and to have been a subsisting lien on the vessel at the time of its issue. The undertaking, when found sufficient, must be approved by the justice to whom the application is made as to the sufficiency of the sureties, and the lienor may examine the sureties as to their sufficiency at such time and places as may be fixed by such justice.

§ 3437. Discharge of warrant.—When such undertaking shall have been executed, approved and delivered to the lienor and the taxed fees of the sheriff upon the seizure and detention of the vessel have been paid, the justice shall make an order discharging the warrant, and no further proceedings against the vessel seized shall be had under this article founded upon any demand secured by such undertaking.

§ 3438. Action on undertaking.—The undertaking may be prosecuted by action in any court having jurisdiction thereof, at any time within three months after its delivery, but not afterward. If, in such action it is found that any sum is due the plaintiff which was a subsisting lien upon the vessel at the time the notice of lien was filed, the plaintiff shall have judgment for the recovery of the same with the costs and disbursements of the action and the costs of the proceedings for the seizing of the vessel and shall have execution therefor. If it is found in such action that no such lien existed, judgment shall be rendered against the plaintiff for the costs and disbursements of the action and the costs of the proceedings, including the amount paid the sheriff in the discharge of the vessel from the warrant.

§ 3439. Costs of proceedings.—The costs of the proceedings in addition to the disbursements shall be: For filing notice of lien, two dollars. For applying for and procuring a warrant if the lien is fifty dollars or under, ten dollars; if the lien exceeds fifty dollars and is not more than two hundred and fifty dollars, twenty dollars; if the lien exceeds two hundred and fifty dollars, and is not more than one thousand dollars, thirty dollars; if the lien exceeds one thousand dollars, forty dollars. For attending proceedings upon the discharge of the warrant on the execution of an undertaking, ten dollars. The sheriff shall be entitled in any such proceeding to the following fees and expenses: For serving warrant, one dollar. For return of the same, one dollar. The necessary sums paid by him for the expense of keeping the vessel in custody, not exceeding two dollars and fifty cents for each day. The sheriff shall not receive any other or greater sums for any service rendered by him in any proceeding under this title, nor shall he be allowed expense of custody of the vessel upon more than one warrant at the same time. All costs, disbursements and fees shall be verified by affidavit and adjusted by the justices issuing the warrant.

§ 3440. Sheriff must return warrant.—A sheriff to whom a warrant may have been delivered pursuant to the provisions of this title, may be compelled by an order made by the justice issuing it, to return such warrant with his proceedings thereon and pay over moneys in his hands, and to take any necessary steps for the safety of the vessel, pursuant to any order for that purpose. Obedience to such an order may be enforced by attachment against the sheriff on the application of any person interested therein.

§ 3441. Discharge of lien before issue of warrant.—When any notice of lien shall have been filed under this article and no warrant has been issued to enforce the same, any person interested in the vessel may apply to any justice of the supreme court for leave to discharge the lien upon giving an undertaking therefor to the lienor. The application shall be in writing, and shall state the amount of the lien claimed and the grounds of the defense thereto, and the names of the persons proposed as sureties on such undertaking, with their respective residences and places of business. Upon presenting such application with proof that a copy thereof, with at least five days' notice of the time and place of presenting the same, has been served upon the lienor, such justice may, if no just cause be shown in opposition thereto, authorize the execution of such undertaking, which shall be to the same effect as an undertaking required in this article upon the application to discharge a warrant, and an action may be brought thereon in like manner. At the time of the presentation of such application the sureties proposed in such undertaking shall justify before such justice. When such undertaking has been executed and approved by such justice and delivered to the lienor, the justice shall direct the clerk with whom the notice of lien is filed to mark the same as discharged, and it shall cease to be lien upon such vessel.

§ 3. The laws enumerated in the schedule hereto annexed are repealed. Such repeal shall not revive a law repealed by any law hereby repealed, but shall include all laws amendatory of the laws hereby repealed.

§ 4. The repeal of a law or any part of it, specified in the annexed schedule shall not affect or impair any act done or right accruing, accrued or acquired under or by virtue of the laws so repealed, but the same may be asserted, enforced or prosecuted as fully and to the same extent as if such laws had not been repealed. And all actions and proceedings commenced under or by virtue of any provision of a law so repealed, and pending immediately prior to the taking effect of this act, may be prosecuted and defended to final effect in the same manner as they might if such provisions were not repealed.

§ 5. This act shall take effect September first, eighteen hundred and ninety-seven.

FIRST DAY'S SESSION—MORNING.

Promptly at 10 o'clock a. m., September 5, 1898, President Rufus R. Wade, of Boston, called the convention to order in its twelfth annual session, and after a few pleasantries by the chair, Mr. Wade appointed Inspectors Marriam and Moore a committee to wait upon his excellency, Governor Wolcott, of Massachusetts, and inform that gentleman that the convention had now assembled and was awaiting to receive him.

While this committee was departing for the Governor's office, the chair appointed another committee, consisting of Messrs. Halstrick and White, to await upon the mayor, his honor Josiah Quincy, and inform him that the convention had convened and was awaiting his presence.

GOVERNOR WOLCOTT'S WELCOME.

Ladies and Gentlemen, Members of the Convention:

I have come into your convention without a moment of preparation, and must extend to you a brief and informal but a most cordial and hearty welcome. I am glad to see so many different States represented, as shown by the placards in the various parts of this convention hall, and representing still further the provinces of Quebec and Ontario.

I consider that you are engaged in one of the most important departments of state. It is indeed a grand work, and is one in which women can take an active part as well as men, and we are all proud to know that old Massachusetts has stepped into the foremost ranks in the advancement of this work.

A State like Massachusetts finds employment and a livelihood for a majority of its people within the confines of the factory walls, consequently their surroundings should be made as safe and as healthful as possible, and the efforts in this line in our State have not been in vain.

The governor next referred to the child-labor problem in Massachusetts, and stated that at one time the evils were very numerous and apparent, and were being complained of from many sources and by the commonwealth in general; but that years of effort and guarded legislation, upheld by a faithful department of inspection, had nearly eradicated this evil from the confines of the State. The Governor spoke very complimentary both of the child-labor laws of the State and their enforcement, concluding this sentiment with the remark that he did not believe that the work had yet been fully completed, and that further advancement was still to be expected.

Governor Wolcott next devoted a few moments in covering the scope of the work and duties of the association in a very pleasant manner; concluding his remarks by reassuring those assembled of a most hearty welcome from the commonwealth of Massachusetts, calling their attention to the many points of interest, of pleasure, and business, in Boston and vicinity, urging the members not to work too hard or spend so much time in active session but that they might be privileged to see Boston before their return home.

In a few well-chosen words in behalf of the convention assembled, President Wade thanked the Governor for his very kind, generous and encouraging remarks, at the conclusion of which Governor Wolcott departed for the executive office.

MAYOR QUINCY'S WORDS OF WELCOME.

At this juncture a special committee presented the Honorable Josiah Quincy, mayor of Boston, who was very neatly introduced to the convention by President Wade.

Mayor Quincy preluded his remarks by saying:

It gives me great pleasure to extend to your convention most cordial words of welcome in the name of Boston.

Mayor Quincy continued, in substance, that as a member of the Legislature he had become most deeply interested in the work of factory inspection, and that he had taken active steps with those of his commonwealth, which was leading the way of its sister States in this class of legislation.

Early during the agitation of this subject in Massachusetts he had recognized the need of legislation of this character; and he was pleased with his State and glad to know that its representatives were both wise and bold enough to pass the laws they have, even when many of the commonwealth had said they were going too far and would rue their action. But such had not proved the case. It was certainly the duty of some State to lead, and he was both glad and proud of the fact that this duty and honor had befallen the commonwealth of Massachusetts. That it was a matter of credit to every citizen of this manufacturing State to know that it upheld and advanced the laws that were drafted in the interest of those who toil and spin in the factories.

He was struck with the contrast of the bettered condition of to-day over that of a few years ago, and while we had to follow the example of English laws for factory and working people, we were now rapidly approaching a standard equal to them, and we all hoped that we would surpass them.

He mentioned the diversified interests of our country and the different conditions of our working people in various States, and stated that while we sometimes seemed to move very slowly, yet when an idea takes hold of the American people, it bears fruition and we make up in rapidity after we have started. He expressed his great pleasure in being privileged to meet the official and chosen representatives of so many States, and it was gratifying to him to "bespeak the welcome of Boston, whose people, I assure you, desire me to extend to you a most honest and hospitable welcome."

Mayor Quincy said that he hoped that the deliberations of this body will result in the betterment of those employed in the factories of the country, and likewise result in the establishment of even better laws. He expressed his pleasure at seeing so many ladies represented in the State and national work, whose efforts must result in much good for the working women of our factories and shops, and he ventured the assertion that these inspections and investigations would be imperfect and incomplete without the aid of women.

The mayor concluded his remarks by saying:

I trust that your stay will be both a beneficial and pleasant one, and that the results of your convention will produce a spirit that will press on with this work with a renewed determination.

In behalf of the convention, President Wade very neatly thanked the mayor for his kind and practical remarks, after which his honor bowed his departure.

PRESIDENT WADE'S ANNUAL ADDRESS.

President Wade then read the following address, which elicited the greatest interest and was most happily received:

Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention:

Ten years ago the State Factory Inspectors held their second annual convention in this city. On that occasion it was my pleasant privilege to welcome the members of the convention. To-day, as we assemble in our twelfth annual gathering, I am indeed happy to greet you and to extend to you a most cordial welcome to Boston. Changes have been made in your respective departments, familiar faces I miss, but others have been appointed to fill their places, with whom we can exchange experiences of our common work, note the progress which has been made in our respective fields of labor, and derive such encouragement as we may from the interchanging of ideas.

We meet to-day to compare the legislation of our several States and countries, and to listen to the statements and suggestions of our colleagues.

Our chief duty as factory inspectors is to enforce laws whose execution is expressly entrusted to us; and while it is true that as factory inspectors we are not to be held responsible for those laws either in scope or in their effect upon the general welfare, we do not conceal the fact that legislators depend upon us for such facts and suggestions as our peculiar experience furnish, to aid them in procuring proper legislation.

Important labor reforms in Massachusetts have always been the result of earnest and protracted discussions. Thus year after year the so-called labor laws have been enacted, being continually enlarged by legislation, based upon the demands of accumulating experience. Perhaps no more important legislation for the protection of children has been made than is contained in the law enacted by the Legislature of Massachusetts at its last session. It provides that no child under 14 years of age shall be employed in any factory, workshop or mercantile establishment. No such child shall be employed in any work performed for wages or other compensation, to whomsoever payable, during the hours when the public schools of the town or city in which he resides are in session, nor be employed at any work before the hour of 6 o'clock in the morning, or after the hour of 7 o'clock in the evening. No child under 16 years of age shall be employed in any factory, workshop or mercantile establishment, unless the person or corporation employing him procures and keeps on file and accessible to the school attendance officers of the town or city, and to the district police, and inspectors of factories, an age and schooling certificate as hereinafter prescribed, and keeps two complete lists of all such children employed therein, one on file and one conspicuously posted near the principal entrance of the building in which such children are employed, and also keeps on file a complete list, and sends to the superintendent of schools, or where there is no superintendent, to the school committee, the names of all minors therein who cannot read at sight and write legibly simple sentences in the English language.

It is said that Cardinal Manning, in an earnest plea for raising the minimum age for employment of children in England, under the new Factory Act, from 10 to 12 years, made this statement: "That nations take rank in civilization according as they legislate for women and children." Such legislation is an advance that never will be lost or abandoned. The effect upon coming generations it would be impossible to exaggerate. Consider, you that are familiar with the former conditions of things, what it means to thousands of our children. While it is true that much of the work required of children in our factories and workshops is not of a severely exacting nature, yet it must be maintained that the practice of subjecting young children to a daily round of labor, for which they receive a mere pittance in the form of wages, is a wrong alike to the State, and wholly antagonistic to the enlightened and liberal sentiment of the age. Nor can any man adequately state the far-reaching influences of such legislation as the Fifty-eight Hour Law, now in successful operation in this State. To say that shortening the hours of labor gives needed leisure time to the operative, encourages self-culture, affords additional opportunity for recreation and thereby improves the condition of the wage earner throughout the land, seems like exhausting the catalogue of good results. But it does not take into account the fact that the worker becomes more a man and less like the machinery among which he toils. Nor does it estimate the tendency of such a law to broaden and elevate all subsequent legislation, and to raise the whole community to a higher level. The great mass of our population in America belong to the industrial class; what is gained by them in comfort, health, contentment, leisure and prosperity, is your gain and mine and the whole nation's.

That good results have followed the work of our annual conventions we all must admit. It has equalized the statutes to a great extent in our different States and countries. We have a more uniform system of inspection, a better understanding of our duties as inspectors, fewer mistakes occur in our administration of the laws especially entrusted to us to enforce. We have a better knowledge of applied inventions. This information has been a benefit to us all. It has broadened our scope of knowledge of proper factory inspection work. We are glad of the presence and co-operation of our colleagues from over the border, and acknowledge the benefits we have derived from their experience and wisdom. As individuals, or as groups, we represent separate jurisdictions, and in some respects more or less important; our duties as inspectors are more or less somewhat dissimilar, yet our official duties are so far distinct and specific that we all stand on common ground, and are interested in the same general work. As I have on more than one occasion stated, we do not meet annually in our conventions as a mutual admiration society, nor as a debating club, but as factory inspectors, commissioned by our respective States and countries to secure the enforcement of industrial laws which mark the progress of our modern civilization. In our annual conventions we have always maintained an entire freedom of discussion. By a candid comparison and criticism of our respective opinions and arguments, we have been able to prove and hold fast that which is good. At this stage of the convention I may not consume your time by entering upon the discussion of specific questions. Interesting and important questions which concern both employer and employe will undoubtedly engage your attention, and I am confident that the results of our conference will be a benefit to us all in the administration of the laws that are, or may be, enacted for the improvement and advancement of the laboring population.

The life of this association of factory inspectors has now extended over a period of twelve years, during eight years of which you have honored me by asking me to preside; and now as I am to retire from this office to which you kindly chose me at your first convention, I should not deserve your respect if I failed to acknowledge your uniform courtesy and forbearance, and I bespeak for my successor the like cordial support, to the end that the future of this association may be as useful and honorable as the past.

REPORT OF SECRETARY-TREASURER COX, OF LANSING, MICH.

LANSING, MICH., Sept. 1, 1898.

To the Hon. RUFUS R. WADE, President, and Members of the International Association of Factory Inspectors, assembled in twelfth annual convention at Boston, Mass.:

Dear Friends—I wish to herewith submit, for your honored consideration and final approval, my first annual report as secretary and treasurer of the association, in which I give you a detailed account of the receipts and disbursements of the funds of the association for the convention year ending September 5, 1898.

The year just closed has been an active one for all the people of this great land, and it has proved especially so for all public men and those engaged in any official capacity. While our duties have been arduous, with no spare moments for ourselves, yet we have most cheerfully devoted all time and thought required to meet the obligations so kindly imposed upon us at the last annual election of officers.

The work of collecting, editing and publishing the eleventh annual report, required much time and patience, but proved to us a "labor of love." In order to get it out more promptly and as correct as possible, we secured the services of an expert stenographer and proofreader, whom we compensated from the funds on hand, as duly reported hereafter.

Twelve hundred copies of the report were printed, 200 bound in cloth and the balance in pamphlet form. The cloth bound were gratuitously distributed throughout the association, while a number were placed on file with State and national libraries, who urgently sought them. The paper bound edition was disposed of by subscription as hereafter reported, which supplied sufficient means to meet all the printing bills of the association.

There were but two or three States that neglected to meet their annual assessments, and in two instances States subscribed for less than the the "usual" number of reports, which leaves in the hands of the secretary a few over 100 copies of the eleventh annual report, which will be mailed to the addresses of any members requesting them.

There has been a large volume of correspondence carried on during the year and many newspaper notices, which is proof positive of the healthy condition of the association and the manifest interest of its membership and friends.

The promptness of remittances and replies to official inquiries and correspondence was a great stimulant to us, and we feel that all heads of departments and many subordinates are deserving of our sincere thanks and a good compliment for their very kind and considerate treatment. No association could be more prompt in meeting its obligations, and no membership ever responded more promptly or more liberally. In this connection we wish to extend our thanks to our venerable president, Hon. Rufus R. Wade, for the assistance he has given our department, and for his kind and courteous treatment during the past year's administration of the affairs of the association.

Having reported the former proceedings in long hand, and knowing how laborious this work becomes during an extended session of several days, we would kindly suggest that in the future the secretary be empowered to employ an expert stenographer to take the verbatim report of the proceedings of the conventions.

ROLL-CALL OF DELEGATES IN ATTENDANCE.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON PROGRAMME.

The committee on programme then handed in the following: We recommend that the convention meet every morning at 9 a. m., and that the sessions be so arranged as not to interfere with the programme of the entertainment committee, and that the same order of business be followed as in previous conventions:

First.—Reports of chiefs of departments.

Second.—Papers on child-labor.

Third.—Technical papers, such as guarding the dangerous parts of machinery, ventilation, etc.

Fourth.—Papers on sweat shops.

Fifth.—Papers on bake shops and miscellaneous subjects.

Your committee would recommend a prompt attendance of delegates at each session of the convention, as the announcement of entertainments will be made at the close of each session. All of which is respectfully submitted.

CALL OF STATES.

Chief Campbell, of Pennsylvania, spoke very encouragingly of the progress of the work of his department in the Quaker State, but said that no laws had been enacted since the last convention, though they were preparing some for consideration at the next session of the Legislature.

Chief O'Leary, of New York, said that he had nothing special to present at present, as there had been no change in the laws of New York, and that the department was well satisfied with results they had obtained. He said that they did not claim that they were perfect, but that they were good so far as they went, and had proved more effective this year than ever before. He mentioned the fact that, under the proper call, he would present a paper touching more fully upon matters in general.

Chief Knaub, of Ohio, stated that he had nothing to offer at present, mentioning that there had been no changes in their laws since his last report.

Inspector Harris, of Illinois, said that, at the proper time, later on in the session, he would read a paper setting forth fully the work of their department.

Chief Cox, of Michigan, reported the work of his department progressing very finely, and being pushed harder than ever before, with results that were indeed gratifying.

Messrs. Mitchell, of Toronto, and Guyon, of Montreal, stated that no new laws had been enacted in the Provinces for several years, and the latter explained that the changing and broadening of their laws depended upon changing their system of education, which had not yet been accomplished.

Chief McAbee, of Indiana, read the following:

Mr. President and Members of the Convention:

In making a personal inspection of the factories of the State of Indiana, I find some of the features encountered in some of the Eastern States are not met with, yet we find much that requires the attention of some person in order that health and limb may be retained. We have with us factories that employ from 2,000 to 2,500 people; these in most cases are models, while many of the smaller ones where the protruding set screw, unguarded jointer, planer, shaper, or saw is continually calling out next, and is usually answered by the one who has the most assurance; for with those who follow these occupations it is only a question of time when they shall sacrifice a joint, finger or hand to the rapidly revolving knives or teeth of their pet machine. And strange as it may appear, the opposition to the use of safety devices comes from the men who operate rather than from the proprietors, who I find are ever willing to procure them. I have been asked repeatedly what they should do when a man refused to operate a machine with a safety device attached.

In most cases I have advised that they be given their money and get some one else to operate the machine who would use the guard, as it would in all probability save the man from becoming a cripple for life, and the firm a suit for damages. It is astonishing to see how many mangled and deformed hands there are among the wood-workers of our State. The dust problem is one with which we have had more trouble than any other; the lighter dust from wood-working machines is easily controlled, yet in the lathe or spoke-turning rooms we have not as yet been able to have it removed as we would like; however, it is in the stone rooms where mill stones are dressed that we have not had the success desired, for we find that since the cut nail has gone out of use these same stone rooms are the most deadly in their effects on the human system; 10 per cent. is about the average death-rate in such establishments. An autopsy being held on an employe of such a place it was discovered that his lungs had become so solidified that his heart could only be removed in pieces.

I have earnestly tried to find some method of removing this dust, but have so far failed, and if any one present can tell me how it may be accomplished I will be amply repaid for attending this convention. With us the sweat shop has not developed as it has farther East, and it our intention that it shall not reach proportions which will cause us trouble; however, we have in many of our wood-working establishments the piece-work system where men have to work with such rapidity in order to make living wages that they are completely exhausted at the close of the ten hours, yet frequently they are compelled to work overtime. The result is a breaking down of the system before they reach middle age. Sanitary conditions with us are bad only in one respect, that of lack of sufficient seats in closets, which is being remedied as rapidly as possible. It matters not what directions the Inspector may give, they are complied with at once, and oftentimes surprise expressed that they had not noticed the changes needed.

Child-labor in the State of Indiana is a thing of the past, so far as factories are concerned. When the law went into effect in May, 1897, there were from eight to twelve hundred boys under 14 years of age working in the glass factories of our State. On receiving the appointment of inspector, I said to the glass men: "As you have only two months more of this fire, and as we would be unable to get the boys in school this term, we will not be very strict with you until you start up in September, and then we will expect you to comply with the law." They accepted this as being just, and in consequence we have very little trouble with them. With the Factory Law enforced and the Compulsory Educational Law adhered to, the illiteracy existing in our State will only be maintained by the incoming of those who have not been permitted to enjoy the unequalled school privileges which are enjoyed by all the children of Hoosierdom. The scope of our law is rather limited; as it is it only applies to factories where ten or more are employed, leaving out the mercantile establishments where the cash boys or girls are confined from ten to sixteen hours per day, nor does the fire-escape feature apply only to factories. By noticing the accidents reported in the daily press, I am led to believe that there are more accidents in the factories where less than ten people are employed than there are in the larger factories where many are at work. My observation has been the smaller the shop the greater the negligence, and more risks are taken. We have in the State of Indiana a mine inspector who reports to the State geologist and is under his direction. Two labor commissioners whose duty it is to settle or prevent strikes, and they have been eminently successful; they report to the Governor and are appointed by him. A State statistician, who is elected. A factory inspector, and one assistant. Each of these appointments are separate and independent of each other. The labor commissioners and factory inspectors were created by the last Legislature, and in consequence their laws and appropriations are not as effective as they will be with a little more experience. We are of the opinion that the Legislature that meets this winter will so amend the laws and increase the appropriations that much more will be accomplished than has been possible thus far.

MASSACHUSETTS REPORT.

At the request of President Wade, Chief of the District Police of Massachusetts, Mr. Bardwell, read the following:

Mr. President and Members of the Convention:

There were enacted at this year's session of the Massachusetts Legislature certain laws affecting, in some degree, the industrial conditions of the State.

First. Chapter 394 is an "Act Relative to the Protection of Children," and defines more clearly the so-called "Theatre Law," which prohibits a child under the age of 15 years from dancing on the stage, or performing as a gymnast, contortionist or acrobat, in any circus or theatrical exhibition, or in any public place whatsoever—excepting in church or school exhibitions, or concerts, or festivals, children may take part on the special written permission of the mayor and aldermen of a city, or the selectmen of a town.

CHAP. 394.

AN ACT relative to the protection of children.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. Section forty-nine of chapter five hundred and eight of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four is hereby amended by striking out the whole of said section and inserting in place thereof the following:

§ 49. No person shall employ, or exhibit, or sell, apprentice, or give away for the purpose of employing or exhibiting, a child under fifteen years of age, in dancing on the stage, playing on musical instruments, singing, walking on a wire or rope, or riding or performing as a gymnast, contortionist, or acrobat, in any circus or theatrical exhibition, or in any public place whatsoever, or cause, procure, or encourage any such child to engage therein; provided, that nothing in this section shall be construed to prevent the education of children in vocal and instrumental music or dancing, or their employment as musicians in any church, chapel, or school, or school exhibition, or to prevent their taking part in any festival, concert, or musical exhibition on the special written permission of the mayor and aldermen of a city, or of the selectmen of a town.

CHAP. 481.

AN ACT to extend the operation of the law relative to the weekly payment of wages.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. Section one of chapter four hundred and thirty-eight of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-five, as amended by chapter three hundred and thirty-four of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-six, is hereby amended by striking out the words "and having more than twenty-five employees," in the seventh and eighth lines, so as to read as follows:

§ 1. Sections fifty-one to fifty-four, inclusive, of chapter five hundred and eight of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, relative to the weekly payment of wages by corporations, shall apply to all contractors and to any person or partnership engaged in this commonwealth in any manufacturing business. And the word "corporation," as used in said sections, shall include such contractors, persons and partnerships.

§ 2. This act shall take effect upon its passage. [Approved June 1, 1896.]

Prior to this year, any firm or corporation employing not more than twenty-five persons, was exempt from the provisions of the law requiring weekly payments to be made to its employees. This act strikes out that clause, so that all corporations, firms and contractors are now obliged to pay weekly.

Chapter 494 is an act to regulate the employment of labor.

The principal change made by this act is in raising the age at which a child may be employed in any factory, workshop, or mercantile establishment, from 13 to 14 years. This law went into effect on the first day of this month of September.

I would state that Chief Wade's last annual report shows that only 109 children affected by this amendment were found employed during the past year.

Another new provision in the law is, that two complete lists of all children shall be kept, and one to be conspicuously posted near the principal entrance to the building in which they are employed. This will be of great service to the inspectors, as the lists in many factories have been loosely kept.

CHAP. 494.

AN ACT to regulate the employment of labor.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. No child under fourteen years of age shall be employed in any factory, workshop, or mercantile establishment. No such child shall be employed in any work performed for wages or other compensation, to whomsoever payable, during the hours when the public schools of the town or city in which he resides are in session, nor be employed at any work before the hour of six o'clock in the morning or after the hour of seven o'clock in the evening.

§ 2. No child under sixteen years of age shall be employed in any factory, workshop or mercantile establishment unless the person or corporation employing him procures and keeps on file and accessible to the truant officers of the town or city, and to the district police and inspectors of factories, an age and schooling certificate as hereinafter prescribed, and keeps two complete lists of all such children employed therein, one on file and one conspicuously posted near the principal entrance of the building in which such children are employed, and also keeps on file a complete list, and sends to the superintendent of schools, or, where there is no superintendent, to the school committee, the names of all minors employed therein who can not read at sight and write legibly simple sentences in the English language.

§ 3. An age and schooling certificate shall be approved only by the superintendent of schools or by a person authorized by him in writing, or, where there is no superintendent of schools, by a person authorized by the school committee; provided, that no member of a school committee or other person authorized as aforesaid shall have authority to approve such certificate for any child then in or about to enter his own employment, or the employment of a firm or corporation of which he is a member, officer or employe. The person approving the certificate shall have authority to administer the oath provided for therein, but no fee shall be charged therefor.

§ 4. An age and schooling certificate shall not be approved unless satisfactory evidence is furnished by the last school census, the certificate of birth or baptism of such child, the register of birth of such child with a town or city clerk, or in some other manner, that such child is of the age stated in the certificate.

§ 5. The age and schooling certificate of a child under sixteen years of age shall not be approved and signed until he presents to the person authorized to approve and sign the same an employment ticket as hereinafter prescribed, duly filled out and signed. A duplicate of each age and schooling certificate shall be filled out and shall be kept on file by the school committee. Any explanatory matter may be printed with such certificate in the discretion of the school committee or superintendent of schools. The employment ticket and the age and schooling certificate shall be separately printed, and shall be filled out, signed and held, or surrendered, as indicated in the following forms:

Then personally appeared before me the above-named [name of person signing] , and made oath that the foregoing certificate by [him or her] signed is true to the best of [his or her] knowledge and belief. I hereby approve the foregoing certificate of [name of child] , height [feet and inches] , complexion [fair or dark], hair [color] , having no sufficient reason to doubt that [he or she] is of the age therein certified. I hereby certify that [he or she] [can or can not] read at sight and [can or can not] write legibly simple sentences in the English language.

This certificate belongs to [name of child in whose behalf it is drawn] , and is to be surrendered to [him or her] whenever [he or she] leaves the service of the corporation or employer holding the same; but if not claimed by said child within thirty days from such time it shall be returned to the superintendent of schools, or, where there is no superintendent of schools, to the school committee.

(Signature of person authorized to approve and sign, with official character or authority.)

(Town or city and date.)

In the case of a child who can not read at sight and write legibly simple sentences in the English language the certificate shall continue as follows, after the word "language:"

I hereby certify that [he or she] is regularly attending the [name] public evening school. This certificate shall continue in force only so long as the regular attendance of said child at the evening school is endorsed weekly by a teacher thereof.

§ 6. Whoever employs a child under sixteen years of age, and whoever having under his control a child under such age permits such child to be employed, in violation of sections one or two of this act, shall for such offense be fined not more than fifty dollars; and whoever continues to employ any child in violation of either of said sections of this act after being notified by a truant officer or an inspector of factories thereof, shall for every day thereafter that such employment continues be fined not less than five nor more than twenty dollars. A failure to produce to a truant officer or inspector of factories any age and schooling certificate or list required by this act shall be prima facie evidence of the illegal employment of any person whose age and schooling certificate is not produced or whose name is not so listed. Any corporation or employer retaining any age and schooling certificate in violation of section five of this act shall be fined ten dollars. Every person authorized to sign the certificate prescribed by section five of this act who knowingly certifies to any materially false statement therein shall be fined not more than fifty dollars.

§ 7. No person shall employ any minor over fourteen years of age, and no parent, guardian, or custodian shall permit to be employed any such minor under his control who can not read at sight and write legibly simple sentences in the English language, while a public evening school is maintained in the town or city in which such minor resides, unless such minor is a regular attendant at such evening school or at a day school; provided, that upon presentation by such minor of a certificate signed by a regular practising physician, and satisfactory to the superintendent of schools, or, where there is no superintendent of schools, the school committee, showing that the physical condition of such minor would render such attendance in addition to daily labor prejudicial to his health, said superintendent of schools or school committee shall issue a permit authorizing the employment of such minor for such period as said superintendent of schools or school committee may determine. Said superintendent of schools or school committee, or teachers acting under authority thereof, may excuse any absence from such evening school arising from justifiable cause. Any person who employs a minor in violation of the provisions of this section shall forfeit for each offense not more than one hundred dollars for the use of the evening schools of such town or city. Any parent, guardian, or custodian who permits to be employed any minor under his control in violation of the provisions of this section shall forfeit not more than twenty dollars for the use of the evening schools of such town or city.

§ 8. Truant officers may visit the factories, workshops, and mercantile establishments in their several towns and cities and ascertain whether any minors are employed therein contrary to the provisions of this act, and they shall report any cases of such illegal employment to the school committee and to the chief of the district police, or to the inspector of factories for the district. Inspectors of factories and truant officers may require that the age and schooling certificates and lists provided for in this act, of minors employed in such factories, workshops, or mercantile establishments, shall be produced for their inspection. Complaints for offenses under this act shall be brought by inspectors of factories.

§ 9. Sections thirteen, fourteen, sixteen to twenty-five inclusive, sixty-seven, sixty-nine, and seventy of chapter five hundred and eight of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and ninety-four, and all other acts and parts of acts inconsistent herewith, are hereby repealed.

§ 10. This act shall take effect on the first day of September, in the year eighteen hundred and ninety-eight. [Approved June 2, 1898.]

The following, chapter 505, is so short that I will read it.

CHAP. 505.

AN ACT to prohibit deduction in the wages of women and minors employed in manufacturing and mechanical establishments.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. No deduction shall be made in wages of women and minors who are paid by the day or hour, employed in manufacturing or mechanical establishments, for time during which the machinery is stopped, if said women and minors were refused the privilege of leaving the mill while the damage to said machinery was being repaired; and none of the employees referred to in this section shall be compelled to make up time lost through the breaking down of machinery unless said employees are compensated at their regular rates of wages; provided, that said employees have been detained within their workrooms during the time of such breakdown.

§ 2. Any person, corporation, officer or agent who violates the provisions of this act shall be punished by fine not exceeding twenty dollars for each offense. [Approved June 6, 1898.]

AN INVITATION.

LOWELL, MASS., Aug. 31, 1898.

R. R. WADE, Esq., President, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Sir—The trustees of the Lowell Textile School, learning that the International Association of Factory Inspectors will hold their annual meeting in Boston during next week, have instructed me to tender to the members and their ladies, through you, an invitation to visit Lowell on Wednesday, the 7th proximo, and visit the school rooms. I am also instructed to say that his honor the mayor will be pleased to meet your people at city hall.

If the time you can give to Lowell will permit we shall also be pleased to have you visit some of our textile mills.

I am, sir, very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

JAMES T. SMITH,

Clerk.

REQUEST.

Chief O'Leary, of New York, at this juncture, requested that all who might have resolutions to present would please hand them in to the committee at as early an hour as possible.

LABOR PARADE.

At this point in the session, near the noon hour, the convention adjourned until 9 o'clock, Tuesday morning, and at the invitation of President Wade, and other city officials, the delegates marched out on to the upper corridors of the capitol building, and witnessed the review of Boston's Labor Day parade, by Governor Wolcott and his staff, who stood under a canopy arranged at the front entrance to the courtyard. This proved a magnificent spectacle, and was most heartily enjoyed by the many visiting delegates. The afternoon was spent in various ways—in committee work by some, in sightseeing by others.

SECOND DAY'S PROCEEDINGS—TUESDAY MORNING.

Convention was called to order promptly at 9.30 a. m., President Wade in the chair and a full attendance of delegates.

Inspector Isaac Mullen was called to the secretary's desk during the temporary absence of Secretary Cox.

Papers on "Child Labor" were called for by the president, and the first to respond was Mrs. Sarah Crowley, of Chicago, who read the following:

DO WE REQUIRE A FULL EDUCATIONAL AMENDMENT TO OUR CHILD-LABOR LAWS?

At creation's dawn, Omnipotence created beasts of the field, fowls of the air, and as a fitting climax, created man, endowed with intellect, and as we read, "after His own image," and "but little lower than the angels;" thereby imposing an intellectual cultivation.

Our child-labor laws aim to prevent parents, who seek thrift at the expense of education, from thwarting the purposes of creation. Do these laws tend to prevent childhood in its best formative period, to-wit, from 10 to 14 years of age, from inculcating the spirit of thrift and self-support? What may be said of its effect upon the children of that parentage who are unable to support them in school, to the age limit? Do our child-labor laws go far enough? Should not our inspectors be endowed with a police power over all children in their several districts; while preventing them from labor should compel them to attend school, and the funds arising from fines used to provide necessaries for education of the indigent waifs?

Many cases of apparent hardships come to the notice of the inspectors. One day a woman came into the office; in her arms she carried a babe, not over 6 weeks of age, and with that mother was a bright, intelligent, sweet-faced boy 12 years of age. They were all very clean and neatly dressed; the husband and father had been accidentally killed four weeks previous. This boy of 12 was the eldest of six, and had been earning $2 per week as "cash" in a retail dry goods store. To be sure it was not much, but in that mother's eyes, a goodly sum, and the boy felt that he could in this way assist in the support of the family, and partly take the father's place. When I was obliged to tell that widowed mother that the boy could not work, and saw the disappointment on her face, and the tears in the boy's eyes, how I did wish our law had given the inspectors discretionary power to act in such cases.

Is it enough for this great band of workers to say not a child under 14 year is at work in our several States, if by preventing their working we can only say we have turned them into the streets, depriving them from inculcating the principles of thrift? Is it not our duty to follow it up by enforcing the compulsory educational laws for their betterment?

Let infringements of the law be met with large fines, creating a fund outside of regular school funds. Apply this to make possible conditions for education of indigents, distributed by the noble men and women whose hearts are in this work for the amelioration of the race, and our cause will receive the sanction and support of the intelligence of the nation.

It is no answer to the question, "Am I my brother's keeper?" to say we rescued the drowning child and left it on the river bank to die of exposure and neglect.

We must help it to live. So, too, while caring for the health and bodies of these little unfortunates, rescuing them from task-masters, we should extend our labors, together with our boards of education, that they may become possessed with an intelligence to better qualify them for employees, when arriving at the age limit required. How many affidavits of 14 are now signed by "mark" by bright and intelligent-appearing children; let the notaries who fill out the blanks testify.

Make no compromises with violators of the law; make fines large enough to be a penalty; there will be no second violation, and I venture the assertion, the number of prosecutions in any State, as shown by their annual reports, multiplied by a fine of $50 in each case, will produce a fund sufficient to procure necessities that will enable a majority of the indigents that come under our notice, to obtain several months of schooling; months that are now spent in the streets, making criminals, where there should be made good American citizens.

These thoughts are submitted for your consideration. We, who are workers in the lines of child labor, must develop ways of improvement in our laws, that will meet the approval of our people, and our legislators will rise to the demands of the conditions, and our work will merit the reward its success will give us, in a more intelligent citizenship, from the classes that are now so strongly condemned, especially in our large cities.

Are we prepared to take up this work and develop it? Our nation has, during the past few months, spent millions in the cause of humanity, beyond our borders. The cause of humanity can only progress as education is advanced. Can there be a greater cause of humanity than in the education of the children of that large class of discontents, that seem to be on the increase to an alarming extent all through our borders? Reach the foundation—the children—the problem is solved. Factory inspectors will not reach all. They do come in contact with more of the class it is desirable to educate than any class of workers in humanity's cause, that we know.

Our branching out may encourage other efforts on these lines, and soon we shall have an intelligent, contented class of laborers, instead of an unsatisfied, and not without reason, tending toward socialistic and anarchical class of laborers. Educate labor and labor will take care of itself. Intelligence is the unconquerable enemy of oppression.

If in the enforcement of our child-labor laws there appears to be an abridgement of revenue their meager earnings afford, can we not replace it by such education as will increase their value, when age limit is passed, is a question that seems to me is worthy our agitation.

Certainly if "child-labor laws" should succeed in producing a generation of intelligent youth, the cause of humanity will receive a wonderful impetus, oppression throttled, arbitrations masters, dollars and brains partners, sharing profits equally, capital versus labor unknown. labor with capital and honor, man's inhumanity to man overwhelmed in the "brotherhood of man" that makes possible the "Fatherhood of God," who teaches us "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of the least of these brethren, ye did it unto me."

With our hearts warmed to the possibilities in our work, may we not become potent factors in solving many of the internal problems that are pressing for a solution, for weal or for woe, in this our loved land of the free? Freedom must not mean fawning, liberty must not be construed to mean license, else we can not be "one in Him" who created us equal, endowing us with rights that respect the rights of others, and a love that reaches out after the welfare of others, as well as our own.

Inspector Bishop, of Pennsylvania, spoke interestingly upon the paper read by Mrs. Crowley.

Chief Campbell, of Pennsylvania, expressed his well-known views on child-labor laws, and argued particularly in favor of compulsory education.

NEWSPAPER COMMENT.

In reporting the discussion on Mrs. Crowley's paper, the Boston Herald published the following:

A general discussion followed the reading of this paper. Chief Campbell, of Pennsylvania, while not opposing the age limit for child labor, seemed to be doubtful of the expediency of making the limit as high as 14 years. In his State the age limit is 13 years for factories and 12 years in mines. Mr. Campbell thought children ought to be permitted to go to work whenever they were able. He believed they ought to be fairly educated in the first place, however.

Mr. Cox, of Michigan, disagreed with Mr. Campbell. He believed that no child under 14 years should be allowed to work in any establishment. He added that in Michigan it was intended to obviate some of the difficulties occasioned by the lack of a uniform age law among the States by making a law which would establish a minimum wage rate of not less than $2 a week.

"The only controversy now," said Mr. Cox, "is whether the figure shall be $2 or $3. Gov. Pingree says: 'Make it $3.'"

Chief O'Leary, of the New York delegation, took exceptions to the remarks of Chief Campbell, of Pennsylvania. He believed in establishing a uniformity of child-labor laws, and in this connection remarked: "It was with great satisfaction that I observed that Massachusetts has moved up from 13 years to 14 years." The Ohio law, which has advanced the age from 14 to 15, he thought unnecessary and unwise.

In New York, he said, no child under 14 is allowed to work, and no child between 14 and 16 who could not read and write single sentences in English. He then gave an interesting résumé of the progress made in that State during the past twenty years.

Speaking of the change in the city of Cohoes, with which he was particularly familiar, he said that twenty years ago there were children as young as 7 years employed in the mills; children who had to be carried from their beds at 5.30 o'clock in the morning and back again at night. Last year in the entire city of Cohoes there were only 171 below 16 years, none under 14, and none not able to read and write, employed in the factories there.

Speaking of the conditions existing on the East side of New York, in the sweating quarter, he said that the Italians were fast superseding the Jews in the clothing trade, and he narrated some of the tricks employed to bamboozle the inspector. He said that there was now a movement on foot to have the board of education appoint the inspectors and truancy officers, in order that the children who did not go to school, and who were too young to work, should be compelled to go to school.

Mr. McAbee, of Indiana, said he believed it to be more important to induce all the States to establish an age limit of some sort than to devote the time to trying to get those who had age limits to make them uniform.

Mr. Knaub, of Ohio, told of the advancing the age limit in that State from 14 to 16 years.

Mr. Putnam, of Massachusetts, believed in raising the age limit in Massachusetts up to 16 year.

Other remarks were made by Mr. Williams, of Indiana; Mr. Neeley, of New York; Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Cote, of Quebec, and Mr. Mullen, of Pennsylvania.

The latter supported the contention of his chief, that by making a hard and fast age limit, after the child had obtained a fair elementary education, it was possible to discourage the inventive genius of the youth of the country.

"In twenty-five years," he said, "if this policy is carried out, it will deprive the country of its mechanical genius and skill."

This proposition brought out a strong protest from Delegate Cox, of Michigan. He believed in education, and maintained that even at 20 the American boy did not consider himself too old to learn a trade, and was the better able to learn it because of the education he received.

Chief O'Leary, of New York, supported Mr. Cox. He said he found that the raising of the limit of age produced a higher class of representatives in the factories and was in every way beneficial to the industrial condition of the country.

By invitation of Mayor Quincy, the delegates took a trip down the harbor on the steamer Putnam Bradlee this afternoon, and adjourned at noon to meet this evening at 7.30 o'clock.

Upon motion of Chief O'Leary, the further discussion upon child-labor was closed.

REPORT OF AUDITING COMMITTEE.

President Wade called on Assistant Chief Harris, of Illinois, who made the following report, as chairman of the auditing committee:

To the Delegates of Factory Inspectors assembled at Boston:

Your committee to whom was referred the auditing the secretary and treasurer's report, after carefully looking over all accounts, vouchers, etc., beg leave to report to you as follows: That all accounts of moneys received and expended were correct as read from the report by the secretary, which amounts ran as follows:

Total amounts of receipts.....	$347 47
Expenditures .....	276 04
Cash balance on hand.....	71 43

Your committee would also recommend to your honorable body that the usual proceedings of previous conventions be adhered to, that a certain amount be allowed to indemnify the secretary for the valuable services rendered.

A. J. HARRIS,
M. F. COTE,
Committee.

Upon motion of Mr. Campbell, the report of the auditing committee was accepted and ordered filed, and the cash balance on hand was presented to the secretary, by the convention, to cover expenses and extra services.

The convention then adjourned until 7.30 in the evening, the afternoon being devoted to entertainment provided for and heretofore reported.

TUESDAY EVENING'S SESSION.

At 7.30 p. m. the convention was called to order, President Wade in the chair, and all officers and many delegates present.

Mr. Bishop, of Pennsylvania, read the following paper, entitled:

EDUCATION AND EMPLOYMENT OF CHILDREN.

To the President of the International Association of Factory Inspectors, to the Chiefs and Deputies from the various States, and Canadian Provinces, Ladies and Gentlemen:

As a compliment to the ladies who are with us, will say: From the creation of Mother Eve their influence for good or evil has been, and still is, mighty. The minds of women are peculiarly constituted and adapted for playing upon and influencing the finer parts of man's nature. It is the loving wife, or the affectionate mother or daughter who soothes men in their afflictions, and cheers him in adversity. Jeremy Taylor said of them:

"A good wife is heaven's last best gift to man. She is his angel and minister of graces innumerable; she is his gem of many virtues; his casket of jewels. Her voice is sweet music; her smile his brightest day; her kiss the guardian of his innocence; her arms the pale of his safety, the balm of his health, the balsam of his life; her industry his surest wealth; her economy his safest steward; her lips his faithful counselors; her bosom the softest pillow of his cares; and her prayers the ablest advocate of heaven's blessedness on his head." God bless you all.

A WORD ABOUT BOSTON.

I love to dwell on the tender recollections, the kindred ties, the early affections, and the touching narratives and incidents which mingle with all I know of this vicinity and our primitive families in and around Boston. The mystic chords of memory have taken us back to the Hub many times, and to the battlefields of Bunker Hill, and many other eventful happenings like the religious and political dissensions. King Philip's war, the French and Indian war, Salem Witchcraft and the Boston Massacre, the destruction of the tea in yonder harbor makes the place sublimely historical. The first money coined in the United States, a silver piece with an effigy of a pine tree on one side, was coined in this State. Various other highly important and curious experiences happened in this vicinity. It was in this neighborhood they whipped the innocent Quakers and even hanged some of them, and one very amusing, peculiar and startling incident happened back in 1646. The Legislature passed a law imposing a penalty of flogging upon any one who should kiss a woman on the streets, and right here in Boston, one hundred years afterwards, they actually whipped a man for kissing his wife. I am not certain whether the act is revoked or not. Would advise my colleagues in the habit of greeting their wives thus, to have a care.

When I sat down to write this paper, the trouble was not to find a subject, but to keep many subjects from intruding themselves upon my attention.

After devoting some years to the work of the Factory Department one's heart and brain are filled with the many problems which he meets in his daily rounds, and which effect the lives and happiness of so many of his fellow beings.

I have often been told that our work is an invasion of private rights, and I am willing to concede that it is. But it is justifiable on the ground of public necessity, quite as much so as is the work of the board of health. If there is diphtheria, smallpox or any other contagious disease in a home, the authorities promptly quarantine all the people living in that house, and while this is an invasion of private rights, like the work of the Factory Department, it is necessary for the public good.

In my own great State of Pennsylvania, the passage and enforcement of a compulsory educational act created a great turmoil among a large number of our people. They claimed, with much apparent logic, that they were much more interested in the future well being of their children than any one else possibly could be, and that the law was an unwarranted interference by the State in their strictly private family affairs. They urged further that the Legislature had no more right to compel them to send their children to school than it had to compel them to attend church on Sunday.

Now, the mistake these good people make is in the assumption that the education of children is an exclusive private affair in which the public have no concern. This is not so, and it is becoming gradually understood that the State to protect its own stability in the future should, and must, take the deepest interest in the education of the young, as an uneducated, or poorly educated, child is a menace and a danger to the community. The State has the same duty to perform in this respect that it has in regulating and protecting the employment and providing for the health and safety of men, women and children in manufacturing and mercantile establishments, or protecting its citizens against disease. The same high regard and consideration for the public good requires in all of these cases that the individual rights must be violated, that the public good and future welfare of the State may be preserved. It has taken many years of agitation to bring about the enactment of the various efficient factory laws which are now upon our statutes, and in this agitation the great State of Massachusetts has, by reason of her prominent position in education and industrial matters, always taken a leading part. In nearly all of the beneficial laws passed in the interests of the poor, ignorant and oppressed, Massachusetts has been the forerunner of all the other States. In my own experience I am continually finding cases which seem to require new legislation on this great subject. In the anthracite coal fields it is not so much the fault of the rich coal corporations that boys 12 years of age, or even younger, are found working in the breakers; the mining laws of our State allow it and do not require a sworn statement from the parent or guardian as to the age of the boy, but only a statement that he is 12 years or over, and inasmuch as the factory laws do require a sworn statement for every child between the ages of 13 and 16, and these boys and girls working in a well-managed, comfortable store or factory, we are obliged to remove them, with the result that they immediately go to the coal breaker, where the work is so much more hazardous and demoralizing, and where the law can not reach them. This should not be. Boys to work in breaker or mine really ought to be at least as old, or better still, from one to three years older, than the factory boys. The necessity of the family, particularly where the father is dead or disabled, often seems to require that the children should work at a younger age than 13, but I am thoroughly satisfied that it would be better for society at large to provide from the public funds for the support of these unfortunates, rather than that boys and girls should be prevented from receiving that opportunity for intellectual and physical development necessary for making them good and useful citizens in the future.

All modern States are seeking to mold by custom and sentiment and legislation the form of the family to correspond to the demand of their general welfare. Even marriage is no more a mere private affair to be left to individual caprice, to lawless passion or selfish individualism. The community is obliged to regulate this relation so as to promote the common welfare; for instance, the State has taken away from the father his ancient rights to put his son to death, and taken away from the husband the right to whip his wife into obedience. Usages and laws require parents to fulfill the duties of support and education for citizenship, and demand that children care for parents in the helplessness of old age.

It often makes my heart bleed to find children who ought to be in school, or at play fixed in the un pitying mills of manufacture and trade. It is a small, miserable pittance that they earn, yet it is necessary to support the family. In many cases the child is found attending the machine, and the father seeking in vain for employment; just think of it! This baby girl or boy the successful competitor for a place against their natural supporter. This is cheap labor at war with the home. Where is the man who dare say regulation by law is not necessary in such cases, or in case of public works of females? It is idle to say they are able to take care of themselves; they can not, and while legal restrictions must not be made to hinder women from earning an honest living under suitable conditions, there is one principle which must be applied as a test of suitability in all situations. The proved tendency of their occupation under certain conditions to destroy health and unfit them for their duties as wives and mothers. And what will happen to a home when the mother is compelled to work in a factory ten hours, toiling all day, coming back after dark to her children weary, jaded, fretful, almost desperate. Tidiness, cleanliness and happiness are impossible; and the husband of such a home? No wonder a saloon to him seems a paradise; while his habits impoverish the home, the squalor and suffering of the home keep him at the saloon. Young people are more easily affected by the unwholesome trades than adults. Saturated with the nicotine vapors of tobacco works, their growth is stunted, their heart action is impaired, the power of digestion enfeebled, but this is as nothing compared with some of the sweat-shops. Christendom still shudders when it reads of Herod's slaughter of the innocents, but even his butchery was insignificant compared with the murderous effects of city tenement life. The young are less ready to use safety devices than the old.

Figures show that those under 16 have thirty-three times the probability of being hurt as those over 16, and that all accidents to female factory operators befall the young and inexperienced. Labor reports from Minnesota show that boys in factories there have a probability of accidents about twice that of the adult, and his chance of fatal accidents is over seven (7) times as great as that of a grown man. I heartily approve of the act providing seats for poor, tired girls, and right here will say where girls are not allowed to sit occasionally they become weakened, hindered, disheartened, tired of their position in life, and finally a physical wreck. The section which requires these under 16 to be able to read and write English I approve of, and feel certain of good results, although in some cases it does appear unjustly severe, causing in some instances those already pinched with poverty to suffer greater wretchedness, but we are constantly passing through sad scenes and embarrassments and annoyances. Our work requires great patience and tact, and the remuneration is not what it should be.

THE QUALITY OF OUR SCHOOLS.

This will depend very greatly on the co-operation of the people. The people have always been very generous along this line, and as they grow in wealth they set apart larger and larger portions to these exalted ends, the transmission of knowledge and its higher ideals to the next generation. On every hand can be seen colleges, universities and technical institutes, bountifully supplied with gifts of our rich men. This stream of wealth is the result of a national sentiment in favor of education. There is no parallel to this generosity in England, or any other country. It was Garfield who said: "Our stratification is like the ocean, where every individual drop is free to move, and where, from the sternest depths of the mighty deep, any drop may come up to glitter on the highest wave that rolls." We confront the dangers of suffrage by blessings of universal education.

POLITICAL REFORM.

Political machinery is just as necessary as educational, commercial, or ecclesiastical machinery. It is not a sign of healthy morality when people sneer at parties and talk so loftily of the mean tricks of politicians, while they themselves stand aloof from the conflict in order to keep their cuffs clean. That is cowardice, although some call it religious superiority. Those goody goody people who regard wire-pulling with contempt could still maintain their integrity and be present at the caucus, the committee, the club, the mass meeting, the lobby. Of course, corrupt and designing men get into parties and work for unworthy ends, and even make criminal use of the machinery, but it is selfishness, narrowness, unpatriotic to use party machinery for sectional and personal ends. It is a curse to parties and a disease to political organizations. It is a good man's duty first, to learn; second, to talk, and third, to work for his country. It is even better to vote wrong than not to vote at all or care what becomes of our nation, because it is like this; interest will lead to intelligence, while sulky, fault-finding leads to nothing. See those who criticize the actions of others, but never take the responsibility of action upon themselves; or, if in council, they will evolve a dozen reasons against a proposed plan but never formulate a substitute.

They are convinced that political conditions are not what they should be; now of they have an ideal of a better way, they ought not to hide it in a napkin, but do something; do less criticizing of what others do and do something themselves. The chief reason why politics are what they are is that people having the higher ideals put them in laments instead of action. Corruption of political life comes largely in this manner. Under our present system an executive is almost compelled to pay his political debts with appointments to office, and hence his selections must frequently be private interests and not public welfare. No man can be called truly cultured or truly wise and human until his relations unto his fellow men and his power to serve them fill a larger place in his heart and thought and effort than does his wish to advance his own interests, or to press for his own selfish advantage.

SABBATH DAY AND THE WORKING PEOPLE.

The great masses of our working men and women are honest and have good intentions. They crave recreation; they will have it; they ought to have it. Cramped muscles and repressed faculties cry out in agony for something different from the monotony of the bench. Sunday reformers have only begun their social tasks when they have released the multitudes from the shops and closed the saloons. The question of what can be done with twelve hours of idle time once a week for seventy millions of people is one of the most tremendous problems of our age. Church going does not meet the need. They say our English cousins have a custom of having for weary people a pleasant Sunday afternoon, and that it is being introduced in this country. Bright music is the chief element of these meetings, cheerful talks, instructive addresses, readings from the very best literature, social converse and a cup of tea, the sympathetic hearing of each other's grievances, troubles and wrongs. It would seem to me all right and proper for our ministers to leave their fine churches a few Sundays and move around among the working men and rude boys whose homes are sometimes without any attractions. Even they might gain a new notion of the best way to spend Sunday. We know what the Master said to those Pharisaic religionists who were shocked at him for doing good on the Sabbath.

Trusts and combinations which began with the century have grown to colossal height. The progress of combinations of capital has been relentless and magical. What is to be done in the presence of this phenomenal product of the age of steam-driven machinery? Can the ordinary patriotic citizen do nothing but fold his hands in despair or cry to a pitiless and relentless fate? There is not a citizen so humble but can help himself and his country. The vaster the corporation the more it attracts attention. Corporations are very powerful, but the State which gave them a charter can take it away, modify it, or make better terms. This matter is not nearly so difficult or dangerous as it is sometimes represented by excited alarmists.

Niagara Falls has been harnessed and compelled to serve the public; great trusts can be brought to terms by the invention and use of suitable political machinery managed by capable and honest legislators and administrators.

My paper prepared for this occasion is not, as you see, on one subject, but touches briefly on many. I thought to write about the kind-hearted employers who treat their female help as though they were their own daughters, not because the factory department demands it, but because they are magnanimous. We have a lot of these big-hearted fellows up in Pennsylvania who do more than the law requires to make their establishments comfortable and healthful.

We have also, I regret to say, detestable places where girls are employed and shamefully abused, owing to the base, spiritless and heartless employers. Factory Inspector's work is a work of benevolence just beginning to be appreciated. It is not political wire-pulling in the interest of the party in power, as has been intimated, but real work, climbing up into attics, or down into dark basements among sickening filth and offensive odors of these vile places and crowded dens. Some of them are inconceivably horrible, but in order to purge and thoroughly clean them the inspector must visit them, borne up by what? Hope of reward? No. Commendation? No. What then? By invincible courage and a desire to help and benefit those human beings and lift them up and keep them from further degradation. The health officers in my district have been a great help to me and I think it wise and proper for inspectors in all cities to co-operate with them and the building inspectors and fire department.

OUR BELOVED COUNTRY.

Who can tell how much the world has been influenced commercially, politically, socially and religiously by the existence and example of the United States? How much has humanity gained by our free institutions, our system of national government, the very best on earth? What would be the condition of this world to-day without us? It is a great satisfaction to me to be in Boston, where I am now for the first time in my life mingling with the ancestry of the sowers of the prolific seed of human liberty. It was they who helped to carefully nurture the tender plant of our existence while it was bursting into vigorous life and gigantic power, until to-day we command the respect of the world. We, the reapers, ought to appreciate with grateful hearts what the sowers did for us, and in the homes of all the people of this beautiful land, no matter what country gave them birth, there is, and must forever remain, a shrine of freedom and refuge for the oppressed.

Mr. Edward B. Putnam, of Massachusetts, then read a paper upon

THE GUARDING OF SHOE MACHINERY.

What is there to guard about shoe machinery, does some one ask? The answer is plain: Everything, nearly.

One of the English factory inspectors, Mr. Sedgwick, says: "A number of the machines used in the shoe trade are 'power presses' for one kind or other of work, the action of which, though seemingly simple, is still the cause of a great number of serious accidents taking place. Accidents have been reported by which boys have lost one, two or even more of their fingers, becoming by reason of such mutilations more or less unfitted as workmen in after life."

This statement is true, and if you will take particular notice of the hands of the workmen as you make your next inspection of a shoe factory you will find, in my opinion, a large number of them mutilated by shoe machinery, either through their own carelessness or by neglect in having proper guards attached.

Unless closely watched the everlasting, projecting set-screw pokes its ugly square head out of collars and couplings in a shoe factory as much, and perhaps more, than in any other, for the reason that in a shoe factory there are continual changes being made; new machinery added and shafting being lengthened or shifted and the old-fashioned dangerous set-screw, being somewhat handler, is used in place of the modern and safe kind. "No one ever gets up there," is the usual plea when attention is called to the projecting set-screw (or coupling pin) in overhead shafting; but employees do get up there, else why so many accidents from this cause.

In a large shoe factory in my district in which I had all projecting set-screws covered or made safe, a new machine was being added which necessitated the lengthening of a shaft about four feet. This was done by means of a sleeve coupling and the machinist who put it up left two set-screws projecting from it. The man who was setting up the machine was caught by one of these—arm twisted and broken in two places, two ribs broken and various minor injuries incurred. The manufacturer carried an accident insurance policy for his employees, but this man, not being on the pay-roll of the establishment, was not considered one of the employees, and I am informed the manufacturer settled the matter from his personal bank account for a tidy sum.

It is my practice to cause every projecting set-screw and coupling pin in all factories in my district to be securely guarded, either by covering or by making them flush with the collars and couplings. I submit for the consideration of the members of this convention a few devices for the guarding of set-screws.

A machine or rather two machines working in the same way that have ruined the hands of many, are the rolling and splitting machines. These machines have two iron or steel rolls from two and one-half inches to four inches in diameter, running close together by the requisite gearing. The leather is fed to the machine between the rolls by the operator and is pulled by him against the power that is carrying the leather through so as to straighten out any wrinkles or folds. The least inattention on the part of the operator, or a sudden swerving of the leather in passing through the rolls will and has too often caught one or both hands of the operator between the rolls, resulting in his hands and frequently his wrists being so badly mutilated that they never get back into proper shape again. The splitting machine has a knife behind and running the full length of the rolls, making it doubly dangerous; I require that a guard of some kind be put in front of the rolls. A good guard for these machines is a casting made to attach to them and running the length of the rolls and in front of them; a slot in the casting is wide enough to allow the leather to pass freely through it, but will not allow the hand to be caught in rolls unless the operator deliberately puts his fingers a good way through the slot. I submit a photograph of a splitting machine with the guard attached, also a drawing of the guard.

The sewing-machine shafting should be properly guarded by skirt boards or something that will keep the dresses of the female employees from coming in contact with the shafting. One of the best devices for this purpose that I have seen is a strong wire netting bent in a semi-circular form and hung in front of the operator in such a way that it may be readily removed so as to make it easier to sweep, clean the shaft or to make repairs, and is as easily replaced. A shipper for the sewing-machine shafting, so that the power running it may be readily controlled, is a necessity as well as a matter of economy for the manufacturer, and a strong cord running from the shipper the full length of the bench, so that the shaft may be stopped from any point on the bench, is a practical affair which I have advised in many factories, and wherever it has been adopted has been highly commended.

The sole molding machine, which is responsible for many crushed and deformed hands, has had as yet no one to apply a safety device so that accidents resulting from its use may be decreased. A photograph of a safety device for this machine has been shown to me, but I have not seen the device in actual operation, so I am unable to judge of its utility.

The dieing-out machine, where the die is placed with the cutting wedge up and the leather is laid on it by the operator, who then presses a treadle with his foot and a heavy block descends rapidly and cuts or dies the sole to the desired shape, is a dangerous machine unless a safety device is attached. This machine is operated by a friction clutch and frequently repeats. The safety device is set in motion by the operator after having placed the leather on the die; he then puts his foot on the treadle and presses it, taking care at the same time to press a small treadle, placed close to the treadle of the machine. This throws down two steel arms toward the back of the machine; after the sole is cut, he releases both treadles and the arms come back into place, so if the machine attempts to repeat, the arms being perpendicular prevent the cross bar, and consequently the block, from coming down on the die. The arms will not throw back until the treadle connected with them is pressed.

A heel-nailing machine, where the assistant to the operator sits behind the machine, and in shoe making parlance "stick nails," should be guarded by having the back of it boxed, as the gear which runs the machine is liable, and has in many cases caught the foot of the assistant; result, amputation.

Belts running through floors; large belts and pulleys running near floors and all exposed gears should be boxed. Fly-wheels and crank-shafts of engines properly railed, and all shafting kept clear of string and tape, and a thorough inspection of a shoe factory will disclose to the inspector many and varied dangers to life and limb that can not be gone into at length in a paper of this kind.

I have endeavored to indicate what, in my opinion, are the most prominent dangers in a shoe factory, and the means of guarding against them.

FACTORY INSPECTION IN ILLINOIS AND ITS BENEFITS.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The office of factory inspection is a subject with the importance of which every student of legislation in behalf of humanity and labor should acquaint himself. Factory inspection is a safeguard against physical injury to life and limb, a protection to health and morals, and brings a feeling of safety and security alike to the employer and employe. Illinois has not as yet had the experience in factory inspection as some of her sister States, but for the time she has been on the roll of this association she has come forward with some of the best laws that a generous Legislature could give. Until 1893 we had no laws in Illinois in relation to factory inspection. The Thirty-eighth General Assembly legislated the factory inspection laws, and they were very meager. It passed the so-called "sweat-shop" law, that no child under 14 years of age should be employed in a factory or workshop, but left out all other occupations, where thousands of children were employed, especially in the city of Chicago with its great department stores. But thanks to the Governor of Illinois who brought all honorable influence to bear upon the members of the Fortieth General Assembly to enact more stringent laws for the factory inspector to enforce—laws that will protect life and limb, health and morals, and protect the youth when he reaches the age where he is thrown upon the world to compete in the market of labor, to have the advantage of a healthy body and mind. The Fortieth General Assembly of Illinois enacted the following laws pertaining to factory inspection: "That no child under 14 years of age shall be employed, permitted, or suffered to work for wages, or at any gainful occupation in a factory or workshop, store, office or laundry." They have also passed a law known as "an act to compel the using of blowers upon metal polishing wheels," and a fire-escape law, that every building in the State, that is used for manufacturing purposes, schools, hotels, dormitories, tenement houses, or public halls, shall have good and substantial fire-escape protection. Then to enforce these laws that the working men, women and children of our great State should derive the benefit of its provision, was a question which agitated the mind of our Governor. He went about to look for one that the employer and employe should approve and respect; for as we all know that a factory inspector to be just, must be thoroughly honest; to be effective must be thorough; to be useful must vigorously enforce the law. The gentleman whom he chose for his chief of the Department of Factory Inspection and Workshops, with all good and grand laws to enforce was "the man of the hour." The Hon. Louis Arrington is a man who has been affiliated with labor organizations the greater part of his life, who has been honored by one of the greatest labor organizations in the land, and whose sole purpose in life is the advancement and betterment of the condition of the laboring men and women of this country. To such a man the Governor entrusted to superintend the enforcement of the factory inspection laws of Illinois, and told him to go ahead and enforce them without fear or favor. Under these conditions we have organized and started out to its enforcement. The result which has followed, and the good it has done, I shall try to give in the following figures of our report in 1897:

Total number of inspections made in 1897, 11,758, against 6,707 in 1896, an increase of 4,996.

Total number of people employed 270,271 against 200,140 in 1896.

Total number of children under 14 years of age found in 1897, 21, against 58 in 1896.

Our staff consists of a chief, an assistant chief, and ten deputies, with an appropriation for the Factory Inspectors' Department of $4,000 per year outside of salaries, from which we must pay our office rent, printing, stationery and all travelling expenses. And to accomplish this work, great credit is due to the deputies of our department, who have worked diligently in a most conscientious and praiseworthy manner.

The deputies of our department are a very humane, honest, conscientious body of ladies and gentlemen, whose purpose is to do good and right, and their inspections are thorough. Manufacturers and employers of our state have learned to respect them, and have confidence in our laws, accept all suggestions our deputies may volunteer to give them, knowing that their motive is in behalf of humanity and justice, and so our year's labor has not been in vain.

Special attention has been given to the law pertaining to emery and polishing wheel, or commonly known as the "blowers for friction wheels" law. The inhalation of the atmosphere of a metal polishing or grinding room, laden with a dust that is composed of mineral and metallic substances, caused by the operation of the emery wheel, is certainly most dangerous in its effect on the health of those who are forced to breathe it; for it is a fact, and it can not be disputed, that the mortality among grinders and polishers who are not protected against this poisonous element of dust is very great. Oftentimes have I observed the condition of the workman who labors in the grinding or polishing room, where the dust is so thick and the air is so foul that it is sometimes hard to recognize the operator at the wheel as a human being, for he is laden with dust almost half an inch thick. But how different is the condition of the room where the law has been complied with. The air is clear, no dust, and the man at the wheel can stand the work, and the air will effect him no more than it will the bookkeeper at his desk. This law has received considerable of our time and attention. We have compelled a great many manufacturers to go to considerable expense to equip their emery, grinding and polishing wheels with the proper hoods and pipes and large fans of great velocity to carry the dust that accumulates from these polishing wheels.

Very good work has been accomplished in Illinois in the vigorous way in which we have enforced the "sweat-shop" law, and I am pleased to say that manufacturers of wearing apparel and cigars, in living rooms and tenement houses, is on the decrease in our State, for the first time since the law has been put on the statutes. We have give the "sweaters" to understand that we will make them live up to the letter of the law. That we will prosecute most vigorously any violation or infraction of the law, and its effect upon them will show that in 1896 there were 2,378 inspections made under the "sweat-shop" law, with 111 violations and prosecutions, while in 1897 we have inspected 3,688 places under the "sweat-shop" law, with but 58 violations and prosecutions.

The abolishment of child-labor under 14 years of age in factories, workshops, stores, offices and laundries, has been successfully accomplished. The fact that not more than eighteen children have been found employed since the law went into effect, July 9, 1897, is evidence in itself of the benefits of restricting child-labor, and the enforcement of the law.

The number of children in factories, workshops, stores and offices in Illinois has been materially reduced since the factory law went into effect in 1893. In that year the percentage of children to the total employes engaged in the manufacturing places was 8.5, where in 1897, with its new laws, including laundries and department stores, was 3.4.

Many employers of labor have come to satisfactory conclusions that child-labor is not remunerative, and that more satisfactory results can be had from the labor of children over 16 years of age; a great many employers and manufacturers object to the employment of children under 16 years of age because of the restrictions of sections 34 and 35 of the child-labor law, where it requires that an affidavit of the parent or guardian as to the age of the child, and a register of their residence and age, and a wall list of all minors under 16 years of age, must be kept and posted in a conspicuous place in the room where the child is employed; for that reason, as for no other, they have dispensed with the labor of children under 16 years of age; for we have prosecuted every violation of section 34. The result is that child-labor in Illinois is on the decrease; for while in 1896 there were 37 children to every 1,000 employed in factories and workshops, we found in 1897 (outside of department stores), 27 children to every 1,000 employed.

I believe a farther advancement of the benefits that the child-labor law brings to the community, would be the passage of an act that the "truant" law should be placed within the power of the State factory inspector for its enforcement. When the inspector finds a child under age at the factory, he should have the power to place the child in school, and not turn him upon the streets; for while the factory inspector labors to see the child of immature years shall not be employed in a factory or workshop, where its health and morals may be injured he can not see him safe in his place at school. We shall request our Legislature to pass such a law; also a law that is very much needed in our State, viz., a bakeshop law. And I trust and hope that the next session of this honorable body will see Illinois marching side by side with her sister States in this philanthropic work, for the advancement and protection of the future generation and labor.

Inspector W. B. Anderson, of New York, read the following paper:

FACTORY INSPECTION WORK.

Mr. President and Delegates of Convention:

During the past year factory inspection work in the State of New York has been performed according to the new plan of the department, and it is safe to say that since the enactment of the Factory Law in the State the work has never been done in a more thorough and systematic manner.

During the year ending November 30, 1895, the total number of inspections made in New York State was 21,148, and during the year ending November 30, 1897, the total number of inspections made was 30,270, an increase of over 9,000, and 7,377 of those inspections were places that had never before been inspected, and to-day, with still three months remaining to complete the fiscal year, the number of inspections made in New York State exceeds that of last year.

In the year ending November, 1897, the total number of complaints received in the first and second inspection districts was 737. This year they number but 350 (of which 200 were groundless) or about 50 per cent. of last year, which proves that the common cause of complaint has been reduced to a minimum, and I attribute the above splendid showing in this, the largest manufacturing State in the Union, to the systematic and intelligent manner in which the department has been, and is at present, conducted, and the faithful attention to duty and enforcement of the law by the deputy inspectors.

Section 70 of the law, which relates to employment of children, has been strictly enforced by the department during the past year, and excellent results have been obtained. The children have been benefited both physically and mentally, and the records prove that the number of children under 16 employed in factories has been greatly diminished, and to-day there are a great number of employers who will not hire a child under 16 years of age, either with or without a certificate, and the natural consequence is that the children are obtaining what they would otherwise not, viz.: A good education and improvement in health, which better fits them for work at a maturer age.

Section 77 of the Factory Law says: "Males under eighteen and females under twenty-one years of age shall not be employed more than sixty hours in any one week."

It is a very hard matter for the department to obtain a proper compliance with this section of the law, and I think it would greatly benefit both the department and the female employes if an amendment to this section of the law was enacted which would prohibit the employment of any female, irrespective of age, more than sixty hours in any one week.

As you are all well aware, the main issue and intent of the Factory Law of this and every State in the Union and the Dominion of Canada is the prevention of accidents to employes in factories, and the principal work of the factory inspector is to scrutinize the shafting, belting and all parts of the building, and see that they are properly guarded according to law. The department has furnished the deputies with illustrated descriptive circulars of the simplest, cheapest and most effective safety guards for guarding the dangerous parts of machinery, which are given to the employer and which explain in a practical manner the proper way of applying the guard, thereby insuring a correct compliance with the orders given.

I have seen for guarding shafts and collars, either with or without protruding set-screws, a patented guard owned by the Stone Sterling Silver Company of New York city. It is in use on their own shafting and has given very satisfactory results. It is a metal device, composed of two parts that interlock and are fastened by small screws. It can be furnished in any desired diameter or length, and can be adjusted to the shaft very readily. It acts as a guard for the shaft, and the enlarged ends act as guards for set-screws in collars at the sides of hangers and pulleys. It envelops the shaft from hanger to the hub of pulley, and at the slightest pressure it ceases to revolve, no matter at what speed the shaft may be revolving inside of the guard. If the arms of the pulley or driving wheel require guarding, a smooth metal disc can be brazed to that end of the guard. The side of the pulley will then present a smooth surface and completely guard the arms of the pulley, thereby rendering the pulley, shaft and set-screws perfectly safe by the application of one simple guard.

I have, while making inspections, found inexperienced children, under 16 years of age, working in steam laundries, employed at feeding large mangles, and it is a common occurrence for them to burn or lose the ends of their fingers. I have also found them, of the same age, feeding large steam paper bag making machines, and working on calendars and carding machines. All of these machines are very dangerous. I have remonstrated with the employers, but to no purpose. I could not interfere, as they had the necessary certificate from the department of health and were legally entitled to work.

The number of accidents which, when reported to the department, are investigated by it and take up considerable time of the deputies assigned can, in my opinion, be still farther reduced.

Section 81 of the Factory Law says: "No male under eighteen or woman under twenty-one years of age shall be permitted to clean machinery while in motion."

This may be a very good law, but in my opinion there should be an amendment to this section, to the effect that no child under 16 years of age should be permitted to work on or in dangerous proximity to any machinery while such machinery is in motion by the aid of steam, water or other mechanical power.

There is a section of the Penal Code of New York State which prohibits the employment of children on or about dangerous machinery, but it does not state who shall enforce it. This power should be vested in the factory inspector.

But no matter how safely machinery may be guarded, there are accidents happening every day in factories.

In the year ending November, 1896, there were seventy-one fatal accidents in factories reported to the department, and in the year ending November, 1897, there were reported thirty fatal accidents, which shows a decrease, in 1897, of 60 per cent. The reason for the same being, without doubt, the efficient and intelligent work of the department in the latter year in having the proper safeguards placed on dangerous machinery.

I have found during the course of my factory inspection work an evil which is becoming greater every day, viz.: The indiscriminate issuing of employers' liability policies on the lives and limbs of employes by the accident insurance companies. Upon asking the proprietor or superintendent of a factory if any accidents had occurred since the last inspection, he replied: "Oh, yes; a couple," and I say, "Have you reported them, and if so, was a factory inspector here to investigate?" He replies, "I reported them to the insurance companies; that is all I care about; they attend to all those matters."

After making the inspection, and according to the rule of the department, I inform him what is necessary to be done in order to comply with the law. In several cases I have been told by employers that they do not propose to spend money for repairs or guards, as they pay their premiums to the insurance company, and it does not concern them what happens. It is very difficult work, requiring three or four visits and a great part of the deputy's time, and explanations and threats of prosecution in such cases, in order to obtain a compliance with the orders given. A great many employers, after obtaining insurance, take no further interest in the welfare of their employees or safety of their building.

The liability and accident insurance companies, which, for a stipulated sum, agree to pay for any loss of life or limb of an employe in a factory, do not stop to consider whether the machinery, etc., is properly guarded or not. It is simply the premium that the company wants, and the solicitor or agent is anxious for his commission, and no matter how bad the risk, the company takes the chance. In case of an accident, the attorney for the wealthy insurance corporation settles the matter with the injured party for a small pecuniary consideration; or, if not, they fight and prolong the case in court until their terms are accepted.

I saw last week an employer's liability policy, issued by the Travelers' Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., in which they insured thirty employes of a factory against either fatal or non-fatal injuries while on duty in the factory to the amount of $10,000, the premium paid by the employer being only $25 per year. There is not any provision in the policy that calls for the safeguarding of machinery or building; nor any clause in the policy that says that the requirements of the Factory Law shall be complied with.

There should be an amendment to the Insurance Law, that no company or individual be permitted to insure the lives or limbs of employes against accidents in factories for which the employer may be liable, unless the factory inspector first issues to the said company or individual, on application, a certificate that said factory has complied with all requirements of the Factory Law, and further providing that the insurance company or individual shall furnish to the Factory Inspector within forty-eight hours after receiving the same a report of any and all accidents in factories of which they may receive notice.

The employes are afraid to tell of accidents that happen for fear of being discharged, and the employer, holding the policy of insurance, does not always report it to the Factory Department. But if the above suggested amendment was made a part of the Insurance Law, all provisions of the Factory Law would be promptly and thoroughly complied with in order to obtain the desired insurance, and the Factory Department would also receive a report of the accidents and could then take the proper means to have safeguards provided that would prevent a recurrence of, and greatly reduce the number of accidents.

The department has issued several orders to provide fire-escapes on factories during the past year, and in every case the plan and style of fire-escape originated and recommended by the department, and which has been proved by practical test to be a very efficient means of escape in case of fire, has been ordered, and promptly complied with by the owners of the different factories.

There were during the year ending November, 1896, 141 prosecutions by the department for violations of the Factory Law, and during the year ending November, 1897, there were but two prosecutions, and both of these were convicted. The great decrease in the number of prosecutions in 1897 was not the result of any inactivity on the part of the department or deputies, as the number of compliances obtained during 1897—over 40,000—will show; but is due to the different manner in which the department has been conducted during 1897. The department firmly and justly believes that the law was enacted for the protection of both male and female employes, and while having due regard for the rights of the employer, has insisted on a fair and impartial compliance with the provisions of the law, and has found that persuasion and patience obtain better results and gain more friends for the department than the obnoxious and costly plan of prosecution.

The changes suggested would greatly facilitate and lessen the labor of factory inspection work. The Legislature has enacted the Factory Law, in which there may be some defects, for which the Factory Department can not be held responsible; but notwithstanding all the obstacles with which the department has had to contend, the factories and factory employes of the great Empire State are to-day in much better condition than ever before. More work has been accomplished during the last year than any previous years in the history of the department, and the main object of the Factory Law has been attained. The factory employes in New York State, numbering more than half a million, are deriving the benefits of the faithful work of the department. Intelligence and common sense have been used in issuing orders and in the enforcement of the provisions of the law by the department and its deputies, and the unbiased manner in which the department has acted, has gained the confidence and the respect of both employer and employe.

Inspector Wm. J. Hughes read the following paper upon

SWEAT-SHOPS IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen:

In addressing you I find myself in an unenviable position, this being the first time in my life that I have been called upon to prepare and read a paper on the subject of sweat-shops, or in fact on any other subject. With my short experience I feel myself unable to do justice to a subject of so much interest to you, and one which has been so ably handled by others in previous conventions. In presenting this paper I feel very much like the young minister who had preached a trial sermon. Being anxious to learn the verdict, he inquired from an old Scotchman, one of his hearers, what he thought of the sermon. The honest Scotchman replied: "Well, in the first place you read the sermon, in the second place you dinna' read it well, and in the third place it weren't worth the reading."

I will ask you to forget my shortcomings while I attempt to give you a few conclusions upon the subject of sweat-shops, which are the result of my practical observations of a year. While the law as we have it in our State has cured many of the evils of the sweat-shop, there is yet much to be done to bring the condition which surrounds these workers to a point that may be called proper. As you know, the workers in these shops are very poor. With them it is a fight for existence. The great competition that exists at present in the business world, finds in these poor people, because of their poverty, easy victims of the avarice of the manufacturer and dealer, who must have their supply of wearing apparel for the now well established bargain counter, where the rush for bargains in our large stores surpasses the rushes of the football teams which meet with so much popular applause, both furnishing amusing items for our comic papers. From my observations, I fear that the poor sweater has to pay for the bargains which are so eagerly sought for and carried off with a smile of triumph by the purchaser who manages to reach the counter after a battle royal.

The conditions surrounding the sweat-shop, in my opinion, will never reach the high standard which we seek, and which ought to be, until the manufacturer can be made to feel that the responsibility is his, that there is more for him to look after and think of than "how much can I get out of it?" If the manufacturer will insist that proper conditions shall surround the shops of those with whom he contracts, with a continuous insistence, then only can we look for the improvement for which we are working. While manufacturers may say, and many of them think, they are contracting with proper parties, these parties for selfish reasons (or most likely because the contract was made at a lower figure than for which they can make an article under proper sanitary conditions) sublet the work to others, family workers in many instances, who have no permit, to do the work under conditions which are vile. I recall one instance of this kind. A large firm in our city had made a contract with a corporation to furnish clothing for their employes, and he sublet it to others. I found two places where this clothing was in the hands of finishers, one where scarlet fever held sway, and in the other the dread disease diphtheria had laid low its victims. These finishers would have delivered the finished clothing to the firm if it had not been for my discovery, and thus no doubt have spread the disease among others. While we try to teach the poor sweater to better his condition, and have succeeded to a wonderful degree, we will never reach the goal for which we aim until we have the fullest sympathy and interested co-operation of the manufacturer, dealer and jobber. They are intelligent and educated, and ought to see the importance of having their clothing made under proper conditions, either by themselves or their representatives visiting the contractors' workshops, and compelling the contractor to fulfil his agreements in a proper way. Their failure to supervise their work in the hands of contractors should render them liable to penalties which would make them realize their duties.

The law of Pennsylvania does not go far enough. It should give the right to confiscate clothing manufactured under vile and unhealthy conditions. If we had this right, then we could fasten the responsibility where, I feel, from my observations, it belongs—with the manufacturer and large dealer. The poor sweater is ignorant and can not realize the danger which lurks in his vile surroundings. He exists only, and it is a great wonder to me that he does even that. The congested tenements, with dirty and bad sanitary surroundings, seem to me to invite disease to a greater degree than now prevails in the camps of our brave soldier boys. "He that tempers the wind to the shorn lamb" must be keeping these sweaters alive for some good purpose. It may be to give those of greater intelligence, who should have a helpful control over them, the opportunity to raise them to a higher and better plane of living. It has been said by the Saviour of men, "The poor ye have always with you."

As lovers of our country, the asylum of the oppressed, it is our duty, as manufacturers, dealers, purchasers and inspectors, to help bring these poor people to a better way of living, and prevent them from becoming a menace to the health and happiness of our country.

Inspector Plunkett, of Massachusetts, read the following paper upon

SWEAT SHOPS IN MASSACHUSETTS.

In order to fully explain the causes which led to the enactment of Massachusetts law relating to the sweating system, it will be necessary to go back to about the year 1886. The clothing dealers of Massachusetts, who sold their goods, began to feel the effects of what was then called New York competition; which means that they were encountering a competition in the selling price of goods so far below their own that they were unable to manufacture the goods for the prices at which they were then sold, much less to make any profit whatever. The result of this state of affairs was a reduction in prices paid to their contractors for manufacturing, which, of course, resulted in corresponding decrease in the wages of the employees of these contractors. This effort did not seem to afford the required relief and, shrewd business men as they are, they soon found the cause for this disparaging difference between themselves and their New York competitors, and of course they soon availed themselves of the opportunity there offered for making clothing at prices far below what they could accomplish in Massachusetts.

The sending of goods cut and turned in Boston to be made in New York soon threw thousands of tailors in Massachusetts out of employment, or else forced them to work for wages which were not sufficient to maintain the standard of living to which they had accustomed themselves. This system lasted until the Boston merchants somewhat changed their methods and began to send the pieces of goods to New York, where they were cut, trimmed, made and returned to them ready for sale; and when this process was introduced, it began to affect a branch of this industry where existed an intelligent and well-organized body of workers, who at once bestirred themselves to ascertain the cause of the change thus come upon this chosen pursuit. The efforts of the leaders of this organization, together with the co-operation of other branches of the business, led to an investigation of the causes and resulted in the publication of a pamphlet in 1889, entitled "Some Facts of Interest to Clothing Merchants." This pamphlet, which was in the nature of an appeal for the promotion of home industries, was also a warning to the public, informing them of the filthy condition under which the clothing was made which they were purchasing. While this pamphlet was not in the nature of an appeal for legislative enactment, still it stirred up such a strong public sentiment against this fraudulent and unhealthy system of manufacture that in 1891 the Governor of Massachusetts ordered an investigation of the conditions under which the clothing publicly sold was manufactured. The duty of investigating the so-called sweating system devolved upon the offices of Massachusetts district police and the bureau of labor statistics, and after a careful and well-conducted investigation by the officers of these departments, who were men entirely devoid of any prejudice in the matter, and not in any way affiliated with the industry affected, a condition of affairs was exposed which fully corroborated all that had been published by press and uttered from the pulpit regarding this system, and also disclosed the fact that the tenement-house system had taken strong root in Massachusetts. The reports made by these officers were transmitted by the Governor to the Legislature, then in session, and resulted in the enactment of a law, called "An Act relating to the manufacture and sale of clothing made in unhealthy places." The law thus was not only intended to regulate the manufacture of clothing in Massachusetts, but also aimed to prevent the shipping of goods into the State which had previously been made under unhealthy conditions, by requiring the office of the district police to examine such goods and the conditions of their manufacture, and giving the State board of health power to issue order for the protection of the public health whenever necessary. This law also required that a tag be placed upon all goods made in a tenement-house used as a workshop, which tag must be of certain size and contain the word "tenement-made," and also the city or town where manufactured.

This law did not, however, contain any clause regulating the employment of persons in the private homes, and we soon found that considerable work was being done by private families so-called, so that in 1891, upon the recommendation of Chief Wade, an amendment to law was made requiring that a license be procured before any family, or any member of a family, could begin the making of clothing in their homes. For this license no fee is charged and its regulations forbid the employment of others than the members of a family, and require cleanliness only as its other condition. By means of this license clause the inspectors are able to keep a correct list of all places in which clothing of any description is sent to be made, and I consider this part of the law its most important feature and one which should be contained in any State law to regulate or prevent the tenement-house system of manufacture. New York and other States soon followed the example of Massachusetts and enacted a law to regulate and prevent this evil. In 1892 the National Government, through a committee of Congress, carried on investigations in the several large cities in the United States. Public sympathy had been so fully aroused in the interests for the victims of the tenement-house workshops, and their just indignation against this unfair competition found vent in volumes of evidence, tending to show the necessity for national law regulating this system. Of course much of the evidence came from former employes in the clothing trade who had been forced to relinquish their occupation on account of their inability to compete with the employes of the sweaters, and gain a livelihood in consequence of the small rate of wages paid to the tenement-house operatives. But this committee held to the opinion that wages were a matter of contract between employer and employe, and could not of course be regulated by law, and I think came to the conclusion that State regulation was sufficient. The sweating system which is nothing but the grinding of unfair profits out of those compelled by circumstances to labor at any price "or starve," can and will be carried on in any industry while the present contract system of labor employment exists, and while thousands of people of any one nationality find the way into our country at about the same time. This same system has been imposed in other industries for years upon the unfortunate emigrant coming to this country, particularly at periods when an immense number of one class of nationality are forced to come here on account of persecution or for other causes from European countries. It was and is successfully imposed to-day upon what is called the unskilled laborer, in the building of railroads, streets, sewers, and like. So we find that legislation was not enacted against the sweating system, but against the tenement-house system of manufacture, which was but the effect of the sweating system in the clothing industry. Now the system of making clothing in private families is not new to the clothing business of New England; if we could look back about twenty-five years, we would find that in certain branches of the clothing business, the entire output was manufactured by women in their homes. It is within my own recollection when a factory for the manufacture of men's working shirts, overalls, ladies' wrappers, waists, etc., was an unknown quantity, these goods being made exclusively by women in their homes in the cities and towns of New England. But during the last fifteen years, by the introduction of steam-power machines, and the adoption of improved methods of making and handling the goods, such a wonderful reduction in the labor cost of producing these articles has occurred that it is impossible to undertake to manufacture them in other than large factories, so that to-day probably ninety per cent. of the goods are thus made. The clothing industry known as the ready-made clothing trade devoted to the manufacture of C.P. & V., and on which few if any improvements in mode of manufacture had been made, and where higher rates of wages were paid, offered a shining mark for the tenement-house system, and the employes in this branch suffered most in consequence of this unfair competition, from which they have not as yet recovered. The Massachusetts law has been further amended this year, changed in phraseology and made more clear, and to-day our law is as near perfect as is possible. While containing a proviso intended to prevent the shipment of clothing into our commonwealth which has been made under unhealthy conditions in some other State, I fully realize the difficulties in the way of properly enforcing this provision and also that to prove these facts in a court of law if a stubborn resistance should be encountered would be another matter. While Massachusetts, New York, and Pennsylvania may have and enforce a law against the tenement-house system there are still communities in which it may hold forth in all its hideousness, and this fact leads to the conclusion that national legislation seems to be the only effectual remedy for its prevention.

There seems to me no reason why the national legislature can not place under government regulation all branches of manufacture engaged in making wearing apparel, eatables, and cigars, where these products are shipped from State to State, manufactured under conditions which affect the public health. I think it possible to so frame a national law as to require that proper, clean, and decently regulated conditions should surround the manufacture of all articles of food and wearing apparel, and I look forward to the day when by national law or some other means there may be more uniformity in our factory laws.

Inspector W. J. Nealey, of New York, read the following paper upon

"SWEATER AND SWEATING."

Mr. Chairman, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention:

The terms "Sweater" and "Sweating," as formerly understood in New York, were synonymous of a state of existence on a parallel with human slavery with this point in favor of the slave: That while his master worked him to the point of endurance, care was taken that he was provided with a comfortable home, and cleanly surroundings; otherwise he would not be in a fit condition to fulfil the daily task allotted to him, and soon would succumb, which entailed a loss to his master, as each slave represented so much capital. With the sweater, conditions were different. To him it mattered naught whether the serf was fed or housed. He was paid a certain amount for a stated quantity of labor performed, and under what conditions he worked were a matter of indifference to his employer, as his interest in him ceased as soon as the workman failed to come up to his task, and he found no difficulty in replacing him with a younger and stronger man.

Such was the state of affairs before the factory inspection law which sought to regulate this class of employment, was placed on the statute books, and such would be the conditions again if the law was repealed—a possibility which we hope will never materialize in these days of advancing civilization.

The year which has just elapsed since the last convention, has been an educational one. The department found that a vast field was open, and set about doing its work in an effective, intelligent, and humane manner. It had three vital points to contend with: First, to educate the manufacturer up to a sense of his duty under the law, and to impress upon him that he was a potent factor in the general health of the community, and that he was a harbinger of joy or misery to any homestead where his wares were carried. Second, to educate the contractor that he was held responsible for the conditions under which his workmen labored, and that a filthy workroom, bad sanitary conditions, and unreasonable hours of labor, were as detrimental to himself as to his workmen, not only from an ethical and sanitary point of view, but from a pecuniary one, the truth of which is now generally admitted by almost every contractor in New York; and, third, to teach the workingman that, in a great measure, he was responsible for all the ills under which he labored, and that often he was his own worst enemy. It has been a trying ordeal, but patience and perseverance have triumphed, and to-day the "sweater" is reaping the benefit of the arduous work done by the department.

And all this has been accomplished without recourse to courts of justices, except as a last resource, and with little or no hardships to all concerned, as the "tag" has virtually taken the place of the courts.

The department is now closely allied to the board of health, which has rendered effective aid, and quickly responded to every appeal made for its co-operation. When an inspector finds sanitary conditions existing which seem more properly to belong to the jurisdiction of the health board, he directly calls its attention to the same, and by the united efforts of both departments, the cause of complaint soon disappears, and a healthy condition takes the place of the former pestilential breathing spot. If conditions are such that delay would seem dangerous to the health of employees, then the inspectors resort to the use of the "tag."

The success of the department during the past year has been due to the fact that the law has been enforced in an impartial way. Each and every violation of law has been treated in accordance with the merit of the case. The poorest contractor received equal justice with the most wealthy and influential manufacturer, and no social or political interference was allowed to stand between the inspector and the faithful performance of his duty, which statement can be verified by some of the representatives of labor unions in the clothing industry, who have made personal appeals to the department in the interest of several of their members, after all political intercession had failed to obtain special consideration for the contractor in whose employ their members were engaged.

Owing to the system adopted, the work of the department this year has been more thorough than in any other year since the enactment of the law. Formerly the work was done in a haphazard sort of way. An inspector was assigned to a certain district, and whether the territory allotted to his care was actually covered or not by him, he alone knew. Under the "block system," as now in vogue, the head of the department has only to refer to his map to know exactly in what section of a district an inspector is at work, and what portion of the district he has gone over, as indicated by his signature on the map. The beneficial result to the department of this mode of inspection has been exemplified in several ways, chief among which is the number of inspections made of workshops which have never before been inspected.

And right here is where the beneficial effect of the factory department is best seen. Several instances have occurred where a number of workmen have been employed for years without any sanitary conditions whatever, the nearest saloon furnishing the only accommodation available. Such a state of affairs could not exist under the "block system" of inspections.

Aside from the great improvement in the sanitary condition of the sweating industry is the absence of child-labor in the sweat-shop. A comparison of the records of inspections made in sweat-shops this year with those previously made on the same premises will fully demonstrate the effectiveness of the work performed and its beneficial results. This change in the employment of child-labor has been brought about in several ways. To-day when an inspector finds a child legally employed, he demands his instant dismissal. No waiting for court proceedings, which at best is a dilatory manner of procedure, involving loss of time and expenses to all concerned. If the child is under the legal age to be employed and illiterate, the educational department is communicated with, and in many instances where a lack of school room was given as an excuse, the inspectors have visited the nearest public school to the child's residence, and consulted the principal, who invariably acted in concert with the inspector, and secured admission to the school for the child. But the most beneficial effects of this method of procedure is the direct bearing it has on the child's employer. Like all other skilled labor, the manufacturer of clothing is conducted on the "team system," requiring a garment before completion to pass through the hands of some seven or eight employes each as indispensable as the cogs in a cog-wheel. The instant dismissal of a child disrupts the machinery, and often prevents the contractor from being able to carry out his contract with the manufacturer in the time specified, which is certain to result in a loss to him financially, or the non-securing of another contract. It has become no unusual thing to an inspector to be informed by a contractor that "it does not pay him any more to employ children." Except during vacation time, when workmen (to keep their children from the contaminating effects of the streets) bring them to the shops, so as to occupy their time and to give them an insight of the business, and help to earn a little more money, to provide means to furnish new clothing for school opening, children are not to be found in any great numbers employed in sweat-shops, and great hope is entertained that by a strict enforcement of the law in future all such illegal employment will cease.

But one great source of trouble to the department still exists, and will continue to exist until more stringent laws are enacted or it is prohibited altogether. I refer to tenement-house work.

Owing to the geographical situation of New York and the cosmopolitan character of its inhabitants, ever changing like a kaleidoscope, the lot of an inspector in tenement-house work is by no means an enviable one.

Surrounded on every side by a concourse of people all eager to evade the law, and some relying upon political influence to help them carry on their business in violation of same, the inspector has no easy task to perform. Added to this is the unwillingness of workmen themselves to expose violations of law except during the period of strikes, or when a contractor refuses to recognize their scale of wages, which appears to them the only just grounds of complaint to the department. The truth of this statement has been attested by a prominent officer of the tailor's union in reply to a question asked by an inspector in relation to illegal tenement-house work. "Tenement-house work," he said, "as formerly existed, is almost if not completely wiped out in the Hebrew section; and whatever work in that line may still be done there, is done under conditions so improved that no serious danger is likely to arise therefrom to the general health of the public." The only real cause of complaint among workingmen engaged in the clothing industry, as regard tenement-house work, is the tendency it has to reduce wages. A potent one indeed. Notwithstanding all these obstacles to contend with, the department has succeeded in reducing tenement-house work in the Hebrew section to a minimum, except that carried on under sanction of the law, the department having no legal power to regulate such work if performed under good sanitary conditions, and no contagious disease existing in premises where work is being done. The Court of Appeals in the State of New York has decided that the Legislature can not prevent a family from using its living apartments for the manufacture of goods, so long as no outsiders are employed.

In the handling of tenement-house work, one of the most effective weapons in the hands of the inspectors is the power to hold landlord, agent, or lessee of buildings equally responsible with the tenant. When an inspector finds a violation of the law existing in a tenement-house, he simply notifies the owner of goods found on premises that his goods are being made up in violation of the law, giving him time to remove same and informing him if at the expiration of said time they still remain on premises complained of, a tenement-house "tag" would be placed on all goods found, which in every case brings a quick response and a full compliance of the law without recourse to court. But should unclean conditions or contagious disease be found to exist on premises, not only are goods "tagged" but instantly turned over to the board of health for fumigation or total destruction, according to the merits of the case. But there are cases where the "tag" would not be so effective; namely, where the offending party is a manufacturer himself, making up his own material; and here is where the new power to attack the landlord is brought to bear. In many instances, owners of property, when served with personal notice to dispossess tenants violating the Factory Law, have no knowledge of the business carried on by their tenants. When engaging premises, they simply hire them as living rooms, incidentally remarking that they have one "family" sewing-machine; but no sooner are they located in their new quarters than they begin gradually to add to their stock of machines until full-fledged sweat-shops are in working order, and to keep the owners still in the dark in relation to conditions, they are very careful on the first day of each month to send him the rent, and seldom or ever complain of the conditions of their apartments, leading the owner to consider them model tenants; and it is only when an inspector pays them a visit or a complaint reaches him from some other occupant of the house, that he is made aware of the actual use made of their apartments or the character of his tenants. But the serving of "personal notices" on landlords to dispossess tenants has wrought a wonderful change in regard to the letting of rooms in tenement-houses. Landlords are getting inquisitive, and if any doubt as to the legality of the business or use to be made of rooms by the incoming tenants occurs to them, they consult the department very frequently before allowing would-be tenants to take possession, thereby saving themselves and the department loss of time and a great deal of trouble, and so becoming valuable aid to the inspectors.

The effect of such treatment as above outlined is apparent in the decreased number of tenement-house complaints received by the department. And not only is this true of tenement-house work, but of the "sweating system" generally. During the present year the number of complaints received in relation to uncleanliness of workrooms and sanitary conditions of sweatshops does not equal one-third of those made to the department during the previous year, and even then there was no comparison in the conditions found existing with those of the preceding year.

But after all has been said and done there is still a vast field of labor open to the inspectors. Attention was called last year to the new element in the "sweating" industry, and prognostications made, which time has verified to have been well founded. (I am now referring to the Italian sweater.)

To such an extent has the Italian tenement-house sweating increased that it is fair to state that nearly seven-tenths of all ready-made clothing manufactured in New York, at some stage of its manufacture, has passed through the hands of Italian tenement-house workers. But the danger of the community from this new element is far more sweeping than ever existed in the worst stage of Hebrew sweating. The desire on the part of these people to earn and hoard up money, with the ultimate view of returning to their native clime, and there becomes missionary aids to emigration agents, render them oblivious of their duty as parents. As soon as a child is able to add a few cents to their coffers, directly it is placed at work in its home, and no thought of bringing it up in a manner destined to develop it into a healthy, intelligent American citizen occurs to them.

These children grow up in ignorance, seldom, if ever, attending school; and when not employed at home, serve as beasts of burden to carry clothing to and from sweatshops, virtually stunting their growth, morally, physically and intellectually.

An amendment to the Factory Law, making children employed at home by their parents equally amenable to the Factory Law as those found at work in sweatshops or factories, seems an absolute necessity. If this power can not be constitutionally given to the department, then some such power as that delegated to a "truant officer" should be conferred upon the factory inspectors. Under the existing law the inspector finds himself powerless to interfere in their behalf.

No such condition as regards children exists in the Hebrew colony. No better illustration of this can be given than the number of schoolhouses now in course of erection in the Hebrew quarters.

While tenement-house work (so far as men's apparel is concerned) has greatly decreased in the Hebrew section, it has multiplied in the Italian portions of the city; and in proportion to its increase a corresponding decrease has taken place in wages. This was forcibly brought to our attention lately in the manufacture of army uniforms. In every case where Hebrew contractors refused to make goods up at the prices offered, there was no trouble in securing an Italian contractor to undertake the work and faithfully carry out his contract.

If the condition of affairs as now exists continue it will have but one ending, and that is, the degradation of all employed in the clothing industry. These people are arriving in New York in swarms—not always free agents, but the living, working drones of some unscrupulous padrone, who uses all his subtlety and deceptive powers to elude and baffle the watchful eye of the immigration inspector—and no sooner have they arrived than they are taken under the sheltering arm of some friend or relative and become full-fledged "members of the family," and if no other work can be secured for them they are taught the mysteries of the tailor's art and very soon enter into open competition with skilled workmen. Living as they do, like bees in a hive, and subsisting on food more often fit for the offal dock than for use, if some actual restrictive check is not placed upon immigration of this kind by more stringent immigration laws (prohibitory if need be), the standard of American citizenship is in imminent danger of being placed on a declining scale.

The dressmaking business during the past year has received much attention by the department. Until a few years ago this branch of industry was not considered as coming under the Factory Law, and, strange to say, some of the most flagrant outrages of said law were found existing in some of these workrooms. Men and women huddled together without any attention or thought given to sanitary conditions or hours of labor for minors, and generally insufficient air space in workroom, were the usual conditions found by an inspector on his first visit. Sometimes he was courteously received, but more generally his right to intrude was questioned in a manner more forcible than eloquent. But after he had fully explained the law and its practical workings, no further objections were raised; and in all cases the orders given by inspectors were carried to completion, and in this line of work especially have the best results been obtained by the department. But even this branch of the clothing industry has lately undergone a radical change, owing to the large influence of immigrants thrown upon an already overcrowded labor market. With no other avenue open to them, and compelled to find some means of eking out an existence, hoping for something better to turn up in the future, they have forced themselves into fields of labor formerly filled by women only, and so cheaply have they worked that women are daily being driven from the manufacture of skirts, shirts, ladies' waists, boys' blouses and feminine underwear of every description, and still the surplus of unemployed labor exists, and will continue to exist, under our present mild form of restricted immigration laws. And while our immigration laws remain as they are, no matter what the conditions of trade may or may not be, whether times are good or bad, no better state of affairs can be brought about.

While the labor market is so overstocked, these people will be forced to accept whatever compensation may be offered for their labor in order to obtain the necessities of life.

Philanthropists and charitable societies have long since made an effort to relieve this surplus of labor in the clothing industry by starting trade-schools to teach these people plumbing, brass-finishing, tinsmithing, carpentry and many other trades; but no sooner is the output of these schools placed on the market than we hear the cry of dull times and no work from those people who heretofore have been following the different trades into which the school graduates have entered, showing that their fancied relief instead of being a preventive is really only spreading the disease generally. This question might seem strange in a convention of factory inspectors but for the fact that it shows that we in New York city encounter conditions which are to be met with nowhere else in the State.

Owing to a lack of practical knowledge in these trade-school graduates, of the dangers arising from the use of dangerous machinery in the various branches of industry in which they are engaged, the inspectors are compelled to act the part of educators, as well as perform the duties of police officers.

Another serious cause of complaint is that our foreign population centralizes in sections of the city, so much so as to make it almost impossible to enforce sanitary laws. No matter how well inclined the inspectors are to enforce the law, great danger to the health of the community arises from this colonization of people who are indifferent to their surroundings. Even when an opportunity offers, they refuse to scatter, preferring the associations with which they are surrounded to more suitable fields for obtaining means of earning a livelihood.

This desire to live so closely together is such an established fact that owners of houses in the Hebrew and Italian quarters receive larger rentals for their premises than are paid in many of the better quarters of the city, where sanitary conditions will bear no comparison with those under which they now live.

It will be seen that the public health will continue to be endangered by diseases which germinate in the squalor existing in quarters occupied by persons whose time is solely taken up in an effort to earn a living, and can not afford to give any time to sanitary considerations, and this is especially true of those engaged in the clothing industry. In order to reduce this evil to the lowest possible minimum, I would advocate the following as an amendment to the factory law: That the department be empowered to provide a label to be placed only on articles of clothing which have been wholly manufactured in a shop building in which every section of the factory law has been complied with. Such a tag would be a guide to the purchaser of a garment, as it would inform him under what conditions the garment was made.

W. J. NEELY,

M. J. FLANAGAN.

The convention then adjourned until 9 o'clock, Wednesday morning.

WEDNESDAY MORNING'S SESSION.

The work of the convention was commenced promptly at 9:30; all officers present, there being a full attendance of ladies.

After the distribution of mail and some preliminary work of minor importance, interesting papers were read, as follows: by Mrs. R. B. Gourlie, of New York, entitled,—

THE RELATION OF THE FACTORY LAWS TO THE EMPLOYER.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

The subject of the relation of the factory inspection laws to the employer lends itself to a historical rather than an argumentative or technical discussion. For, while we shall note the conditions relevant to the subject, existing prior, and then subsequent to the enactment of laws for the regulation of the employment of mill hands, we shall observe their effects not only upon their direct subjects, but upon those against whom the laws are primarily directed.

Factories themselves are of exceedingly remote origin. Indeed the very dawn of history saw them in active operation. Sir Charles Lyell in his "Antiquity of Man" first called attention to the remains of a manufactory for the stone implements in Switzerland where these ancient progenitors of mankind were wont in the long ago stone age to fashion rudely for industrial purposes the various flint manufactures of which to-day there still remain specimens. Ancient Egypt could boast of spinning mills; there were glass and metal works in Phœnicia; silk and porcelain were produced in China; and carpet in Carthage; while the woolen factories of ancient Lydia, Phrygia and Persia were famous.

The close of the eighteenth century was marked by a great development in manufactures in England. In Derbyshire, Nottingham, and Lancaster the natural advantages of the country invited the erection of factories upon the numerous water courses which existed there, and which afforded practically the only means then in operation for turning the looms.

Coincident with the awakening of manufacturing industries, there arose the evils of the factory. Two-thirds, or perhaps three-fourths, as it is stated by one author, of the hands employed in mills were children or young persons whose numbers had been recruited from the almshouses of London, Edinburgh, and the other large cities. These were divided into relays who alternately slept in the same beds, until it was a saying that these beds were always warm.

The children, without parents, or any other protecting influences to regard their welfare and to rebuke their persecutors, were worked to the last extremity of their strength and otherwise submitted to the most brutal treatment that the cupidity of their employers could devise. Bodily exhaustion, physical decline, disease, and mental degeneracy resulted, and their inevitable accompaniments, intemperance and crime, made the factory a menace to society. "It seemed more to resemble a receptacle of demons than the work house of industrious human beings," was the testimony of one upon a factory. The climax could not long be delayed. The thrifty employer had created the modern factory, but his avarice had inaugurated a condition which cried out for reform, but the likelihood of the increased cost and the diminished profits with such an arrangement, gave him no such inclination.

The situation may seem simple when viewed along the vista of a century of experience; but when we consider that the same grasping avarice which was the first impulse to the evil, redoubled its energy in the face of the attempts to suppress it, we can more readily understand that the factory laws in England to-day are in the nature of a triumph over the most strenuous, influential, and guilty opposition. The first law passed by Parliament in 1802 met with an intensified storm of denunciation; it was contended that commerce would be injured by foreign competition, that the subject was not one for legislative control, and that the law infringed private rights and abridged the freedom of labor, by which was meant the right of any man to work himself to death if he should choose to do so.

It would be idle to discuss the merits of these and other numerous objections advanced to the factory inspection legislation. Much time has been spent by many in doing so. The pure light of experience has been the most potent argument against the baleful predictions raised by those interested to see the experiment fail.

Thus we have traced in meager outline the birth, the nurture, and the growth of the laws providing for factory inspection in England. The laws existing in our American States to-day are the children of this English parent. The employer of to-day in America is gathering the harvest, the seeds of which were sown in England a century ago. The operatives are the tools of his trade, and it is obvious, we assume, that good tools conduce to good results and consequently to good profits.

In most countries of the world, and we think in all the Christian ones, including our own States, the principle of factory inspection laws is one now well recognized as part of the fundamental law. At least a rudimentary education has taken the place of ignorance; cleanliness and sanitary conditions are enforced, while the beneficial results arising from rest at night, reasonable recreation, and the ability to enjoy the association and refining influence of the home circle, has diminished many of the hardships necessarily incident to the life of an operative in a factory. The tests of time and experience have been applied to factory legislation with gratifying results. The tempest of opposition has raged, has culminated, and has abated. Denunciation has given place to tolerance, and tolerance to co-operation. The American employer recognizes the indispensability of skilful labor, and he understands that skill is only present when intelligence arising from a reasonable attention to rudimentary education; good health, an accompaniment of sanitary surroundings; morality, the hand-maiden of home influence, and a fair amount of recreation, are cultivated and enforced if need be. A recent learned commentator upon the subject has said in regard to the shortening of the hours of labor of the mill hands: "But by establishing a uniform and restricted working-day, the legislature exerted a most beneficial influence over the whole working class. The compulsory law fixed time for beginning and leaving off work, acted as a salutary check upon idleness as well as excessive zeal, which both are alike injurious to morals and health. The longer free afternoon hours in which adult workmen who are dependent on the assistance of protected persons, participating in an equal degree with the latter, afford more time and opportunity for enjoying the humanizing influences of private and family life, and the shortening of the working day, if judiciously availed of by the working classes may become one of the most excellent means of their elevation. Fortunately both working men and masters alike are generally beginning to appreciate the advantages which regularity in the working system, and mode of living, resulting from a judicious adjustment of the working hours, confers on all concerned; and thus it has come to pass, that the factory legislation which at its first introduction was ridiculed as a monstrosity and prima facie, an abortive experiment, and which moreover was attacked and set at naught as an infringement on personal and industrial liberty, is to-day recognized as one of the soundest foundations of social reform and one of the most beneficial institutions of the State."

Factory legislation has bestowed substantial advantages upon industry itself, since the work being now performed by cleverer and more experienced hands has gained both in quality and rapidity of execution; the number of accidents is daily decreasing and the list of persons guilty of infringing the law is gradually growing shorter.

Our actual observation to-day leads us to state that there is practically no general opposition to the complete fulfilment of the statutes. Cases will be found, it is true, where complaint is made against the factory inspectors' exactions, but these cases are sporadic and chiefly by the smaller factory operators. We think it will be the testimony of the majority of factory inspectors that the great mass of employers quietly acquiesce in the law and attempt to obey the theory and spirit of its rules of conduct.

Well-organized, clean, and consequently healthy surroundings invite the more skilful operatives and the money and time in obtaining these is invested advantageously. The common-law liability of employers for injuries to their employes, by reason of negligence, the theory of which has been so fully developed in recent years, leads the employer to adopt readily every precaution to protect the lives and limbs of those whom he employs. The factory inspection laws require notice to be given of the more obvious defects in machinery, directing that the most dangerously exposed points be provided with guards and fences. A salutary provision of the law and one which makes directly for the profit of the mill owner. Indeed no ingenuity of calculation can estimate the advantages which have flowed and which will flow in the future to the employer of men and women by reason of this feature of the law alone. But incidents of the beneficial results accruing to the employer could be multiplied. It is a system of progress and enlightenment, that he recognizes them and co-operates with those who are charged with the enforcement of the laws.

It is impossible to leave the discussion without adverting to a subject which may be considered in the nature of a digression. We refer to the benefits accruing to the State in the operation of the factory laws. Subsequent to the Franco-Prussian war, an investigation was made in France into the causes contributing to the defeat of the French. A shocking condition of affairs in the factory towns was revealed. It was found, of those presented for examination as to fitness to enter the army, the great majority that were rejected, were the applicants from the factory towns. Statistics having been prepared, it was impossible to avoid the conclusion that the factory towns were rearing a race of degenerates and that the factory was spreading its evil influence upon its surroundings with alarming effect. The information resulted in factory legislation upon the plan then existing in England.

The lesson is obvious. The strength of a nation is the strength of its citizens. There is no surer evidence of the decline of a nation than that which is furnished by the decline of its sons. As we watch with bated breath the legions of our country spring to arms, and march in sturdy phalanx to victory against a long-trained and mightily armed foe, let us breathe a prayer of blessing that we live in a land in which the poorest working child is under the shadow of the protecting wing of the law. Let us rest assured, since it is so, that no decay will come, but that, on the contrary, as the influence of such beneficial laws spread, new and fresher vigor will manifest itself, until the wage-worker's condition will be ameliorated to the greatest degree possible, when our nation will be strong, and its citizens the most contented and law-abiding of any in the world.

GENERAL FACTORY INSPECTION.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Twelfth Annual Convention of the International Association of Factory Inspectors of North America:

The object of all factory inspection laws is, primarily, to protect the life, health, and morals of the employees. The power to accomplish this is that granted to, or vested in, the inspector by the factory laws of the several States and Provinces.

As all inspectors very well know, these laws are in many points faulty and inadequate in some instances where possibly by their recent enactment they are still in a crude state; in others by the obstructions which are invariably thrown in the way of all legislation for the betterment of labor, or, mayhap, even from a lack of proper understanding or appreciation of the importance of such laws for proper protection on the part of the members of the various legislative bodies.

Our real authority will never extend beyond the boundary of the laws as enacted by the several States; but by tact and perseverance much may be attained which, while the letter of the law does not require, it is nevertheless evident that the spirit which prompted its enactment intended.

The district in which it has been my lot to labor is one in which the work in all its various phases is presented. The mercantile house with its army of women and cash boys, textile and tobacco factories where child-labor is abundant, together with iron and steel works where only adult male labor can be employed. But time will not permit to speak of all. The child-labor problem will, I am afraid, always remain the most difficult to regulate. Sad and heartrending to observe and contemplate are some of the instances which are presented. Many, no doubt, are by dire necessity obliged to permit little ones to seek employment; but it is deplorable that from mere greed, others do not scruple even to the extent of falsifying the age of their children in order to obtain their admission into the factory or workshop, giving no thought to the injuries, either physical or moral, which may be, and in the majority of cases are, the result. A certificate of physical fitness from some competent authority should in doubtful cases be required. The Compulsory School Law of my own State, although not far-reaching enough, together with the change in Factory Law, which, in order to obtain employment, requires that all children, under 16 years, must be able to read and write the English language, can not fail but be productive of good results. In one city in my district where the attendance officer is in sympathy with our work, we have succeeded in removing several children under 13 years from factories, although every one of them had on file an affidavit stating they were 13 years old. In one case, that of a very frail little girl, who, from the record of births in the health office, as well as that of the parish priest, we found only to be 11 years old, the mother had testified to 13. I called to see the mother and, asking her reason for seeking employment for the child, was told that she herself had been offered a position as sweeper in this same mill, but refused, claiming that she could not endure the noise of the machinery; yet, this frail, undeveloped girl, hardly able to reach the top of her frame, and obliged to walk to and fro watching bobbins and reels ten long hours every day, was put there and that by perjury.

The difficulty in securing proper sanitary appointments in establishments where both sexes are employed is no small matter for the inspector to contend with, and one which ought to be given the utmost care and attention. The securing of perfect privacy for women and girls is often more difficult than to secure guards for machinery; and if many a sad tale could be traced up or back, step by step, I am afraid that we would find that more than one young, innocent girl has had her sense of modesty and propriety so blunted by the conveniences provided in the factory or workshop in which it may have been her fortune or misfortune to be employed, that the downward path was made quite easy. The heating, lighting, ventilating, means of exit in case of panic (which must of necessity not be caused by fire), the location and condition of fire-escapes, together with that death-dealing agent, the elevator, must all receive careful attention.

The construction as regards safety of the machinery, that is, the belting, shafting, fly-wheel, often in deep unprotected pits; collars and pulleys with unprotected set-screws, rapidly revolving unprotected cog-wheels, belts unboxed, often with the floor opening through which they pass so large that it would be an easy matter for any one passing to step in and be caught on shafting or pulleys underneath the line shaft, which, when machines are run from below, is placed along the floor unboxed, across which the employes, often little boys, must step in going to and fro, as well as that underneath the tables of sewing machines where little girls and young women, many of them with their hair hanging loose or in long braids, are at work; the overhead gangway, or often only a plank in iron works, along which the oiler is obliged to pass, often found without guard or protection; these are all points that must be carefully considered. Nothing should be too trivial to notice, not in an arbitrary manner, but appealing to the better judgment; firmness must be tempered by courtesy.

The most successful inspector will be the one who has tact, skill and firmness enough to enforce the law in spirit and letter to the minutest point, without invoking the penalty of it; one who will be able to gain and hold the respect and confidence of both wage-earner and manufacturer, one to whom the former can come in all confidence and the latter know that only that which is just and fair will be required.

Many of our large manufacturers who at one time were bitter opponents of all factory laws, terming them "class legislation," are now among the most ardent supporters of it, having been taught by experience that that which is designed for the betterment of labor is not to their detriment, but rather that any amelioration in the condition of their employes will, by the benefits accruing to them, more than repay them for any expense necessary.

BAKESHOPS IN OHIO.

By Theodore Wagner.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Twelve months ago, at the eleventh meeting of the International Association of Factory Inspectors, held at Detroit, Michigan, I had the honor to read you a report in regard to my experience as bakeshop inspector for the northern district of the State of Ohio.

At that time I had not had an opportunity to speak of all the places placed under my supervision, as I did not enter upon my official duties until December, 1896, the bill creating the office being passed in April of the same year.

During the year just ended I was able to make a complete and thorough report of my inspections, and in some counties even a reinspection. Almost everywhere I found the same state of affairs: Model bakeshops, others that were almost in good sanitary order, and filthy ones, unfit for the production of the staff of life, complete breeding places for disease. In all the latter places I ordered thorough cleaning and such alterations as to make the places fit, as far as possible, for the purpose for which they were intended. I am happy to state that in most instances my suggestions and orders were readily complied with, many of the bosses comprehending that the law was as beneficial to their interest as it was to the consumer of their products.

The only indirect opposition I encountered was in the large cities, with cosmopolitan population, where Italian and Jewish bakers abound. These people stick with pertinacity to their old and dirty habits, and it is very hard to convince them that a change is absolutely necessary. Even threats of prosecution did not seem to make an impression on them, but they generally promised to reform. On reinspection, however, it was plainly found that they had not lived up to their promises.

The city of Cleveland, for instance, has a little over 150 bakeries, and I must say that one-third of those do not come up to the standard required by law, although most of them show signs of improvement.

In my opinion the general public is to be blamed to a great extent for this state of affairs. Most people are induced by the cheapness of the goods (being from 15 to 25 per cent. cheaper than those of a respectable and honest baker) to patronize such individuals, little thinking that they are deceived in weight and in the quality of the articles they buy, most of that class of goods being sold by peddlers from wagons.

It is my firm belief that an agitation set on foot by the public press, enlightening the working and poorer classes of the country, those who are certainly the greatest consumers of the most needed article of food, on this most important subject, would greatly help our cause along.

In nearly all parts of the old world the weight and price of such commodities are regulated by the municipalities, and the consumer is thus protected. Price and weight being everywhere the same, it is to the interest of the boss to use good ingredients in order to satisfy his customers.

The unscrupulous bosses in this country, whose only aim seems to be their personal gain, could, with the aid of fully authorized and competent food inspectors, soon be brought to their sense of duty which they owe to the community.

Without exaggerating, it may be said that the law, in the short time which it has been in operation, has proved a success and has achieved gratifying results, when compared with the state of affairs existing prior to the time official inspection was begun. In making this statement I speak from actual personal experience, having worked as journeyman baker in different places in the State of Ohio for many years.

That the newly created Bakeshop Law, as originally passed in April, 1896, was defective, is shown by the striking out of part of section 1 in regard to limiting the time of work for employes to sixty hours per week, or ten hours per day, the claim being set up that such a law was unconstitutional, that it interfered with one's right to contract; furthermore, by striking out that part of section 5, where it says: "No domestic animals, except cats, shall be allowed to remain in a room used as a biscuit, bread, or cake factory, or for the storage of flour or meal food products." In my opinion a small, properly trained dog, a rat-catcher, would certainly be cleaner and answer the purpose as well, if not better, than cats. This last change was recommended by our department.

Charges made through the press by some jealous labor parties, that the Bakeshop Law in Ohio did not give the anticipated results, were shown to be utterly groundless, it being conclusively proved that the inspector had fulfilled his duties and done everything in his power, as far as he is legally authorized, to keep the existing bakeshops in a good sanitary condition. Some not well-informed people were of the opinion that it was also the inspector's duty to settle disputes between employe and employer.

I have already stated in my first report that the territory to be inspected and re-inspected is a very large one, my district extending east to west, covering an area of 225 square miles, and from north to south 100 square miles. To properly inspect and re-inspect so many places, and keep the habitual backsliders in proper trim, I would most urgently advocate the employment of a third inspector.

In conclusion I wish to say, that the results gained in the short time the Bakeshop Law has been in operation are gratifying, and there can be no doubt that in the course of a few years the public will fully understand that it is more economical to buy properly made bakeshop goods than to do their own laborious work of home baking.

THEODORE WAGNER,

NEW YORK BAKESHOPS.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen of the Convention:

It is, I assure you, with much reluctance that I assume the task of presenting a paper on the subject of bakeshop inspection, which in previous conventions has been dealt with in so thorough, able, and exhaustive a manner as is evidenced in the reports of this body, that but little can be said now on that question with any claim of novelty. However, meeting as we do, for the purpose of exchanging our views, and recounting our observations and experiences in order to advance the great work in which we are engaged, and feeling that the mission of bakeshop legislation is still in its elementary stage, I believe that it will not be considered out of place to rehearse in a brief manner the work of inspection as it relates to bakeshops in the Empire State, and by this means demonstrate in a feeble way its importance and usefulness, its future possibilities and the urgency for its greater expansion and effectiveness. Bakeshop inspection in New York State is an established, and, we trust, a lasting institution. The plea of justification for such legislation is no longer heard, and the employing bakers and landlords, and owners of bakeshop property, recognizing the force of public opinion, accept with good grace the inevitable, and in many instances they have become co-operators in the enforcement of the law by their willingness to obey its every mandate, where formerly they were bitter opponents to the bare mention of State interference. Those who contended that the product of the bakeshop was sufficiently sterilized by the baking process to escape all danger of contamination in a fetid atmosphere, such as permeated the old-time cellar bakeshop—the protestants against the ill-advised and dangerous intrusion of the authority of the State into the private affairs of the bakers—those who conjured up the bug-a-boo of State socialism and State paternalism, have all become silenced by the spirit of progress, and the old-time barbarism and bakeshop slavery has been relegated to the past by the State inspection and regulation of all places where breadstuffs are prepared. To-day, as the direct result of State supervision, we find the old-time custom of sleeping in a bakeroom, together with all the filth which went with the custom, to be a thing of the past. The foul closets, foul and filthy accumulations of all kinds, nasty, black walls, ceilings, etc., are now rarely to be met with. Young boys are no longer found employed at night—which fact has a tendency to check the growth of apprentices in the baking craft. In the hundreds of shops which I have inspected during the last year, I found only one boy under 18 years of age at work. Shops which in former years were little better than pest holes have been entirely renovated, or, closed up altogether. A system of periodical cleansing is insisted on by the Department so that the average bakeshop is now as sweet and healthy as the ordinary household kitchen. In the matter of drainage, plumbing, and ventilation, no evasion of the law is permitted; low shops have been increased in height to the legal requirement of eight feet or upward. When this requirement could not be complied with on account of natural obstructions—water, rock, etc., and all other conditions were satisfactory, means of continuous ventilation were provided to keep hot air, etc., removed, which would otherwise remain in the shop and constantly circulate about the heads of the workmen to their great injury. The cost of compliance with the requirements of the law has been no small item in many instances, very often running up into the hundreds of dollars; and, what is vastly more satisfactory, is the fact that the work of securing compliance has been accomplished without friction, resort to the courts or any other coercive means—a reasonable presentation of the case, frequent visits with a view to converting rather than forcing the interested parties to an obedience to the law, having been the principal methods employed.

The moral effect of the restricted work-day provisions of the law has been very great, resulting in a general reduction of the hours of labor of the journeymen bakers. Where the average number of hours per day or night were as high as fifteen and eighteen, we find a tendency on the part of the employers to abstain from the former custom of an inhumane and excessive demand upon the time of the journeymen. This is largely aided by the prohibition against allowing the bakeshop to be used for a boarding house and a workshop at the same time. But, the law in regard to an even work-day of ten hours is not yet an established fact; still, long strides have been made in this direction. That the ten-hour work-day in bakeshops is not a reality is not wholly due to the refusal of the bosses to make it so. It is hardly to be expected that the employer would take the initiative in this very important reform when in many instances the journeymen themselves connive at defeating the law by making false statements to the inspectors or flatly refusing to give any information on the matter of their working hours. This is perhaps their greatest difficulty with which the bakery inspector meets, and it seems impossible to overcome this very objectionable feature of the work and which is clearly attributable to a lack of a more efficient organization among the workers themselves. Another feature which aids in maintaining the long work-day is the task system which so largely prevails throughout the baking industry. This, too, can only be checked by a better understanding among the men, a more thorough organization of their craft and a greater appreciation of the civilizing value of shorter hours of labor. Enforced idleness in the trade is directly traceable to long hours; the law in this respect will prove wholly ineffective without the intelligent co-operation of the journeymen, and this co-operation can not be had while the tradesmen remain isolated from organization.

It is held by eminent authority that the evils of the bakeshop—lack of light, air, dryness, etc.—are almost inseparable from the cellar bakeshop. This is a fact which should not be permitted to pass unnoticed. Pure, dry air and light are indispensable elements of health and cleanliness; but the most diligent inspector can not guarantee them in a cellar habitation or workshop; this is self evident. The question which arises in this connection is—whether or not it is possible to change the present state of affairs in the baking business. Can a bakeshop on level ground offer a complete and satisfactory substitute for a cellar shop in the matter of even temperature? The friends of the cellar shop say NO! And, again, if the cellar shop is to go, how can the change be wrought without throwing the trade into serious convulsions, causing great and lasting injuries to many whose life-work is wrapped up in the little cellar bakeshop which affords them a fairly independent living?

The baking business is being gradually revolutionized. Old conditions are constantly giving way to new. Improved machinery is playing its important part in the baking business as well as in all other callings; but, as to the matter of even temperature—I believe that the baker must be able to meet and overcome a varying temperature by the proper use of his material, and, in this I am borne out by the experience of several bakers who, when finding it impossible to renovate their cellar shops in accordance with the law, built new shops on level ground and furnished them with the modern portable ovens which consume so little space that even in cities like New York they could be used to advantage, and thus afford a timely means to overcome some of the perplexing questions of supplanting the cellar bakeshop. Every one of these shops on level ground are operated satisfactorily and in many respects more profitably than the cellar shop, as the latter is known to have very ruinous effects on various kinds of baked material, especially if left in long storage. Another innovation which is directly traceable to bakeshop inspection is the substitution of day for night work. At first it was an experiment into which the bakers entered with reluctance, but it is now an established fact in many shops, and in all such places the return to night work would not be thought of. There can be no question but that the system of night work, so prevalent among bakers, conduces to the degeneracy of a great number of men employed at the trade, and thus indirectly contributes to the filthy conditions which were found to prevail in bakeshops and which are responsible for bakeshop legislation. The abolition of night work is a reform which the journeymen bakers of all countries have repeatedly sought to have established; the bakers of Sweden and Norway were successful in securing this reform and the bakers in Scotland partly succeeded in their efforts to abolish night-work; and, in many shops in cities in our own country, the system of day-work is in vogue, thus affording additional evidence of the possibility of entirely dispensing with the unnatural system of night-work. My own personal experience and observation in shops where only the day system of work prevails, shows excellent sanitary and other satisfactory results thereby obtained in favor of both the men and the employer and especially in the product turned out of these shops. All of which convinces me of the favorable possibilities of the adoption of day-work in the production of bread, etc., which seems to be opening an avenue of promise for the future progressive bakeshop worker such as may now be hardly conceived. I call attention to these matters merely to show the possibilities of bakeshop reform on the lines laid down by the law of bakeshop inspection; and I sincerely hope that concurrent with the growth, development and advancement of factory and workshop inspection, bakeshop sanitation will continue to grow in usefulness and importance in every State in the Union so that the products of the bakeries may be above even the danger of contamination, a health giver and invigorator, such as God willed. There is no greater problem confronting the people to-day than the one of inspecting and regulating the people's supply of food, clothing, etc., and especially is this true as it relates to congested centers of population, and I trust that in the performance of our duties we will not miss any opportunity to so impress those who have it in their power to supply the proper remedy in this direction, and to so shape and direct their acts, that all the people will receive that necessary benefit which is so essential for a progressive, enlightened and well-governed people, such as we claim to do.

DISCUSSION OF PAPERS.

Chief O'Leary, of New York, opened the discussion upon "Sweating," and commenced by saying that New York had been properly styled "The Hot-bed of Sweating," and in a very clear manner mentioned the evils that are constantly before them. Since he has become more acquainted with the life and practice of these people, his sympathy has "oozed away," and he now begins to understand that everything with them is simply dollars and cents, from those who commence with the purchase of the cloth to those who finish it. He says that these people are very clanish and that their treatment toward one another is so awful that one can not afford to waste much sympathy upon them. Their conditions at home are positively revolting. Mr. O'Leary said, that in making the inspection of their houses and shops they oftentimes found the old walls, ceilings and floors cleaner than the faces and persons of the sweaters.

He said that they were found to be principally Polanders, Italians and Jews.

The chief stated that the American had already been forced from the sewing-table, and that only a few were left at the cutting-tables.

Chief O'Leary spoke very discouragingly of the effect of the work of the charitable organizations, and thought that their influence was a detriment and had a tendency to destroy the independence of the people that they intended to help. He spoke very forcibly against clannish efforts and methods being employed by certain nationalities in New York, concluding with the assertion that their efforts were having a demoralizing effect upon the wage-earners of the country. Mr. O'Leary is an ardent advocate of greater restriction of emigration.

Upon motion of Chief Campbell, of Pennsylvania, the privilege of addressing the convention was extended to the Hon. George E. McNeal, of Boston, which gentleman was called to the president's chair and after a most complimentary introduction to the convention by President Wade, the honored gentleman spoke substantially as follows:

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

I have been somewhat embarrassed by the unusual introduction, but I am cheered and pleased to look into so many faces of those who perform much beneficial labors in the interest of those who toil. I will not take much of your time but want a moment to call your attention backward to the days of the first establishment of factory laws in this country.

He was engaged in all of the earlier struggles, and with others had met the reproach and ridicule of the Legislature and the press, while at that time, even the pulpit and public institutions were practically closed against them. At that time the initial steps were alone taken by the wage-workers and the trade unions of the land.

He spoke of the first inspection officer that was appointed in Massachusetts, and stated that his report of efforts and labor never saw print. He stated that the earlier laws were so framed that it was impossible to enforce them with any practical degree of success. Mr. McNeal stated that they continued the agitation until the laws were strengthened and two or three officers were appointed for a special duty under the old State police bill.

The veteran worker mentioned the appointment of Rufus R. Wade by Governor Talbot nearly twenty years ago, and while the labor interests were at first fearful of this early appointment, they had learned to respect and sustain the chief for many years, and all stood at his back ever ready to assist him. He referred to the great importance of the work of each individual inspector, and begged them to be true to their trust.

In reciting his early history, Mr. McNeal said:

Think of it, that within my own memory I was taken from my bed, when a small child, by my father and carried to the breakfast table so as to be able to go to work at the mill at 5 o'clock in the morning, and, with the exception of one-half an hour for dinner or luncheon, worked until 7 o'clock in the evening. I have seen belts running carelessly parallel to the limbs of women, men and children, unprotected in any manner, and no few times were they caught, injured or killed by accidents that naturally resulted.

He compared those times and experiences with the present and felt gratified for what had been achieved, and encouraged the departments to push their work vigorously and in the interest of those who toil. He was most loudly applauded.

At the request of Inspector Dyson, of Massachusetts, the Massachusetts delegation retired to the anteroom.

Chief O'Leary suggested that the discussion on papers in general should be participated in by deputies and inspectors, as well as chiefs, and he believed that they would.

At this juncture of the discussion, Chief Campbell, of Pennsylvania, stated that he believed the principal object of the organization was to bring about new laws and to suggest new legislation and such other things as would better the factory inspection work and practically benefit the toilers. He said that he did not think that it was fair for any of us, in papers or otherwise, to criticise our predecessors who could not be here to defend themselves, and he was desirous of having such matter eliminated from the papers that might have been read.

These remarks of Mr. Campbell's provoked a most lively discussion for a few minutes, during which Chief O'Leary stated that as far as he was concerned, regarding the complaint, he had no apologies to make for anything said or done by himself or deputies. He stated that it was a notorious fact that the laws were not enforced in his State by previous administrations and he would refuse to allow any of his deputies to retract anything that had been already read in their papers.

Assistant Chief Harris, of Illinois, explained that what he had set forth in his paper had been done simply for comparison and not as a criticism on their predecessors, but if there was anything particularly objectionable to Mr. Campbell or others of the convention in what he had read, he would gladly have the same stricken out. Mr. Campbell, of Pennsylvania, paid a very neat compliment to the labors of Mr. O'Leary and his force and said that all of us knew they had done excellent work; but in concluding his remarks he said that without desiring to be personal he thought we all could show what we had done without particularly reflecting on others.

Mrs. Ella Nagle spoke briefly in defense of the New York work and their papers, and stated that as she had been an employe in both departments, that of Mr. O'Leary and his predecessor, she unhesitatingly commended the work of the latter and wanted the convention to know it.

Discussion was further postponed until to-morrow, and upon motion of Mr. Campbell, the Hon. Mr. McNeal was invited to go with the excursionists as a special delegate of the convention, which then adjourned until Thursday morning at 9 o'clock.

BOSTON HERALD'S REPORT.

The following is clipped from Thursday morning's edition of the Boston Herald:

DELEGATES VISITED LOWELL.*TEXTILE SCHOOL INTERESTED THE FACTORY INSPECTORS.

Yesterday's session of the convention was held in the State House. The "sweating" system discussed and the tenement-house workshops considered.

The members of the International Association of Factory Inspectors rounded out their third day's session by a trip to Lowell yesterday afternoon, and an instructive visit to some of the manufacturing institutions of that place, particularly to the famous Textile school.

They were met by Mr. A. G. Cumnock, treasurer of the Appleton mills, who is one of the trustees of the Textile school, and Mr. William W. Crosby, the principal, and after lunch, provided by the school trustees, at the Merrimac House, the delegates were given a reception by Mayor Bennett, at City Hall.

They next visited the Textile school, which is a unique establishment, and greatly interested the visitors. It educates mill workers in every branch of the cotton, woolen and carpet trade, whether the students desire to learn simply one branch or to perfect themselves in all departments.

The Merrimac mills and some other manufacturing institutions were also visited, and during the shower an impromptu concert was given at the Merrimac House under the direction of one of the visitors, Miss Ruby Yost, of Dunmore, Pennsylvania.

Before leaving Lowell the delegates tendered a vote of thanks to the mayor and to Mr. Cumnock for the courtesies extended, and then took the 4:25 o'clock train for Boston in special cars provided through the courtesy of the Boston and Maine railroad.

The morning session of the convention was held at the State House, and it was devoted almost entirely to a discussion of the "sweating" system. The sweatshops are entirely eradicated in Massachusetts, although the tenement-house workshops need continual attention. It was suggested, however, that in New York a restriction of immigration was a prerequisite to a proper control of this evil. It was also suggested that a national law on the subject would be desirable.

The convention meets at the State House at 9 o'clock this morning, and this afternoon the visitors are invited to a fish dinner at Nantasket.

THURSDAY MORNING'S SESSION.

Convention was called to order at 9.30, President Wade in the chair, and all officers present.

Upon motion of Mr. Armstrong, of Ohio, the convention suspended the further discussion of papers until all the papers in the hands of the secretary be read.

Inspector James Howes read a paper entitled:

PRACTICAL ELEVATOR TESTS.

How many of all the manufacturers of elevators who are putting elevators into our manufacturing and mercantile establishments for freight and passenger service know, after having set them up and tested them, that they are safe?

How many will be found to be satisfactory to the owners after a thorough inspection by the State inspector?

Experience has taught the inspector that the tests given to the elevators by their builders are not always safe or reliable. Some time ago I tested a horizontal hydraulic passenger elevator running up through six stories, and used for mercantile purposes, with a man in charge. The owner objected to an inspection, as the elevator was new, and had but just been put in and tested and pronounced safe by the builders.

Upon testing the elevator, however, I found it to be without a safety device, and therefore placarded it according to law of Massachusetts. The owner notified the manufacturers of the fact, who replied that the inspector did not understand his business and did not know what a safety device was. The makers, upon reinspecting the elevator, found they had forgotten to apply the safety device to the cab of the elevator.

In the majority of elevators used for freight service they are belted with cables running over sheaves to drums. If drums are placed in the basement, then the safety device should have frequent inspections, as the springs or any other device should be strong enough to catch into the track or rack at sides of the elevator, and at the same time to take up all the slack cable from the drums in the basement up over sheaves at top and down to the cabs of the elevator where the device is attached.

It now becomes the work of the inspector to make a practical test. In some cases the test is made by lowering the elevator on to an upright block of wood and quickly removing the same so that the safety device will work at that point. This, however, we do not consider a practical test.

A practical test, in my opinion, is to have the elevator blocked above the top floor, or as near there as possible, then lower the elevator upon the blocking and go to the floor above the drum and unwind the cable from the drum until there is a slack of about three feet and stop the drum. The slack will be sufficient to bolt two steel clamps about three feet apart then by attaching a device to these two clamps draw them together and form a loop. Then wind the cable back on the drum with the clamps and device, raising the elevator about twelve to fifteen inches above the blocking, and let the device do its work as in the act of the cable being broken at the drum.

This device for testing can only be used on cable elevators. On plunger hydraulic elevators one is at a loss to know where to begin a thorough inspection. The makers tell us there is perfect safety with a plunger elevator.

Notwithstanding this assertion, however, it is well known that there has been loss of life with the plunger hydraulic elevators. The danger is due, in my opinion, to the discharge pipe from the three-way valve. If the elevator in descending should strike an obstruction with the valves open, as they would be in the descent, the water would run through the discharge pipe into the sewer.

With proper piping of the three-way valve, either in the horizontal or perpendicular hydraulic elevator, having the discharge pipe rise above the three-way valve and supplied at top with check valve to prevent syphoning or permit entrance of air to valve, it will be found to be as near perfect as an elevator can be made for safety.

An instance is given in the accident which occurred on September 10th of last year, 1897, in the American Tract Society building, New York, in which the safety device on a hydraulic horizontal elevator did not work. In my opinion this accident was caused by the safety device or clamp being gummed up with oil and dirt, which prevented it from working. While the elevator was descending, the water had run out of the discharge pipe, which was lower than the cylinder in which was the supply or three-way valve.

I often find that those in charge of the elevators have not been properly instructed in regard to them, therefore do not fully appreciate the importance of having some safety device and keeping it in good working order.

These conditions can only be ascertained by making practical tests such as I have described, and work of inspection of elevators should be as carefully and thoroughly performed as any part of the Inspector's duties.

APPLICATION OF SAFEGUARDS.

By Inspector Baker, of Massachusetts.

The responsibility of an Inspector in the examination of machinery relative to the application of safeguards is greater, I apprehend, than is generally considered. Danger is more or less imminent about all working machinery, and the Inspector is the one to examine and decide upon the necessity for its being guarded as a means of saving life or limb. The working parts, the location of the machine with reference to its proximity to other employees, or to some passage way where others are obliged to pass, and the position of the operative, all have to be considered by the Inspector, who may finally issue an order to have safeguards applied. When this order has been complied with, who has been guarded? Our effort is to save the employees from losing their lives, or becoming mutilated, or crippled for life; and in this we have been successful, provided the safeguard is a proper and competent one, and at the same time we have placed a moral and financial safeguard to the credit of the employer. Do you know a manufacturer who does not consider that the compliance with your orders are likely to benefit him financially? A compliance with the only safety law in the State would likely save him from damage in case of accident. But suppose you inspect and pass machinery without requiring the proper safeguards applied, upon whom then would the responsibility rest? Carelessness could hardly be charged against the manufacturer or superintendent when the inspector, who is looked upon as an expert in such examination, has passed the machinery as safe. Therefore I said at the commencement of this paper, that "the responsibility of an inspector is greater than is usually considered."

The law governing the betterment of conditions is our guide and authority, but is somewhat vague and unresponsive when you turn to this section or that in an effort to find out how a set-screw may be covered, or a belt or gear boxed or guarded, or a hundred other things that the law says may, or shall be guarded, but not how, or what to apply. It is presumed that the inspector has good common mechanical sense, of course, but it is not an unfrequent thing to find some new or special machinery that seems to require a safeguard, and when you begin to point out what you consider the danger points to the superintendent or foreman, he will likely say, "All right; how do you want it fixed?" You know how you would like to have it guarded. You want it done in a practical manner, and so much so that at some future visit you would not want that guard removed and another substituted. You will not have trouble in getting the safeguard on now, but if at some later period you try and reverse your decision, and condemn your own former suggestions, you will find your mechanical reputation very materially lessened, and you will meet with opposition to your further suggestions. If you pass the machinery as safe and an accident does occur, the accident report will likely be embellished with a marginal note saying, "This machine was passed by the inspector at his last visit as safe."

Only one section of the factory law of Pennsylvania provides exactly what shall be, and that is section 5, in reference to freight elevators. This is a full automatic device (either doors or gates), and I believe is the only device that should ever be permitted upon freight elevators. In my opinion, a self-closing or half-automatic gate is sometimes more dangerous than no safeguard at all, as the tendency to fasten up any gate that has to be raised by hand destroys their efficiency. Any elevator gate, or other device that has to be raised by hand, receives rough treatment at the hands of employes, because it is a source of constant annoyance to them, and in opening a gate it is likely to be raised from one end, causing it to wedge between the ports, and soon you find this gate up and fastened up with a nail under it.

I have never seen an elevator where the wall was guarded by half automatic gates, where the gates were always closed when the elevator was away. There certainly is no temptation to prop up a gate or door that is full automatic for it is never in the way. A loose or unstable rail at a dangerous fly wheel may increase the danger, as its very presence invites carelessness, and the employe leans against it with fatal results. The guarding of heavy lateral belts with boards, I believe, increases the danger, as they surely have not the strength to resist the break and whip of a large belt, and they only fill the air with missiles that would be as dangerous as the end of the belt. Strong, hard wood plank, well-braced, might protect employes under a large belt, in the event of a break. Home-made safeguards can be applied to many pieces of machinery, and if you can show a manufacturer how to make and apply a safeguard himself, he is interested, because he saves money and trouble and can show his friends and employes what an ingenious man he is, and the inspector gets what he wants.

Many employes think that when a guard is ordered placed upon a machine they are operating, that it is a reflection upon their competency, and the guard is likely to be removed as frequently as possible; but give them to understand that in case of accident they would be responsible, and they soon stop that practice. Female employes, especially in laundries, are, in my district, the worst in this respect; and I recently suggested the discharge of one girl who had removed the guard in front of an old-style mangle. Her discharge probably saved her from serious injury as I consider no machine operated by females more dangerous than the old-style mangle. The manufacturer is glad to see you, and anxious to have you inspect his plant, and why? Because, as he will say, "he wants to be safe and not get into any trouble." Which means that he wants to transfer the responsibility from himself to the inspector and the Factory Department. He has a right to look at the question this way, because he considers the representative of the Factory Department in the light of an expert in the examination of machinery. The responsibility of accident must rest upon some one, and if the manufacturer is not relieved of it, after a compliance with all orders from the Factory Department, he does not get the protection he expects, and has a right to expect, under this safety law. I have changed my manner of examination of machinery, and where I used to look for probable accidents, I now look for possible ones. An accident report many times contains the statement that "the man was careless," and was around a machine "where he had no business to be," which is likely true; but if gear, belts, etc., are guarded around this machine, it is quite possible that the man would not have been hurt. I do not mean to be understood that the measure of safety may be made absolute; for, of course, many machines can not be made perfectly safe and be operated at all. But we are the only authority in the State to examine and decide upon what may be done to reduce the danger question to the minimum, and if we are willing to accept the responsibility after the application of our own safeguards, we will lessen the number of accidents materially. Careful and comprehensive work seems to me to be the only safeguard of the Deputy Inspector and the Department he represents.

By Chief Inspector Daniel O'Leary, New York Department.

EXTENSION OF FACTORY INSPECTION LAWS.

Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen:

Gatherings such as the one here convened are important, useful, and, in a certain sense, necessary. They are important and useful because of their public educational effects. They are necessary in that they afford an opportunity for the exchange of thoughts, views, and opinions between the representatives of the bodies by whose consent they are assembled, which, in itself, is very useful and material; for they are instructors teaching new ideas on the subjects, no matter what they may be, which are responsible for the formation of the separate bodies therein represented. Hence, the subject of factory inspection is responsible for the creation of the separate State or territorial factory departments, and we are convened here for the purpose of conferring together as the representatives of such departments, comparing facts as we find them in comparison with the laws in vogue, discussing and reviewing the past and all the experience it has revealed to us in connection with our work, advancing and advising new departures in the manner and methods in which we should pursue our labor as inspectors in the future. I feel that our International Convention is a source of much good to every department of factory inspection at present organized. I feel that it can be made the source of greater good, if we are wise and judicious in employing the opportunities to educate the public mind in the necessity and beneficence of factory inspection, which are presented to us at each of these annual gatherings. It is not necessary for me to elucidate to you the importance of factory inspection. It is not necessary for me to repeat before you the great benefits reaped by both the man who toils, and the woman who toils, as well as to the man who employs these toilers. It is not necessary for me to point out what factory inspection has done and is doing to educate the coming citizens of our great nation. As inspectors, with the experience of your every day's labor before you, telling you what to do, and, from the past, knowing so well what you have done, and how well you have performed the tasks assigned to you by law—you do not need to listen to any such recital from me. We experience a feeling of pleasure in any advancement reported or any greater advantages gained by any department. It is our wish to see factory inspection grow and broaden in the localities or country where it has already taken root. We wish to see it expand, going into localities and countries where it is still a stranger—but to see the fulfilment of these wishes, we all know and understand full well that education and public enlightenment on the subject must precede any action of the law-making power. We well know that the blindness which human selfishness creates will be potent in combating every attempt at advancement; therefore, I feel that we should do all possible to create departments in the States or other localities which as yet have not taken any steps looking to the organization of a factory inspection department. I call your attention to this subject, for the evidence is not wanting at the present time to prove that the suggestion is a timely one. I feel that if there was ever a time when the existing departments should exercise great care and good sound judgment in prosecuting the tasks laid out for them by law, that time is now open and before them. Again, a spirit of fair play should prompt us to do all in our power to equalize manufacturing conditions throughout the country, so far as restrictive laws are concerned, to the end that our respective States should suffer no set-back in its industrial operations or pursuits. While many persons may look upon the laws of factory inspection from a purely sentimental or philanthropic standpoint, we, who are called upon to treat the subject in a practical way, must view them in the light of the stern facts created for us by the legal requirements laid down for our guidance, and from our position and experience we know that there is no sentiment, but facts, hard and real, in forcing an employer to restrict the working hours of employes to a given number per day or per week; we know that there can be no sentiment in forcing an employer not to employ, or to discharge from employment, children below a certain age, or to provide those necessary accommodations required for the comfort, health and convenience of the persons brought into their employ; to erect guards and safety appliances about machinery; to build fire-escapes; to provide good ventilation; to stop overcrowding in workrooms, and to bring about the hundred and one other necessary, healthful and humane requirements which the law demands and says shall be done, in order that every citizen who is obliged to sell his skill, strength and other requirements of which he may be possessed to another, may not, on account of his dependent and unequal position, be imposed upon by the stronger on account of that fact.

It is a reproach to our boasted civilization that such laws are necessary at all, but while human greed or other cause operates as an incentive to one man to do an act of injustice to, or to retreat with unfairness, another man who may be dependent on him for employment, such acts will appeal to human sympathy for relief, and such laws will be enacted and enforced as they should be against those who, by their conduct and treatment of their fellows, are responsible for their enactment. There are none here but who have heard the rumblings which issued from the manufacturers' association which met last year in New York city. There is not an inspector here but who knows and understands the feeling which pervades these complaints. There are perhaps few here who have not, while prosecuting their labors, listened to the complaints of manufacturers, made in a quiet way, against the inequalities which these laws forced them into in seeking a market for their products; there is not a person here but who understands that these quiet complaints, to which they have listened, clearly denote that the mind of the manufacturer and employer, through the medium of association, is being centered on the subject of the repeal, or, at least, the modification of the present restrictive laws relating to factory inspection. As a result of only one meeting of the association the first open assault was made on the factory inspection laws in this State, and I believe in this building. Because of the failure of this first attempt is no reason to expect that the idea which prompted the act will be abandoned. These laws were created by public sentiment; they are sustained by the same force; this is a fact of which we, as inspectors, should not lose sight. Whether or not the attempt to repeal or modify the laws is abandoned, should make no difference to us; we should see to it that no act of ours should be a contributory cause to such an end. If we view the situation from a business and unbiased standpoint, as we should view it, we will be forced to admit that there is much force in the arguments advanced by the manufacturers doing business in the Eastern States. But, you will ask, What can we, as an association, do to aid in changing these conditions one way or the other?

I answer, Much, very much!

If my advice would be followed in shaping the future work of the association, and the designation of the future places where its sessions would be held, I would say to you never to hold another convention in any State where a department is in existence, but to hold the annual meetings in prominent cities situated in those States where no such department has been organized, and in which there are any number of industries which form a competing factor that is felt in the markets where their products are set down beside those from States wherein such department exist and the laws are enforced. I would say to you to come to these annual sessions of the association fortified and prepared to show to the people the necessity of, and benefits to be derived from, the enactment of such laws. I would say to you to come with facts, figures and statistics, which are in abundance, to prove your case to the satisfaction of the reading, thinking and intelligent public of those States; I would say to you re-enforce the work of the convention by such conduct in handling the laws already in operation so as to make the manufacturers and employers in your own State feel that they are not the real criminals which some would paint them. I would say to you, to direct the law against the abuses which are responsible for such legislation; not to be technical, but broad, fair and strictly impartial in applying its provisions; give to the small and struggling employer the same consideration which you would accord to the strong and influential manufacturer. I would say to you to be firm in the discharge of your duties, yet courteous and painstaking; show the employer, by intelligent reasoning, why you make certain demands on him; show him where 'it is to his advantage to comply with your demands. But—to the man who sets the law at defiance—show him no more consideration than he is willing to show for the provisions of the law which you are directed and empowered to enforce; and it should make no difference whether such man be poor and ignorant, or whether he is rich and ignorant of the law, the duty of forcing him properly to respect its provisions should not be unnecessarily delayed.

This would be my answer to your question, and I submit, Mr. President, that if this advice were followed, it would terminate in but one result—success for the departments and satisfaction for those interests which are affected by the laws of factory inspection.

BOILER INSPECTION AND EXAMINATION OF ENGINES.

By Thomas Hawley, State Inspector of Massachusetts.

The Massachusetts statutes for the inspection of boilers and the examination of engineers and firemen operating them have now been in force for three years, a sufficient time in which to show whether they will prove a benefit or not. Previous to their enactment in 1895 there had been a State inspection for two years, but the law under which the inspections were conducted gave the inspector no power to enforce his recommendations, nor even to inspect boilers if the owners thereof objected to such inspection. The writer was detailed for that work, and it is interesting to note that it was a rare thing to be refused an opportunity to inspect, and very seldom were the orders of changes, that were deemed necessary, refused to be complied with by the owners of the boilers. During this period a large number of boilers were found to be sadly in need of some intelligent oversight, the majority having never been inspected. When repairs were deemed necessary or the boilers deemed unfit for use and so reported to the owners, in many cases satisfaction was expressed that the boilers had been inspected, and in other cases the owners feared to operate them after their condition had been disclosed in writing. The net result was satisfactory, for no difficulty was noted in procuring safe boilers where previously there had been dangerous ones. Such work, however, was not satisfactory because it could not be systematic, and with the provision for additional inspectors, a working law was enacted, making it compulsory to inspect such boilers as were not the subject of regular inspections. This was in 1895.

There are now engaged in this work in the State of Massachusetts ten inspectors, four additional inspectors having been authorized by the last Legislature. To do work efficiently the State is divided into districts, and each inspector is assigned to a certain district, for the inspection of the boilers, of which district he is held accountable. He lays out his work in his own way to the accomplishment of the most work, making a weekly report to the chief of the number and location of all boilers inspected, the character of the inspection, whether internal or external, and a tabulated statement of the defects found in the boilers, how many of them were dangerous and how many not dangerous, also reporting upon any that were deemed unfit for further use. Thus every week a record of the work done in each district reaches the chief and the tabulation of defects found in the boilers inspected becomes an easy matter. In addition to this, the inspector sends to the chief for filing at the central office a report of each boiler inspected and a copy of the order issued to repair the boilers deemed necessary to be repaired. Thus at the end of each week there is on file a tabulated statement of all defects found in every boiler inspected and a copy of all orders that have been issued concerning them. These reports and orders are bound at the end of the year and indexed, and, forming a permanent record of the work done by this department and a record of every boiler, are accessible to the public at any time. The department has no authority over boilers regularly inspected by boiler inspection companies nor over locomotive nor agricultural boilers. The record, therefore, is only of the remaining boilers.

The importance of legislation of this kind is a matter that has been gone into before in papers, read before this association by Chief Wade and myself, and the reasons for the enactment of boiler inspection laws are still as true to-day as they were then, and it is not necessary at this time to repeat them. 'Three years' trial of this law has shown it to be a wise enactment, and the discovery of many defects in boilers show its need, not only as relates to the first inspection, but in keeping track of, and preventing, the development into dangerous defects of the incipient defects that might quickly become disastrous under proper conditions. The work that has previously been referred to in papers to this association has been in mercantile establishments and factories. There is another class of boiler that has received considerable attention from the department, namely, those in schoolhouses and public buildings. While a very large number of firms and manufacturers have sadly neglected their boilers and allowed them to go without inspection, those who control the steam plants of large heating plants seem to have been more guilty in this respect. Very few school boilers have been found upon which it was not necessary to order extensive changes to make them safe to be run. In some cities many of the boilers have been punctured with a blow from the light hammer each inspector uses. It has been the policy of the department to have the changes made and the boilers replaced or made safe without letting the facts be publicly known because of the possible alarming of parents, and very many boilers have thus been repaired without the pupils or parents knowing or suspecting that they had been near a dangerous boiler. The reason for this neglect seems difficult to understand. It may arise from the fact that in very many places the condition of the boilers is cared for by the public buildings department or committee of the city or town and the boilers operated and under the care during the year of janitors appointed by the school committee. Each tries to put as much of the work as possible upon the other, or at least such would seem to be the case. I have found boilers in schools full of mud and deposits up to the hand-holes, barrel staves, and bricks, tubes nearly filled with soot, and back connections filled clear to the boiler with soot and ashes, hand-hole plates in the boiler rusted solid so they had to be broken off, showing the boilers had neither been opened for inspection nor cleaned for years. The janitors claim it is the work of the building department, and that department claims that if they give the school committee a good boiler and that committee provides the man to run it, that man should see it was run properly, and properly cared for and cleaned. Between the two, however, the boiler is not long in getting into dangerous shape; and it has been necessary to condemn school boilers entirely in some cases only after a few years' use. I have further found this condition to continue even after the inspector's first inspection, when the boiler comes to be again inspected, and it is the rule almost rather than the exception, to find school-house boilers in a dirty, uncared-for condition, that shortens their lives, develops many defects, and in a filthy condition unfit for a proper inspection. The matter in fact, it seems to me, has been complicated in one way, by the inspector making a third person upon whom the others rely, and they will now get only such attention as the inspector can give in his annual visit. It appears that there is claimed to be objections to having the boilers operated by persons not in the employ of the building department, it being claimed that all employees in schools should be controlled by the school committee. Of the merits of that contention I know nothing, but it does seem as though the two together could arrange that the boiler should have proper care and attention, or such an important and dangerous part of the school equipment as the boiler is should be under the responsibility of the school committee. Prior to the enactment of this law, boilers have exploded in schools in this State with disastrous results and in spite of the poor care they usually obtain, the regular inspection now made does provide material safeguard.

In other instances, too, heating boilers are found much neglected. The claim is made that they are run at such low pressure that they can not explode. Yet I have pieces and section of these boilers in my possession that have exploded and very recently, and with disastrous results. Many of these sectional boilers are of cast iron, and are bad in design, cheap in material, and improperly set up and inadequately fitted with safety appliances. They have been found with devices that bore the name of "safety-valve," but were safety-valves in name only. This most important fitting on a boiler is very frequently found altogether inadequate in size and in unfit condition. I have within a month taken safety-valves from school boilers which were stuck so solid they could not be moved with a hammer, and had become so by neglect since the previous inspection. While the inspector is very careful in the inspection of the safety-valve, and always requires one in good condition and of ample size, deeming it the most important fitting, yet it is curious to note that the Massachusetts laws have never required one to be placed upon a boiler. There is a statute requiring a safety-plug to give warning in case of low water, but the time has long gone by when low water was deemed to cause a boiler explosion. The writer has investigated all the explosions in this vicinity within the last ten years, and has yet to find a single case where the boiler was exploded from lack of water or from putting water into a hot boiler. Nor have I ever heard of but one authentic case where it has been done, and that was an experiment for that purpose and then only after the boiler had been weakened by very many attempts to explode it, by pumping cold water into it when red hot, all of which had been failures. Very many have tried to do this experimentally, but the records have invariably shown failure. The reason why this popular theory of the cause of explosions is not true can hardly be discussed here, but the only enactment in Massachusetts concerning fittings on boilers is for the purpose of preventing low water. The present boiler law, while not defining the fittings necessary, gives the inspector the power to order such fittings as he deems necessary to safety. A much better way perhaps would be to have the statute specifically determine the size of safety-valve for the boiler and pressure. This is done in the Philadelphia boiler inspection ordinance, which prescribes the size of safety valve for each boiler, and varying its size (as it should do), according to pressure carried. This most excellent ordinance provides for larger safety-valves as the pressure becomes lighter, which is as it should be, whereas in most practice in my inspections in Massachusetts (and it is the experience of the other inspectors as well), the safety-valves have been smaller for the low pressure, and invariably have to be increased in size. The Philadelphia law also prescribes in detail the method of inspection, the sizes of pipes, connections, position of water column, the determination of the proper pressure to carry, and other matters, making it easier for the inspector and a uniformity among all their inspectors as to the work. The Massachusetts law seeks to accomplish this end by giving the inspector the power to determine these matters for himself.

It is pleasing to note that it has been necessary to make but one prosecution of the thousands of boilers inspected and orders changed, and in this case the law was upheld. In cases where the owners have objected to changes as an unnecessary expense, each inspector has shown by a personal interview the importance of the orders and the dangers that might result from not complying, when usually a cheerful compliance has been obtained.

The law for the licensing of engineers and firemen has presented many perplexing problems, and while it has accomplished a great amount of good to the public and to those who operate boilers, yet the problem can not yet be said to be satisfactorily settled. The difficulty seems to come in properly examining men to determine their qualifications. Men differ in their ability to display their qualifications in an examination, and often the most diffident are the coolest in an emergency, and the most practical have difficulty in explaining what they know about their business; while on the other hand, we have found many who could tell a great deal more than they could actually accomplish. This matter we have attempted to solve by providing the actual apparatus for examination. A steam plant complete in all its details is set up in the examination room with the various types of engines, pumps, etc. The applicant is asked practically to explain with the actual apparatus, and is set to work overhauling the engines and pumps and boiler fittings, and putting them in condition for operation. Yet even this method, which so far has been the most satisfactory in results, is not entirely satisfactory. The Massachusetts law provides for grading engineers according to their competency. How to draw the line between the different grades is a perplexing problem. To determine how to grade properly and fairly to the applicant and yet see that a person is not given a license and what amounts to a recommendation of competency backed up by the seal of the State, unless he is actually worthy of it. If he is competent for a higher license than he has been able to show, then the license acts unfairly to him, and to his material disadvantage, and is not right, whereas if he gets a grade of license he is not competent for, then it is unfair to the person who employs him, trusting to the license as evidence of competency. I am hopeful that with the practical apparatus we now have provided, that this matter will settle itself. While not reaching, therefore, any definite conclusion upon this matter, which is one into which human nature with all its frailties and peculiarities enters, it would seem that the New York law, which limits a license to a particular plant, for which the applicant is examined after he is engaged, that such a method would be easier for inspector and generally fairer, the only objection being that competent men would feel it a hardship to have to get a license every time they change; but such men would soon become known to the examiners and as a matter of fact such men seldom change about. While there must always be some discontent among disappointed applicants for a license, the law as a whole has operated satisfactory to those whom it affects, and it certainly has resulted in obtaining more competent men in charge of steam plants. As showing the extent of this branch of the department's work, it may be interesting to note that during the past three years the inspectors have examined over 30,000 engineers and firemen in this State, at the same time inspecting many thousand boilers.

LETTER FROM R. BARBER.

TORONTO, Sept. 4, 1898.

My Dear Mr. Wade—I expected to be on the road to Boston at this time, but the continued extreme heat has quite upset me, and I do not feel well enough to leave home. If I am better to-morrow, I will start at night—better late than never. If I don't get there, my thoughts will be with you; for I did look forward to having a nice time at Boston. I hope you will have a successful meeting and a pleasant time; and if I do not get to the convention, please give my regards to the delegates assembled.

I remain, yours truly,

R. BARBER.

The secretary read the kindly invitation of Mayor Hastings of the city of Niagara Falls, N. Y., inviting the association to hold its next annual convention at that place. Similar invitations from Cincinnati and elsewhere were also read, and properly referred.

STREET RAILWAY ASSOCIATION'S INVITATION.

Through Inspector F. M. Campfield, of Ohio, the following invitation was received, read, and accepted by the convention:—

Boston, Sept. 8, 1898.

To the International Association of Factory Inspectors in session at the House of Representatives:

Gentlemen—The American Street Railway Association extends to you a cordial invitation to visit them at the Paul Revere Hall, and to inspect the display of machinery, all of which is found in Mechanics' building.

Your badges will be recognized at the entrance.

Respectfully yours,

THE AMERICAN STREET RAILWAY ASSOC.,

ALBION E. LANG, Pres.

A GENERAL DISCUSSION.

Mr. Rienhardt, of Michigan, described the Grand Rapids method of protecting set-screws, and asked that this simple guard be investigated by the departments of other States.

Following this a very lively discussion was entered into by various members of the Massachusetts and New York delegations upon the "sweating system" and laws regulating the same. The talk became very lively and interesting upon this topic.

Mr. Griffin, of Massachusetts, devoted considerable time in discussing the license system, and spoke of the success of the department there in Massachusetts, which led to a lively controversy with the New York delegation, which was participated in by Mrs. Ellen Nagle, W. J. Neeley, and M. J. Flanagan, in which methods and abuses in New York were given in an emphatic manner, and won many friends for the tagging system.

Mr. Harris, of Illinois, spoke briefly upon a new bill to be introduced in his State in the hopes of regulating "sweating."

A revival of the discussion on "sweating" was again encouraged through lively remarks pro and con by Chiefs Campbell, of Pennsylvania, and O'Leary, of New York, in which Mrs. M. R. Almy, of New York, went into details and spoke of the evils of tenement-house work.

Mr. Plunkett, of Massachusetts, favored laws and restrictions that would lead to the manufacturing of garments under healthful conditions.

Mr. Hughes, of Pennsylvania, believed in confiscation of goods that did not meet the requirements of the law.

Mr. Baker, of Pennsylvania, also favored rigid legislation in this matter.

The secretary here announced the arrival of Mrs. Helen Jenks, of Rhode Island.

Chief O'Leary then called a meeting of committee on resolutions, after which the convention adjourned, and the delegates participated in a grand excursion to Nantucket.

The closing day's session was called to order promptly at 9:10, President Wade in the chair and all officers present.

Mr. Mullen, of Massachusetts, paid a very high compliment to Inspector Putman upon his paper describing means and devices for guarding shoe machinery.

Mr. McAbee, of Indiana, asked for an exchange of reports of all States.

Mr. Baker, of Pennsylvania, spoke wisely on the dissimilarity of our inspection laws throughout the country and their manner of investigation, and argued in favor of a better understanding and more uniformity of laws and actions.

A further discussion of factory inspection, guarding machinery, etc., was entered into by Messrs. Putman and Buxton, of Massachusetts, which proved very interesting and instructive, especially with relation to means and manner of getting rid of dust in quartz mills and stone quarries.

VARIOUS RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED.

The following resolutions were then read to the convention and were adopted as presented:

EXTENDING LAWS.

Boston, Sept. 8, 1898.

Recognizing the fact that factory legislation has been a benefit to the wageworker and manufacturer in the various States and Provinces where such laws have been enacted, and believing that such laws, if passed by the various legislatures of the different States and Provinces not having same at present, would be a benefit not only to the employees but the employer as well; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the incoming president, vice-presidents and secretary be instructed to use all honorable means to have such laws prepared, placed before and passed by the various legislatures of the different States and Provinces not so represented, so that the beneficial laws under which the members of this association work may be extended over our entire country.

Uniformity of law in the various States and Provinces as to the age limits of children, number of hours of labor, etc., being acknowledged by most of the delegates to be the most beneficial both to the employe and employer; be it able means to have such a state of affairs become law in the various States and Provinces, to the end that all workers and manufacturers be put on a more equitable basis, thus avoiding the present disadvantages under which they work.

IMMIGRATION LAWS.

By Chief James Campbell, of Pennsylvania.

WHEREAS, The factory inspectors of the various States have learned from the results of their labors that the inefficiency of our immigration laws are responsible for the surprising increase of a very undesirable class of people in our factories and workshops, forming a menace to the health of our citizens, the rights of our laboring men and women, and the welfare of society at large; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the International Association of Factory Inspectors, in convention assembled, request that the chiefs of the department of factory inspection of the various States, recommend in their next annual report to the Governor of their respective States, that he call the attention of the legislative bodies to this existing evil, asking them to pass such resolutions as they may deem proper, calling upon Congress to enact such laws as will control and restrict the immigration of this class of people landing upon our shores.

Approved by committee.

JAMES A. ARMSTRONG,
WARREN S. BUXTON,
Committee on Resolutions.

MISCELLANEOUS DISCUSSIONS.

Chief O'Leary, of New York, upon request, discussed portions of his interesting paper that was read the day before, and in a few well-chosen and convincing remarks argued in behalf of holding future conventions in such States that have no organizations, in the hopes of encouraging such States to establish departments of inspection, and take up the good work that is being so successfully carried on in most of the principal States of the Union.

Mr. Campbell, of Pennsylvania, agreed in general with the remarks of Mr. O'Leary, and thought under all the extenuating circumstances it would be best for the organization to hold its next annual convention at the city of Quebec, where we partially promised we would go.

Mr. Dyson, of Massachusetts, briefly described the earnest and interesting first meeting of the association at Philadelphia, where seven of them had banded together for the purpose of making the work more uniform and spreading its influence throughout the country.

Mr. John R. Emsley, of Pennsylvania, suggested the propriety of meeting in various new States at the time their Legislature was in session.

Mr. Mitchell, of Toronto, thanked the convention and association for its kindly inclination to convene its next annual session in Canada, and in further remarks expressed his friendliness with the idea of holding future conventions thereafter in various States that had not yet established State inspection.

Mr. Bath, of Ohio, moved that the suggestion of Chief O'Leary be referred to the incoming officers, which was seconded by Mr. Emsley, of Pennsylvania, and upon motion was carried.

Mr. O'Leary moved that the delegates of the Provinces of Quebec and Ontario name the place and time for holding the next convention, which was carried.

After a conference of the members from the Provinces, it was agreed that they should hereafter settle the place of holding the convention between the cities of Quebec and Montreal, and their determination to be announced through the official source and made public in due time.

On motion of Inspector Bath, of Ohio, the further discussion of all topics was dispensed with, and the convention proceeded to the ## ANNUAL ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

Mr. Dyson, of Massachusetts, moved that the convention take an informal ballot for president for the coming year, and that the two receiving the highest number of votes in the informal ballot should be declared the candidates to be thereafter balloted for. This motion prevailed.

President Wade then appointed Inspectors Bath, of Ohio, and Baker, of Pennsylvania, as tellers to collect and count the ballots.

At this juncture, President Wade in a few well-fitting remarks thanked the convention for its many kind favors and consideration, but announced most emphatically that he was not a candidate for re-election, and asked as a favor that his name should not be presented or balloted for by any one. He mentioned his presidential career of eight years, and said that he believed that was honor enough for any member; that he believed that the office should be passed around to various deserving members, and hoped that the convention would understand that he was sincere.

THE VOTE FOR PRESIDENT.

on the informal ballot resulted as follows:—

Campbell, of Pennsylvania, 42 votes; O'Leary, of New York, 29; and a few scattering ballots were found credited to Knaub, of Ohio, Ward, of New Jersey, and Cox, of Michigan.

Upon motion of Inspector O'Roarke, of New York, the secretary was instructed to cast the vote of the convention for Chief Campbell of Pennsylvania, as its unanimous choice for president, and the same carried.

Mr. Anderson, of Missouri, was elected first vice-president.

Mr. A. J. Harris, of Illinois, was elected second vice-president.

Mr. James Mitchell, of Montreal, third vice-president.

Chief McAbee, of Indiana, fourth vice-president.

Chief J. L. Cox, of Michigan, was re-elected secretary-treasurer by a unanimous vote of the convention, and Isaac Mullen, of Massachusetts, was elected assistant secretary.

At the conclusion of the election of officers, with a few farewell remarks by President Wade, the convention adjourned its annual session to meet next at the call of the newly elected President Campbell, at a time and place to be stated in the future call. Adjourned.

Public buildings, as well as industrial establishments, are inspected under these laws.

MISSOURI.

No minor shall be required to clean machinery or to work between its transversing parts while it is in motion.

Inspectors have power to prevent overcrowding in all establishments where labor is employed, and can regulate heating, lighting, ventilating and other sanitary arrangements, and may order suitable mechanical means for carrying away dust and other impurities generated by manufacturing. And where females are employed at unclean work, wash and dress rooms must be provided, and stairs used by females must be properly screened, seats must be provided and conveniently located so that females can use them when not required to be on their feet, and where both sexes are employed separate and distinct water-closets must be provided for each sex.

✓ Belting, shafting, gearing and drums in all establishments must be safely and securely guarded, and all vats, pans, ladles or structures filled with molten metal or hot liquid, or any furnace, must be surrounded with safeguards, and all platforms, passageways and other arrangements about railroad yards must be made comparatively safe. The openings of hatchways, elevators and well holes must be protected by trap-doors, self-closing hatches or safety catches, or railing three feet high. Where guards are not practicable, notice of danger must be posted.

Establishments two or more stories high, in which twenty or more persons are employed above first floor, must be provided with fire-escapes, and in addition for every twenty persons employed above the second floor, one rope or other portable fire-escape; and each floor must be supplied with means for extinguishing fire. #### MINNESOTA.

The law forbids any parent or guardian to let or hire any minor under 21 years of age, nor must any person wilfully permit any child under 14 years to work at any employment injurious to health, dangerous to life and limb, or likely to deprave its morals.

Children under 16 years of age must not be permitted, nor must any woman be compelled to work more than ten hours in one day, or to work earlier than 7 a. m. nor later than 6 p. m. of any one day.

All workrooms must be well lighted, heated and ventilated and kept in clean condition. Exhaust fans must be adjusted for carrying dust from emery wheels and grindstones. Bakeries, including hotel and restaurant kitchens, must have no connection within or without the room with any water-closet, earth-closet, ash-pit or other nuisance, and employes or others are not to be permitted to live or sleep in bakeries.

The law is specific in authority and includes almost the whole range of machinery employed in industrial operations. It provides that saws, planers, wood-shapers, jointers, sandpapering machines, ironing mangles, set-screws, drums, belts, shafting, cables, fly-wheels, dynamos and other electrical apparatus and appliance, vats, pans and such other structures, and all dangerous places in and about factories and other works must be guarded. Loose pulleys must be adjusted where practicable, and shift-belts provided with shifters. All elevators and other floor openings must be fenced or otherwise protected, and all elevators supplied with safety devices.

In all factories and other buildings in which people are employed more than one means of egress must be provided. Doors leading therefrom must open outward and be kept unfastened and unobstructed during working hours. Hand-rails on stairways must be provided, and stairs properly screened when used by females. One or more fire-escapes shall be placed upon all factory and other such buildings if three or more stories in height. Plan of escape is defined by enactment.

Accidents to employes requiring the aid of a surgeon or resulting in death must be reported by employer within ten days after occurring.

MAINE.

No child under 12 years of age shall be employed in any manufacturing or mechanical establishment, nor any child under 15 years of age except during vacation of the public schools, unless such child has attended school sixteen weeks of each year preceding its 16th year. To secure employment every child must procure a certificate from the school authorities to the effect that the school laws are complied with, and it shall contain the age and birthplace of such child, and be kept on file for reference by the employer.

No female under 18 years of age and no male under 16 years of age shall work more than ten hours per day or sixty hours per week. The same rule applies to women over 18 years of age, with provision that the limit of overtime for women shall not exceed six hours in any one week or sixty hours in one year. Employers must post in every room where minors and women are employed a notice in large type regulating the hours of labor for such persons.

Whatever is discovered by the inspector which endangers the life or health of the employes in factory, workshop, mine, or quarry must be reported to the local board of health, who must investigate.

Every firm and corporation, including municipal corporations and excluding railroad corporations, employing more than ten persons, must pay fortnightly all wages earned by employes.

Such permit shall not be granted until an inspection of such premises is made by the factory inspector or one of his deputies. Said permit may be revoked by the factory inspector at any time the health of the community or of those so employed may require it. It shall be framed and posted in a conspicuous place in the room, or in one of the rooms to which it relates. There shall be sufficient means of ventilation provided in each workroom of every such establishment, and said workroom or rooms in said establishment shall be kept thoroughly clean, sanitary, and fit for occupancy for such work or business. The factory inspector, and deputy factory inspector, under the direction of the factory inspector, shall notify the owner, agent, or lessee in writing to provide, or cause to be provided, ample and proper means for ventilating such workroom or rooms, and to put said workroom or rooms in a thoroughly clean, sanitary, and fit condition, for occupancy for such work or business, and shall prosecute such owner, agent, or lessee if such notification be not complied with within ten days after the service of such notice; and any factory or shop under this act requiring exits or other safeguards provided for in the fire-escape law, the same shall be erected and located by order of factory inspector regardless of the exemption granted by any board of county commissioners, fire marshals, or other authorities, and if such alterations and additions are not made within sixty days from the date of such notice, or within such time as said alterations can be made with proper diligence upon the part of such proprietors, said proprietors or agents shall be deemed guilty of violating the provisions of this act.

§ 3. A printed copy of this act shall be furnished by the inspector for each workroom of every factory, manufacturing or mercantile house, where persons are employed who are affected by the provisions of this act, and it shall be the duty of the employer of the person employed therein to post and keep posted said printed copy of the law in each room.

§ 4. Any person who violates any of the provisions of this act, or refuses to comply with any requirements of the factory inspector or a deputy factory inspector as provided herein, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction shall be punished by a fine of not less than twenty dollars nor more than fifty dollars for a first offense, and not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars for a second offense, or imprisonment for not more than ten days, and for a third offense by a fine of not less than two hundred and fifty dollars and not more than thirty days' imprisonment.
